Course Description

Extends the range of concepts and practices in drawing to include pictorial space.

Prerequisites &/or Co-requisites

Art 241

Objectives of the Course

This course is designed to provide the student with an opportunity to explore the range of materials, processes, and ideas related to the depiction of pictorial spaces: architectural interiors and exteriors, landscapes, cityscapes and dreamscapes. While it is a studio-based course, there will also be opportunities to engage in viewing and responding to historical and contemporary works of art.

Students will also explore various aspects of art history and criticism so as to become more knowledgeable about the importance of the pictorial space in fine art and in pop culture and to develop skills in representing illusory space in two-dimensional art.

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, the student will demonstrate:

- understanding of compositional vocabulary and concepts;
- growth of skill in the handling of art materials and processes;
- awareness of, and appreciation for, the role of illusory pictorial space in fine art and in pop culture.

Textbooks and Readings

You are not required to purchase a textbook. Selected videos, podcasts and readings will be assigned throughout the term. You can find links to them on D2L and at <http://www.functionalstone.com/241/index.htm>

ASSIGNMENTS and EVALUATION

Marks are based on term work and will depend on the following:

- Five studio projects will be assigned, each worth 16% of the final mark.
NOTE: A passing grade is not necessary for each and every project, but all projects must be completed to pass the course.
- Meeting milestones (a weekly submission of one image to show your progress in each assignment) is worth 10%.
- Participation in discussions and critiques (i.e., asking questions and making comments) is worth 10%.

Evaluation will be based on...

1. Evidence within the work of an understanding about the structure of illusory spaces, using various techniques such as aerial perspective, linear perspective, scale, shading and lighting.
2. Evidence within the work that the tools and techniques were used correctly and that the student has paid attention to details.
3. The student's level of commitment to the course, as evidenced by meeting deadlines (see the timetable below) and by participating in critiques.

Due Dates

•	2-Point Interior Project	due September 24
•	3-Point Exterior Project	due October 13
•	Aerial Landscape Project	due October 29
•	Scale Project	due November 19
•	Dreamscape Project	due December 8

Projects may be reworked and then re-submitted for a better mark, provided the work is handed in before the last class on Dec 8, 2020. Final grades should be tabulated and posted by Dec 23, 2020.

Writing

Writing is not required in this course, but it is highly recommended that the student prepare for critiques by recording her thoughts in a journal or a sketchbook prior to each critique.

A passing grade is not necessary for any particular assignment to pass this course, but ALL assignments must be submitted to receive a final grade in this course. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that all projects are submitted for evaluation according to the timetable above. If any of the projects are missed, the student must notify the instructor and arrange to submit the project as soon as possible.

Registrar-Scheduled Final Exam

NO

Note: It is the student's responsibility to keep a copy of or any relevant documentation regarding each submitted assignment.

Please hand in your assignments directly to your instructor. We will discuss the breakdown of each project into "milestones" that must be met as the course unfolds so as to encourage student engagement and continual progress throughout the semester.

Late Assignment Policy

All projects must be completed and submitted for marking by the dates listed above. If a component of the course is missed, the student must make arrangements to complete the work within the timeframe of the current semester.

Late assignments, without a doctor's note, will be reduced by 5% per day.

Writing/Plagiarism

Writing skills are not exclusive to English courses and, in fact, should cross all disciplines. The University supports the belief that throughout their University careers, students should be taught how to write well so that when they graduate their writing abilities will be far above the minimal standards required at entrance. Consistent with this belief, students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their University courses and, where appropriate, members of faculty can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Support Services can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university. Visual art projects submitted for course credit must be produced by the student specifically for this class. Students must not submit projects if credit has or will be provided for it in another class. This includes re-worked assignments from previous or concurrent courses, unless permission is provided in writing by the instructor. Additionally, the student is asked to be mindful of using visual sources from the internet, ensuring that that material is not derived from any on-line or other available source, and that appropriate copyright permission is granted, when required.
