FACULTY OF ARTS
DEPARTMENT OF CLASSICS AND RELIGION

RELS 201.01 *World Religions - Western

FALL 2015

Time: Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, 1:00-1:50pm

Instructor: Dr. David A. Bergen, SS 540, 403-220-7063, dabergen@ucalgary.ca

Office hours: 10:00 and 11:00 on Monday (or by appointment)

Textbook: Naturalization of Western Religion (Bergen), available online through Kendall-Hunt ($30.00USD). Additional web-based materials (links to be posted in D2L).

Description and Objectives:

When asked “from where does religion originate,” a religious adherent would typically respond unequivocally with an answer directed generally towards the heavens. This course offers a more earth-bound answer to the question. Drawing on research in anthropology, cognitive science, evolutionary biology, sociology, ecology, and continental theory, an interdisciplinary exploratory answer uncovers surprising sources for some of humanity’s most transcendent thoughts and sacred acts. Specific attention will be devoted to those thoughts and beliefs, rituals and behaviours that (in)form western society and culture. In doing so, students will come to realize just how intertwined are their day-to-day life activities with the lived experience of humans past and present, a vast web of human outpouring whose fundamental purpose has been (and remains) the competitive survival of naturally selected groups.

Course Assessments:

The assessments in the course will involve five equally weighted tests and one quiz. Each test will include a variety of testing formats. Note: There is no essay component in this course.

Student Responsibilities:

The potential to succeed in this course is increased if students:

- enter in their personal calendar all deadlines pertinent to the assessments of this course (see schedule in D2L);
- read thoroughly the assigned pages prior to the writing of each quiz (see schedule posted in D2L, Course Information);
- study hard, allotting sufficient time prior to each quiz for rereading of textbook material and lecture information;
- reread vigilantly all vital information and documents pertinent to this course: outline, schedule, email messages, announcements, and so on;
- attend (to) all the lectures. Note: A significant advantage to class-based courses is interactive engagement with the instructor and classmates. Students may, if they wish, utilize/access electronic devices during class lectures. However, choosing to do so comes at a cost: electronic device users must sit at the back of the room, where they will not disturb other students and where they will disrupt minimally the professor. Furthermore, students who give their undivided attention to both the course and the instructor will be given priority attention during discussion, Q&A sessions, and office visits. Attention returned for attention given—such is the economy of all human social interactions.

Assessment Details:

Please note these important details:

- tests (and assignments) must be written/submitted on the dates scheduled. No exceptions will be made, except for death, significant illness, or domestic affliction (corroborated by a valid, original note from a physician or counselor). - tests are non-cumulative and will entail typical academic testing formats. The assessments employed will be geared to rewarding students who are conscientious in their attendance, participation, and preparation of classes;
- a passing grade on any of the assessments is not essential for passing the course;
- no remedial assignments are available in this course;
- there is no registrar-scheduled final exam for this course;
- online tests submitted after the deadline will be penalized 5% for every day (or part thereof) overdue;
