PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Alberta Health Services, Research Portfolio, Edmonton, Alberta
Director, Health Technology Assessment and Innovation

Nov 2009-Present

A seasoned health care leader with demonstrable leadership results in strategic management, administration, education, and research. Responsible for the leadership, development and implementation of the inaugural health technology assessment and innovation program at Alberta Health Services. Collaborating with clinical leaders, senior executives, internal and external research community stakeholders, government as well as other provincial and national stakeholders to develop province wide organization structures, processes, and enablers that facilitate the effective use of high quality research evidence, health technology assessments, reassessments, to drive innovation and inform policy and decisions. The program development is focused on assessment and appraisal, access through evidence development, disinvestment, innovation, evaluation and knowledge management. In this role I lead a team developing an integrated and coordinated program for the advancement of the health research and innovation agenda at AHS and Alberta generally. Close and effective working relationships with government, universities, research funding agencies, research transfer offices, industry and health care providers is essential. Successfully collaborated with and leveraged national and international partners to advance best practices in these domains.

Juzwishin Consulting Inc., Edmonton, Alberta

Aug 2007 – Sept 2008

Chief Executive Officer of Canada's national independent organization responsible for monitoring and reporting on the progress of the 2003 and 2004 health accords. Lead the development and implementation of the Health Council's five year strategic plan and annual work plans. Prepared and released 13 publications culminating in the Rekindling Reform: Health Care Renewal in Canada 2003 – 2008. Lead the development and presentation of a submission on the progress of health care reform to the Parliamentary Committee on Health. Prepared and presented a brief to the Senate Committee on Aging in Place. Developed and sustained relationships with provincial jurisdictions and national counterparts with a focus on health reform priorities. Successfully lead the organization's development to increase the Council's effectiveness and relevance within the broader Canadian health care landscape. Recruited and assembled a competent senior management team. Identified and championed opportunities for health care reform and renewal for Canadians, health care policy makers and decision makers. Introduced and implemented a performance management program for all staff linking the organization mission, values and objectives to individual roles and performance expectations.

Institute of Health Economics, Edmonton, Alberta

Director, Health Technology Assessment

Jul 2006 – Nov 2006

Provided leadership to achieve the successful transfer of the Health Technology Assessment program from the Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research to the Institute of Health Economics. My assistant director, who I mentored for 8 years, succeeded to position of Director.

Alberta Heritage Foundation for Medical Research, Edmonton, Alberta

Director, Health Technology Assessment

Aug 1999 – Jun 2006

Responsible for providing leadership, management and best practice in research methods to the Health Technology Assessment Unit (HTA) as well as encouraging and facilitating the use of high quality evidence to inform policy making in the Alberta health care system. Lead the development and implementation of innovative processes (regional HTA) and methods in the province that helped health care policy and decision makers, as well as providers evaluate the properties and effects of health care technology. Initiated the development of an innovative dissemination program (Ambassador Program) to support health care decisions at local, regional, national, and international levels. Advanced international best practices for the unit and became an influential leader and contributor to the International Network of Agencies in Health Technology Assessment and the Health Technology Assessment International. Served as chair of the INAHTA Education and Training Working Group and served as chair of the HTAi public agencies interest group. Instrumental in developing the research capacity to perform and use health technology assessment in the province (Universities of Alberta and Calgary, Calgary Health Region, Capital Health Region, Palliser Health Region) as well as building the receptor capacity to use the evidence in policy and decision making. Forged partnerships and collaborations with the private sector through the Metro Edmonton Health Industry Association and Medical Devices Association of Canada. Partnerships were forged with the University of Alberta and University of Calgary to advance the education and research capabilities in the fields of health technology assessment, public health sciences and community health sciences. Service delivery was expanded to respond to social service policy issues requiring the application of qualitative research methods for the departments of Children's Services and Alberta Learning. Provided leadership and support to develop the intellectual capital in health and medical research in the province through a direct commitment to investment in people, building partnerships and advancing strategic leveraged associations that amount to significant multiplier effects for the benefit of Albertans.

Successfully met the challenge to recruit, retain and inspire an excellent cadre of health technology researchers who are internationally recognized for their core competencies and committed to research at the very highest standard of scientific excellence, integrity, timeliness and policy relevance. The staff of the unit has attained international reputations of excellence and is invited to make presentations of their work.

Ministry of Health, Victoria, BC
Director Accountability, Standards and Policy

May 1997 - Jun 1998

Appointed to lead and develop a new division at the Ministry of Health to implement a framework of accountability between the Ministry of Health and the newly formed health authorities in BC. The accountability system was to:

- Describe the accountability reporting relationship between the health care authorities, the Ministry of Health and the provincial legislature;
- Define and clarify the roles and responsibilities of the Ministry of Health and the health authorities;
- Introduce and develop mechanisms for measuring, monitoring and reporting on the performance of the health care system to the legislature and citizens of British Columbia;
- Lead the development and implementation of standards of performance for health services in the provincial health care system; and
- Develop and implement a policy framework reflecting the new roles of the Ministry of Health and regionalized governance structures.

The initiatives undertaken by this portfolio were in collaboration with several health care leaders in British Columbia collaborating with all regional health authorities and the Office of the Auditor General on the development of an accountability framework.
