COURSE CALENDAR STATEMENT:

In-depth study of the historical developments of Hinduism (Vedic, Classical, Medieval, Modern) in a seminar or independent study format.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This seminar is an in-depth exploration of the narrative literatures of classical Hinduism. Focusing on the genres of katha (fable), itihasa (epic), and purana (myth), we will examine the ways in which narrative conveys religious and moral value. The interpretation of narrative through the lenses of both classical Indian and contemporary western literary theories will be a central concern of the class. By the end of this course, students will develop a familiarity with the literary corpus of classical Hindu narrative and a detailed understanding of a few seminal narrative texts. In addition, students will be well-versed in the critical questions and issues pertaining to the role of narrative literature in religious culture.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

Students will have a strong familiarity with classical texts of the Hindu narrative genres, particularly those texts associated with the god Krishna. They will also have a basic understanding of the theoretical frames used to interpret these texts in religious studies.

*LEARNING RESOURCES

REQUIRED TEXTS:

Occasionally, class will be held on Zoom to allow for the participation of guest lecturers. Students will be advised of these dates in advance.

CLASS SCHEDULE

A syllabus with a schedule of classes will be distributed on the first day of class.

*EXAMINATIONS

There is no registrar-scheduled exam for this course.

*ASSESSMENT COMPONENTS

1. Participation (30%): Regular class attendance and thorough, thoughtful reading of assigned texts are essential to a successful seminar. Participation grades will be determined by the quality of each student's daily preparedness and contributions to regular class discussions.
2. Presentations (15% x 2): Each student will sign up for two classes to give oral presentations on the week's readings and lead discussion. Students may work individually or with a partner on their presentations. Guidelines on expectations for presentations will be distributed in class.
3. Final Paper (40%): Undergraduate students will submit a 12-15 page research paper on a topic of their choice (related to the course content, of course). Further details on the requirements for the final paper will be distributed and discussed in class. The research paper is a project in which students will engage throughout the semester. To this end, students will be asked to submit a term-paper research proposal on Monday, February 27 and to schedule an appointment to discuss their research proposal with the instructor during the week of February 27-March 3. Failure to submit the research proposal or schedule an appointment with the instructor will result in a 15-point reduction in the student's final paper grade. The final paper is due April 17 by 11:59 PM and should be submitted to the D2L drop box

SEXUAL VIOLENCE POLICY

The University recognizes that all members of the University Community should be able to learn, work, teach and live in an environment where they are free from harassment, discrimination, and violence. The University of Calgary's sexual violence policy guides us in how we respond to incidents of sexual violence, including supports available to those who have experienced or witnessed sexual violence, or those who are alleged to have committed sexual violence. It provides clear response procedures and timelines, defines complex concepts, and addresses incidents that occur off-campus in certain circumstances.
