ANTH 203: Introduction to Social Anthropology
Summer 2015

Course Outline

Time: TR 9:00-11:45
Location: MFH 164

Hours: Email for Appointment

TEACHING STYLE

I encourage student participation through responding to questions, asking questions, and class and small-group discussions. You'll learn more if you participate, and you'll have more fun.

Anthropology is about human beings in all our variety. In order to best represent the variations and similarities of our species I will make use of videos (some film-length and some short clips) and images.

The job of an anthropologist is to observe, participate, and take copious notes. I have designed this course so that you will be required to take notes during the lectures. Sometimes the readings and lectures will overlap considerably, at other times not so much. I recommend doing the readings in advance of the lectures to increase your level of comfort with the material, and in contributing to discussions.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The course takes a comparative approach to the ways people order their lives, and structure and give meaning to their experiences through gender, class, race, ethnicity, kinship, religion, language and so on. It looks at how human experience, including our own, is embedded within particular historical and cultural processes.

Emphasis will be on the diversity of human cultures and what is common to our species. This course will also emphasize the continuing relevance of anthropological examination and analysis in a globalizing world.

COURSE LEARNING OBJECTIVES

By the end of the course you will:

1. Demonstrate a basic understanding of the concepts, theories, methods, and central issues of social and cultural anthropology that will form the basis for future studies in socio-cultural anthropology and the social sciences in general.
2. Apply anthropological principles, methods, and concepts to critical thinking about Western culture and society.
3. Demonstrate an appreciation of the social and cultural diversity resulting from the variety of ways people have organised their lives and given meaning to their environment and their experiences.
4. Demonstrate the links between the individual, their social world, and global processes.

COURSE POLICIES

D2L Quiz

The first quiz will be completed online through D2L. The quiz will be available from the end of class on the scheduled day of the quiz (12:00 p.m.) to 9:00 p.m. that evening. The quiz will be timed, requiring you to complete the test within a specified time limit. It is important to ensure you have access to dependable power and internet service. If you have technical difficulties completing the exam (e.g., loss of internet connectivity, or accidentally submitting a blank quiz, etc.), inform the instructor immediately via email. Emails received outside of the allotted quiz-completion time period will not be considered and you will not be allowed to attempt this quiz again.

Missed Exams

A missed examination automatically receives a score of zero. In the event of an emergency or illness, notify the instructor (jilfinlay@ucalgary.ca) or the Department of Anthropology and Archaeology office (403-220-6516), preferably before the missed exam. Documentation (e.g., a doctor's note) may be requested before a make-up test will be scheduled. Midterms must be made up within one week of the scheduled exam date.

Returned Exams

Results of exams will be posted on D2L. Exams will NOT be returned to the student, but can be reviewed by appointment with the instructor. Exam reviews must be completed within one week of the grades being posted.

No accommodation will be made for poor performance on exams. For instance, additional items cannot be submitted in lieu of exams and the weighting of grades will not be modified. Be sure that you are prepared for exams so that you perform well when you have the opportunity.

Adjusted Grades

The instructor will implement a standard measure of adjustment for grades. Please do not request that the instructor increase or "round up" your final grade.

Email Policy

Students are encouraged to email the instructor with any concerns or questions regarding the course. Please use ANTH 203 in the subject line. If your question regards an issue that requires some depth, or a potential lengthy email exchange, the instructor may request a face-to-face meeting instead of a prolonged email response. As the instructor has many other duties, please note that it may take up to 48 hours to receive a reply, excluding weekends and statutory holidays.

Electronic Devices

Appropriate etiquette is required for use of any electronic devices in the classroom. Specifically, please do not distract other students or the instructor in your use of such devices. Cell phones should be turned off or placed on silent/vibrate during class, and any emergency phone calls answered outside of the lecture hall.

Unless approved by the instructor in advance, audio and visual recordings are banned. This is to protect both the rights of the instructor and the rights of every student.

ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION

It is the students' responsibility to request academic accommodations. If you are a student with a documented disability who may require academic accommodation and have not registered with Student Accessibility Services, please contact their office at (403) 220-8237 or visit their website: www.ucalgary.ca/access. Students who have not registered with Student Accessibility Services are not eligible for academic accommodation. You are also required to discuss your needs with your instructor no later than fourteen (14) days after the start of the course.

ACADEMIC HONESTY
