There are no assigned textbooks for this class, however, students can expect to be assigned journal articles weekly (approx. 15-20 pages/week). Because the field of MHST is constantly evolving, many readings will be drawn from online sources.

Participation (Attendance, Preparedness, Engagement, In-class assignments (worksheets, discussions, etc.))

As much as possible, MHST 331 will be taught as a seminar. It is critical, therefore, that students have readings completed in advance and be ready to discuss them in class. Students will be asked to prepare questions based on the readings and lead class discussion (a list of assigned discussants will be prepared). Students may also be asked to review selected exhibitions, films and news items, sharing their thoughts with the class.

MHST 331 will include a number of workshops utilizing collections and expertise from across the University and the city of Calgary. In these cases students must have their readings done and be prepared to actively participate in the session. Some workshops may include worksheets/exercises to be completed in class. While ungraded, these must demonstrate students' evolving understanding of the topic.

Failure to do in-class assignments (without reasonable cause) will result in a loss of up to half of the participation mark.

Writing

Writing is an essential part of this class and will be graded.

Registrar-Scheduled Final Exam – NO

Students are not required to achieve a passing grade on any particular component of the course in order to pass the course as a whole.

Note: It is the student's responsibility to keep a copy of or any relevant documentation regarding each submitted assignment.

Please hand in your assignments directly to your instructor. If this is not possible, you can use the drop box outside of AB 608. Assignments that are put into the drop box will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox.

Late Assignment Policy

Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of a letter grade (e.g., A- to B+) for each day they are late, except with doctor's note or other legitimate reason.

Additional Information

Students may be required to attend an off-campus event during class time and may be responsible for transportation and entrance fees.

Writing/Plagiarism

Writing skills are not exclusive to English courses and, in fact, should cross all disciplines. The University supports the belief that throughout their University careers, students should be taught how to write well so that when they graduate their writing abilities will be far above the minimal standards required at entrance. Consistent with this belief, students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their University courses and, where appropriate, members of faculty can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Support Services can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university. Visual art projects submitted for course credit must be produced by the student specifically for this class. Students must not submit projects if credit has or will be provided for it in another class. This includes re-worked assignments from previous or concurrent courses, unless permission is provided in writing by the instructor. Additionally, the student is asked to be mindful of using visual sources from the internet, ensuring that that material is not derived from any on-line or other available source, and that appropriate copyright permission is granted, when required.
