REQUIRED TEXTBOOKS:

J. Griffiths Pedley, Greek Art and Archaeology. (5th ed.)

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

This course is a comprehensive survey of the art and archaeology of Greece from the Bronze Age to the end of the Hellenistic Age. The course will begin with an introduction to the prehistoric civilizations of the Minoans and Mycenaeans as seen through the lenses of their artistic achievements and the archaeological record. The course will then proceed chronologically to examine the various contexts (e.g., mythological, political, social, and economical) in which artisans produced their works (e.g., architecture, sculpture, vase painting) within the "Greek" world. In addition to providing you with a survey of the major art forms, you will also be asked to think critically about how ancient writers and modern scholars alike have viewed such works.

Please note that slides from PowerPoint presentations do form a major component of the lectures, making regular attendance important for success in the course. You are responsible for all of the material discussed in class, including the visual material, as well as the information provided within the required, and any assigned supplementary, readings. Examinations are based upon all of these components.

A detailed reading list will be supplied for you on the first day of class outlining required readings and important dates. You will also have access to Blackboard.
