Course Description:

Please note that this course will run from Tuesday 1st Sept - Saturday 5th Sept. Please ensure you are able to attend all day, each day of the course

This course will run for 5 days during block week from 9 am to approximately 5 pm daily. Success in this block week course requires full attendance, thorough preparation and engagement with the material and, of course, prompt submission of all assessed requirements. Failure to complete and submit all assessed course requirements will result in a grade of F for the course. NO extensions will be permitted and NO late papers/assignments will be accepted without a medical certificate.

Students should be aware of the following important regulations concerning Block Week courses: The last day to drop a Block Week course (without the course appearing on the student's transcript) is the end of the first day of lectures. The last day to withdraw from a Block Week course is the final day of lectures during the Block Week. Final grades for Block Week courses will not be required until the end of the term in which the course is offered.

This is a mid-level course aimed at examining how religious, non-religious and anti-religious perspectives have been expressed through the medium of film – and how film has forced us to interrogate the nature of religion. We will be interested in exploring various philosophical issues arising out of the filmmaker's interaction with culture and the way in which these interactions relate to wider religious traditions, themes, practices and concerns. Through an examination of certain key philosophical writings as well as careful analyses of a selection of films, we will interrogate the notion of religion as a system of meaning production as well as the uses to which film has been put in expressing these meanings.

Core Competencies:

Committed students in this class will have the opportunity to reflect on some key issues in the study of religion and film and in so doing will gain critical reading, interpretive and analytic skills. Additionally, students will begin to acquire abilities in forming clear, concise and cogent arguments, develop their writing and communication skills and broaden their perspectives on the place of religion in contemporary visual culture. Skills acquired in this course will have relevance in upper level courses in the humanities as well as in wider social settings. Knowledge acquired in this course will help students reflect more clearly and critically on the relationship between religion and culture and on their own religious or irreligious narratives

Course Requirements:

Date	Assessment	Weight (%)
Sept 1 st	In-class exam covering pre-reading materials	20
Sept 5	In-class assignment covering week's readings	30
Sept 5	Written exam on film clips	10
Sept 9	2000 word essay due to Dept of Classics and Religion by Noon in hard copy.	40
There is no registrar scheduled exam for this course

Please note: No emailed or electronic versions of the paper will be accepted – only a paper copy due by NOON to the Dept of Classics and Religion, Social Sciences 558. Paper topics will be made available on the last day of class after 5pm

Grading

A numerical mark will be given for each course requirement. A letter grade will be assigned on the following number and letter grade scheme, standardized within the Department of Classics and Religion:

A+	100 - 96	A	95 - 90	A-	89 - 85
B+	84 - 80	B	79 - 75	B-	74 - 70
C+	69 - 65	C	64 - 60	C-	59 - 55
D+	54 - 53	D	52-50	F	Under 50

Policy with regard to missed assignments/assessments:

NB:  Failure to write an exam or submit an assessment will result in an F in this part of the course. Given the compressed nature of the course NO exceptions or rescheduling will be allowed without extremely extenuating circumstances and must be accompanied by relevant medical certificates, etc. This is to help ensure that the course is completed in the required time. Students who know or suspect that they will be unable to attend the class regularly or have to miss one of the assessment dates should consider their participation in this course.

Expectations for student conduct in this course:

Please see handout on how to be a student in Dr. Ruparell's classes.

Electronic Device Policy:

No electronic devices may be used during the course apart from those required for accessibility reasons according to the DRC. This includes laptops, phones, recording devices or other communication devices. This is partly to avoid distraction caused by screens during viewings of the films but also because of the ample evidence of the deleterious effects on learning.

Syllabus:

A complete syllabus will be made available the first week of class.

References and Bibliography:

The Department of Classics and Religion uses the most recent edition of the Chicago Manual of Style and requires references and bibliographies to adhere to the Chicago citation system. You can find a quick guide here: http://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools_citationguide.html. Alternatively please consult with the library staff for help and advice using the Chicago citation style.

Academic Honesty

Plagiarism is not tolerated at the University of Calgary and has serious consequences. Your essays/presentations must be your own work and inadequate referencing may be seen as plagiarism. Please see the relevant sections on Academic Misconduct in the current University Calendar (section K, which can be found here: <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html>). If you have questions about correct referencing, please consult your instructor, or librarian staff.

Student Accommodation

Students seeking an accommodation based on disability or medical concerns should contact Student Accessibility Services; SAS will process the request and issue letters of accommodation to instructors. For additional information on support services and accommodations for students with disabilities, visit www.ucalgary.ca/access/.

Students who require an accommodation in relation to their coursework based on a protected ground other than disability should communicate this need in writing to their Instructor. The full policy on Student Accommodations is available at http://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/student-accommodation-policy_0.pdf.
