Course Description

Political anthropology is the comparative study of social organization and politics within human culture. This course will explore questions of politics, power, and social change from an anthropological and cross-cultural perspective. We will explore the theoretical development of political anthropology; how power is produced, reproduced, and contested; the development of social and political complexity in stateless societies and formative states; the social constructions of race, class, gender, and ethnicity; issues of globalization, development and neoliberalism; power relations between nations and communities; structural violence and human rights.

Readings

Students are expected to consult assigned readings in preparation for each class. The text is available at the University of Calgary Bookstore. Other readings, including articles and portions of electronic books, are accessible via library links provided on D2L, found under their assigned dates in the "Course Information" menu.

In the Bookstore:

1. Lewellen, Ted C. (2003) Political Anthropology: An Introduction (3rd Edition). Praeger Publishers.

Online Links:

2. Links to assigned articles can be found in the appropriate weekly folders within the D2L page. A valid U of C library account will be needed to sign in and follow the links.

Please consult the course outline and reading list, available on D2L, for daily topics, reading requirements, assignment and exam due dates.

Readings, Assignments, & Exams

The course will progress according to the detailed outline provided at the beginning of term and posted on D2L. Students are expected to arrive to class with required texts already read. Classes will consist of a lecture/discussion led by the professor on issues arising from daily topics, but not strictly mirroring material in required readings. Lectures will be supplemented by occasional guest lectures, videos and other media sources. Students are strongly encouraged to pose relevant questions and participate with appropriate and respectful commentary.

Final grade will be based on both individual and group coursework including: 1) in-class mid-term exam, 2) a group presentation, 3) a paper, and 4) a final take-home test. It is required to complete all coursework in order to calculate the final grade. The breakdown of grades is as follows:

Mid-term exam	25%
Group presentation	20%
Paper	25%
Final Test (Take-home)	30%

The dates of exams and assignments are strongly adhered to. All students must write the exam and submit their assignment on the scheduled day. Only in exceptional circumstances, with documentation, will an exam be rescheduled or a late assignment be accepted. An exam will only be rescheduled once and must be written then. A late assignment may be subject to late penalties. Talk to the professor as soon as you foresee any possible problems.

Accommodations:

In keeping with a philosophy of universal access to education, students may register with Student Accessibility Services located in MacEwan Hall room 452, or by phone (403) 220-8237, to arrange for academic accommodations. Those not registered are not eligible for such accommodations. See: <http://www.ucalgary.ca/access/>

Absences:

Absence from the in-class exams and tests or the group presentation, as well as the non-submission of assignments, must be justified with relevant documentation. If coursework is not submitted on time or an exam is missed, and in either of these cases an official and approved request for a changed deadline or exam time has not been made, the final course grade will be “fail due to absence.” Official requests must be made in person or in writing to the professor no later than one class prior to the scheduled deadline / exam and accompanied by valid documentation.

Late Submissions:

All late submissions may be penalized 5% per day, except in the case of medical or family emergencies, for which documentation must be provided. Given ample access to university facilities, computer or printing problems are not acceptable. Please remember to back up files of assignments and print hard copies at various stages. All late submissions should be presented either in person to the professor or to either Courtney Wright or Monika Davidson in the Department of Anthropology office, 6th floor, Earth Sciences. DO NOT SLIP ANY ASSIGNMENTS UNDER AN OFFICE DOOR (Professor’s or Department’s), as they will be dated whenever encountered and are at risk of loss. A yellow drop box on the table outside the Anthropology Department office door is for use after office hours, all assignments found within are date stamped at 4:30PM daily. It is recommended to retain an electronic copy of all submissions until the course is completed and final grade assigned.

Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act:

This course is conducted in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP). As one consequence, students should identify themselves on all written work by using their ID number. Also they will be required to provide a piece of picture identification in order to pick up an assignment or look at a final exam. For more information see also: <http://www.ucalgary.ca/secretariat/privacy>.

Plagiarism:

In your written work, when a piece of information or a quote is used from another person, due credit is required. Failure to attribute the source of ideas and to pass them off as one’s own is called plagiarism and is grounds for sanctions as imposed by the university. Full reference details must then be cited in the References Cited (bibliographic) section at the end of a document. Failure to do so constitutes plagiarism. Consult the university calendar for details about penalties and consequences of plagiarism. Provide a complete listing of those sources cited in the text and no others. References must be given in a standard academic format; anthropology uses a style guide based on APA that can be found on the American Anthropological Association webpage, a link to the AAA style guide is posted on D2L.

Note-taking and Instructor Availability:

It is not the instructor’s policy to provide lecture notes and/or Powerpoint presentations on D2L. Although this may be done as a means of assistance, it should not be treated as an alternative to note-taking, as it will occur only at the instructor’s timing and discretion. Students are expected to take their own notes and consult with peers over missed lectures. They are also encouraged to consult with the professor during office hours (meetings can also be arranged outside of listed office hours). Please regularly consult the course D2L page for news on classes, questions relating to readings, discussion points, and other useful information.

Registrar-Scheduled Final ExaminationNO

Electronic Devices in the Classroom

All cellular phones are expected to be turned off during class-time. Laptops are discouraged, but they may be used for note-taking by those sitting along the walls and at the back of the classroom. Should laptops become used for purposes not related to course material or in the designated areas of the classroom, this privilege may be removed for all class members. It is the instructor's preference that students take notes by hand, so that computers do not interfere with the social environment generated through class discussion.

Instructor Availability and Communications

Email will be replied to in a prompt fashion. Students can expect a reply within 48 hours (not including weekends or holidays), provided the email etiquette has been followed. In cases of scheduling difficulty with the listed office hours, alternative meetings to consult outside of class time can be arranged via email.

Email Etiquette

Please use your ucalgary.ca email address, or another email with an appropriate name. Include the class and a brief reason for your email in the subject line (when emailing from D2L the class is already included). Open your email with a salutation directed to me (for example, 'Hello Professor Chmilar'), do not use 'Hey'. If you have multiple questions, separate each into its own paragraph so all can be easily identified. Close your email by signing your name.
