COURSE INFORMATION

This course is an introduction to moral philosophy. There are different sorts of moral appraisal. Some concern the evaluation of actions; for example, what makes right acts right? Others concern the evaluation of character. When is a person virtuous? Yet others concern the evaluation of persons. Under what conditions, for instance, is a person blameworthy for something? Still others concern the assessment of lives. When is a life good in itself for a person? We will examine moral theories of each of these types of appraisal.

COURSE OBJECTIVES/LEARNING OUTCOMES

1. Distinguish among different sorts of moral appraisal including appraisals of right and wrong, good and evil, virtue and vice, and moral responsibility.
2. Explain key ethical concepts, such as being obligatory, being intrinsically good, and being morally responsible.
3. Read and comprehend philosophical texts in ethics.
4. Critically analyze ethical issues to be discussed.
5. Write a convincing argument for or against fundamental ethical issues, such as whether pleasure is the sole intrinsic good or whether responsibility requires freedom to do otherwise, to be discussed.

6. Engage in constructive oral argumentation regarding relevant concepts, principles, or theories introduced in the course.

COURSE ASSESSMENT AND EVALUATION

Assessment Components and Grading Schemes

There will be four quizzes, the first worth 15% of the total grade, the second 35% of the total grade, and the last two each worth 15% of the total grade. In addition, there will be one paper worth 20% of the total grade. Writing and the grading thereof is a factor in evaluation. Writing should be clear, coherent, and to the point.

Each quiz will be posted on D2L under Assessments (Quizzes). You will be given 24 hours to complete the quiz. You will submit your finished quiz to D2L. Papers will also be submitted to D2L.

There will be no provisions for “extra-credit.” There will be no borderline adjustments to your final mean score for the course. For example, if your overall score (89%) is 1% short of an A (90%), your overall grade will not be changed from an A- to an A. A passing grade on any particular component of the course is not required for a pass in the course as a whole.
