Course Description

Introductory course in observational and representational drawing. Creative exploration includes mark-making, hand-eye co-ordination, proportions, perspective, line, texture, figure-ground relationships and pictorial composition. Approaches may include pencil, Conté, charcoal, pastel, pen and ink. These will be addressed in the context of research, problem-solving, visual fluency and conceptual development.

Prerequisites &/or Co-requisites

None

Objectives of the Course

This course will explore the theory and practice of drawing to produce still life and figure projects, mostly with monochromatic materials.

Students will also learn about significant historic and contemporary artists who use drawing as their primary means of creation as well as critical theory that directs the efforts of many artists in this medium.

Topics to be covered will include: drawing as social critique; drawing as process; drawing as meaning-making; drawing as disruptive force; drawing as observation; drawing as "truth" seeking and drawing as persuasion.

Textbooks and Readings

You are not required to purchase a textbook. Selected videos, podcasts and readings will be assigned throughout the term. You can find links to them on D2L and at <http://www.functionalstone.com/241/index.htm>

ASSIGNMENTS and EVALUATION

Six projects will be assigned, each worth 15% of the final grade. The instructor will use Zoom to present a synchronous, audio-visual lecture and demonstration to begin each project.

Due Dates

· Line Project	due September 23
· Value Project	due October 7
· Ink Wash Project	due October 26
· Exquisite Corpse Project	due November 16
· Banksy Project	due November 30
· Automated Drawing Project	due December 9

At the conclusion of each project, the class will conduct an online critique of the finished projects. Participation in these critiques, as well as engaging with the course by asking questions and making comments (during the critiques) will be the basis for a participation mark, which is worth 10% of the final grade. Please refer to the table below for details.

Projects may be reworked and then re-submitted for a better mark, provided the work is handed in before Dec 9, 2020. Final grades should be tabulated and posted by Dec 23, 2020.

We will discuss the breakdown of each project into “milestones” that must be met as the course unfolds so as to encourage student engagement and continual progress throughout the semester.

Writing

Writing is not required in this course, but it is highly recommended that the student prepare for critiques by recording her thoughts in a journal or a sketchbook prior to each critique.

A passing grade is not necessary for any particular assignment to pass this course, but all assignments must be submitted for grading to receive a final grade in this course.

It is the student's responsibility to ensure that all projects are submitted for evaluation according to the timetable above.

If any of the projects are missed, the student must notify the instructor and arrange to submit the project as soon as possible.

Registrar-Scheduled Final Exam

N.A.

Note: It is the student's responsibility to keep a copy of or any relevant documentation regarding each submitted assignment.

Late Assignment Policy

All projects must be completed and submitted for marking by the dates listed above. If a component of the course is missed, the student must make arrangements to complete the work within the timeframe of the current semester.

Late assignments, without a doctor's note, will be reduced by 5% per day.

Writing/Plagiarism

Writing skills are not exclusive to English courses and, in fact, should cross all disciplines. The University supports the belief that throughout their University careers, students should be taught how to write well so that when they graduate their writing abilities will be far above the minimal standards required at entrance. Consistent with this belief, students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their University courses and, where appropriate, members of faculty can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Support Services can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.

For more information go to

<http://www.ucalgary.ca/ssc/writing-support>

or

<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/e-2.html>

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university. Visual art projects submitted for course credit must be produced by the student specifically for this class. Students must not submit projects if credit has or will be provided for it in another class. This includes re-worked assignments from previous or concurrent courses, unless permission is provided in writing by the instructor. Additionally, the student is asked to be mindful of using visual sources from the internet, ensuring that that material is not derived from any on-line or other available source, and that appropriate copyright permission is granted, when required.
