Prerequisites &/or Co-requisites

N.A.

Objectives of the Course

ART 377 is an introduction to serigraphy (silkscreen/ screenprint), which emphasizes the development of technical, artistic, ideation, and communication skills. In this course, students will learn the technical skills necessary to execute three screenprint projects. Through regular discussion and critique students will respond to critical feedback and think and communicate critically and constructively, while developing their formal as well as conceptual vocabulary and creative skills in screenprint. This course begins to develop essential abilities that will be added to in subsequent visual art courses including Advanced Topics in Printmaking.

Students will:

Demonstrate a thorough understanding of screenprint practices and techniques by completing three major screenprint projects.

Apply and manipulate observed screenprint techniques including but not limited to: printing a flat, degredé, direct stencil and creating and printing analogue positives as well as basic photo-positives and installation.

Develop imagery for each project that shows creative vision and individuality through the understanding and application of elements and principals of art.

Respectfully evaluate their classmate's work, offering supportive formal and conceptual feedback by contributing during discussion and critique.

Succinctly summarize and communicate formal and conceptual information about their own work, responding in a professional manor to feedback and, when appropriate, employing their peers and instructor's feedback.

Demonstrate respect for others and themselves by being prepared for class, being punctual and present, effectively communicating, maintaining cleanliness, and working safely and responsibly.

Illustrate an understanding of professional print practices by organizing and editing all work required work into each portfolio.

Gain an understanding of the conceptual potential of screenprint within contemporary art.

Textbooks and Readings

There are no required textbooks for this course however course materials will be made available through d2L and in a class reference binder located in the studio.

Assignments and Evaluation

Each assignment will be evaluated using a rubric which will be provided at the beginning of that assignment.

Portfolio 1: Sustain

Students will be introduced to materials, processes, and techniques, necessary to produce an edition of screenprints. They will consider the theme of "Sustainability" as they develop imagery and will collaboratively create a gallery installation with their prints.

Weight: 25%

Due: February 11th, 2pm

Portfolio 2: Transforming Futures

Building on skills gained in Portfolio 1, students will create a multilayer print, based off of a found object sculpture they create. Students will conceptually consider notions of transformation and possible futures.

Weight: 30%

Due March 19th, 4:30pm

Portfolio 3: Looking Close

Building on skills gained in Portfolios 1 and 2, students will create a multilayer print that incorporates at least one photomechanical layer. Students will choose a topic that they would like to "look closely" at in order to develop a concept for their work.

Weight: 35%

Due April 14th, 2pm

Participation

Unexcused absences and lateness will result in a lowered participation grade. Participation also includes preparedness and engagement in class-activities including demonstrations, lectures, discussions and critiques. Students are responsible for letting the instructor know in advance if they must miss a class and are responsible for catching up on missed material. If you miss any in class demonstrations, you are required to set up an appointment with the instructor before attempting to use required materials or equipment. The instructor must observe your safe use of all equipment and materials before you are able to work independently. A rubric for participation will be available on d2L.

Attendance 2.5%

Punctuality 2.5%

Preparedness 2.5%

Engagement 2.5%

Total Weight: 10%

Writing

As part of Portfolio 3, students will be asked to write a statement which will be evaluated as part of that project grade. Clarity and connectedness to the artwork will be considered during evaluation.

Additionally, students will be asked to complete short in-class writing activities as part of critiques throughout the semester. Participation in class activities is considered vital to student's success in this course though they will not be graded specifically on this writing.

It is not necessary to achieve a passing grade on any particular component in order to pass the course as a whole.

Students should contact the instructor via email if they are absent from one or more classes or if they have missed any component of this course.

Registrar-Scheduled Final Exam – NO

Note: It is the student's responsibility to keep a copy of or any relevant documentation regarding each submitted assignment.

Please hand in your assignments directly to your instructor. If this is not possible, you can use the drop box outside of AB 608. Assignments that are put into the drop box will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox.

Late Assignment Policy

Each student will be granted a two-day late bank. This means that a one or two-day extension can be added to any portfolio submission deadline throughout the semester. Once you have used a total of a two days of extension, the unexcused late submission policy below will be employed.

An unexcused late submission of any project will result in the reduction of 5% per day from that project to maximum of -15%. Extensions may be granted only for extenuating circumstances at the discretion of the instructor. Should you anticipate needing an excused extension, please contact the instructor before the deadline.

Writing/Plagiarism

Writing skills are not exclusive to English courses and, in fact, should cross all disciplines. The University supports the belief that throughout their University careers, students should be taught how to write well so that when they graduate their writing abilities will be far above the minimal standards required at entrance. Consistent with this belief, students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their University courses and, where appropriate, members of faculty can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Support Services can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university. Visual art projects submitted for course credit must be produced by the student specifically for this class. Students must not submit projects if credit has or will be provided for it in another class. This includes re-worked assignments from previous or concurrent courses, unless permission is provided in writing by the instructor. Additionally, the student is asked to be mindful of using visual sources from the internet, ensuring that that material is not derived from any on-line or other available source, and that appropriate copyright permission is granted, when required.
