Course Description:

This course includes the basic tools and methodology of engineering economic studies. Topics include basic economic concepts, investment decisions, theory of replacement, project evaluation with taxes and depreciation, social decision making and government projects. Examples are drawn from the textbook and various engineering projects.

Course Objectives/Learning Outcomes:

The objective of this course is to introduce the engineering student to the discipline of economics and its importance in the field of engineering. The first part of the course looks at the broad definition of economics and an overall view of Canada's economy in comparison to other economic systems. In particular, we look at the important macroeconomic issues such as GDP, inflation and the importance of investment spending and the banking system. Since the interest rate is the firm's financial cost of capital, we explore the role of the Bank of Canada and its relationship with other financial institutions in determining short-term interest rates.

The second (and most comprehensive) part of the course examines the time value of money and how engineers use the time value of money to make important economic decisions. In this section, we examine how interest rates and different compounding periods influence the future value of various capital investments. Future value and present value of annuities, bond and mortgages are also explored. Once we get a solid foundation in this area, we then use these tools to determine the net present value, internal rate of return and payback period of various investment options, which includes depreciation and taxes. Replacement analysis of equipment is also examined. The last part of the course explores the economic evaluation of public projects where the goal is to maximize social welfare instead of profits.

The official grading system will be used. See <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-1-1.html>.

If a student's letter grade on the final exam exceeds their midterm(s) letter grade, the weight of the midterm(s) is (are) transferred to the final exam. The student must have written the midterm(s) or provided supporting documentation for the absence(s) such as a medical note or statutory declaration.

As per the Writing Across the Curriculum Statement in the Calendar, writing and grading thereof will be a factor in the evaluation of student work.
