LAND ACKNOWLEDGEMENT:

The University of Calgary is located on the traditional territories of the people of the Treaty 7 region in Southern Alberta, which includes the Blackfoot Confederacy (comprising the Siksiká, Piikáni, and Káínai First Nations), as well as the Tsúùt'ínà First Nation, and the Stoney Nakoda (including the Chiniki, Bearspaw, and Wesley First Nations). The City of Calgary is also home to Métis Nation of Alberta, Region III.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Bodies (human or otherwise) have long been central to concepts of representation throughout literary history. Bodies navigate the worlds around them – bodies move through story, encounter other bodies unlike their own, face conflict, grapple with selfhood and difference, and sometimes change or evolve. And through the metaphor of the body, texts can also provoke bigger considerations – bodies of land, bodies of power, even how “shape-based” text is arranged on the page; each can spark political discussion. This course covers a range of creative representations throughout history, through different genres of writing, moving from early forms of normativity and difference, to authors who destabilize binaries, and modern interpretations of how a politics of selfhood are explored. This course considers the importance of embodiment and identity; it also examines the extent to which representation both reflects the concerns of a text's cultural moment, and continues to speak to ours. It will encourage students to consider the extent to which literature engages with embodied politics, mindful of gender, race, ability, sexual orientation, land and location. In so doing, the course will prompt students to confront their own paradigmatic views of selfhood, and encourage the class to think critically about the ways in which authors have either repressed or reflected the concerns of marginalized communities throughout history.

This course will take place online via Desire2Learn (D2L) and Zoom. Students will attend a total of 24 live Zoom seminars during this course (23 lectures; 1 in-class Mid-Term Exam.) Wednesday, September 9 is the Course Introduction, and all students are required to attend. To best succeed in the course, students are encouraged to participate in all asynchronous learning tasks, course readings, and assignments using D2L, in addition to synchronous Zoom seminars and office hours.

Online office hours will be held each week before class, both Mondays and Wednesdays from 14.00-15.00 MST. Students are encouraged to attend office hours for assistance with their critical thinking and academic writing, and with any questions they may have regarding the course readings.

When unable to participate in the live Zoom seminars due to the time difference or unforeseen circumstances, students are encouraged to inform the Instructor in advance and propose and implement an alternative participation activity (e.g. watch the Zoom seminar recordings, submit a brief reflection, and actively contribute to any follow-up online discussions, including the required “Group Discussion Thread Posts.”)

The course is designed to develop students’ skills in critical reading and effective, logical writing. Students will produce at least 2000 words of formal, academic writing during the semester, and there will be an end-of-term registrar-scheduled exam. There will be no multiple-choice grading in this course.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES:

This course has the following learning outcomes:

- 1) To develop students close reading, which, among other things, requires a student to realize that a text is constructed, and not a transparent reflection of reality;
- 2) To introduce students to a range of technical terms and critical tools with which to interpret texts;
- 3) To provide instruction in how to write a strong, well-supported, clearly written academic essay. This includes introducing students to the idea of writing as a process by guiding them through the various stages of composition and teaching students how to create effective arguments;
- 4) To introduce students to proper documentation, including what constitutes plagiarism;
- 5) To advance students library research skills: how to search and locate reference works, books and articles, both electronic and print; and how to use print and online resources responsibly and thoughtfully;
- 6) To encourage students to engage with other scholars, by asking them to respond to critical texts in their academic writing.

LEARNING TECHNOLOGIES AND REQUIREMENTS:

In order to successfully engage in their learning experiences at the University of Calgary, students taking online, remote and blended courses are required to have reliable access to the following technology:

- A computer with a supported operating system, as well as the latest security and malware updates;
- A current and updated web browser;
- Webcam (built-in or external);
- Microphone and speaker (built-in or external), or headset with a microphone;
- Current antivirus and/or software enabled;
- A secure and reliable broadband internet connection.

This is a synchronous, online course taught via D2L and Zoom. There is a D2L site for this course that contains required readings and other relevant class resources and materials (see: d2l.ucalgary.ca)

ASSIGNMENTS AND EVALUATION:

Practice Essay Plan – Due Sunday, October 4, 11:59pm on D2L Dropbox (15%)

In this 500-word assignment, students will learn how to plan and develop an academic paper. They will begin by narrowing down a topic of interest to provide a clear, specific thesis statement that directly answers a set question. They will learn how to reference their citations in MLA 8, and show how they plan to integrate primary material into their argument. They will also develop the skills to structure their argument in a thoughtful and critical way.

Mid-Term Exam – Online During Class, Wednesday, October 21, 3:30-5:00pm (20%)

Extra time provided in case of technical difficulties*

Students will answer a selection of short content questions, and one longer, close-reading passage analysis (choose one passage from a selection of three). The exam will be written (online) during class time, and must be submitted no later than 5:30pm on the D2L Dropbox.

Close Reading Essay – Due Sunday, November 29, 11:59pm on D2L Dropbox (25%)

Students will write a 1500-word academic essay that develops skills from the Practice Essay Plan. Students will engage with one of the course's creative texts and apply a focused, close reading analysis on a passage or scene of their choosing. More than one passage or scene may be included. However, the essay must remain concise and focused. In addition, students are responsible for relating their chosen text to a minimum of one peer-reviewed, critical article that helps support their argument, in consideration of the course's broader aims. Students may choose from critical theory assigned in the course readings, and/or use an external source they deem suitable.

Registrar-Scheduled Exam – Date and Time to be Determined by Registrar (30%)

Students will answer a selection of short content questions, and one longer, close-reading passage analysis (choose one passage from a selection of three). The exam will be Open Book, and students must be available for examinations up to the last day of the examination period: December 12-23, 2020.

Participation – Group Discussion Thread Posts – Weekly Contributions (10%)

Participation in the course will be graded on the basis of ten (10) weekly, online groupwork posts in a D2L “Discussion Thread” forum. Groups will be pre-assigned. Due Sunday nights, 11:59pm, beginning September 20, each member of the group will make weekly contributions to an online discussion, for your group only, featuring an interesting or challenging quotation, scene, or concept from that week’s assigned reading(s). Keep the posts brief, yet detailed and succinct – no less than 2 sentences per student, no more than 5 sentences per student, max. Each member of the team shall participate in the group’s weekly discussion thread, and each student will receive 1% per week for their contributions by providing the quotation, scene, or concept that interests them, and/or by commenting on one of their peers’ initial posts in the thread. If there are more than one assigned texts that week, students may choose which text to comment on. Failure to make an online contribution will result in the loss of the grade % for that week. No late submissions/posts are permitted. The discussion thread space is designed to encourage engagement with the texts and each other – respectful, yet informal writing is allowed. On the week we conclude Wayne Compton’s book The Outer Harbour, online participation is worth 2%.

PARTICIPATION SCHEDULE – GROUP DISCUSSION POSTS:

Week 3 (Sun, Sept 20): Sir Gawain and the Green Knight - 1%

Week 4 (Sun, Sept 27): Peter Pan and/or Arjun Appadurai, “Disjuncture and Difference” - 1%

USE OF INTERNET AND ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATION DEVICES IN CLASS:

This course requires students to be able to access a laptop and the Internet. Students are also responsible for being aware of the University's Internet and email use policy, which can be found at:

<https://www.ucalgary.ca/news/new-policy-acceptable-use-electronic-resources-and-information>

CONDUCT:

Students, employees, and academic staff are also expected to demonstrate behaviour in class that promotes and maintains a positive and productive learning environment. As members of the University community, students, employees, and academic staff are expected to demonstrate conduct that is consistent with the University of Calgary Calendar, the Code of Conduct and Non-Academic Misconduct policy and procedures, which can be found at: <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html>

GUIDELINES FOR ZOOM SESSIONS:

During this course, students will be required to attend a total of 24 live seminars via Zoom. Please be prepared, as best as you are able, to join class in a quiet space that will allow you to be fully present and engaged in Zoom sessions. Students will be required to leave their webcam's on when present at a seminar, and unmute their device when invited to speak during group work, or in question and answer sessions.

Zoom is a video conferencing program that will allow us to meet at specific times for a "live" video conference, so that we can have the opportunity to meet each other virtually and discuss relevant course topics as a learning community. To help ensure Zoom sessions are private, do not share the Zoom link or password with others, or on any social media platforms. Zoom links and passwords are only intended for students registered in the course. Zoom recordings and materials presented in Zoom, including any teaching materials, must not be shared, distributed or published without the Instructor's permission.

The use of video conferencing programs relies on participants to act ethically, honestly and with integrity; and in accordance with the principles of fairness, good faith, and respect (as per the Code of Conduct). When entering Zoom or other video conferencing sessions (such as MS Teams), you play a role in helping create an effective, safe and respectful learning environment. Please be mindful of how your behaviour in these sessions may affect others. Participants are required to use names officially associated with their UCID (legal or preferred names listed in the Student Centre) when engaging in these activities. Instructors/moderators can remove those whose names do not appear on class rosters. Non-compliance may be investigated under relevant University of Calgary conduct policies (Student Non-Academic Misconduct Policy). If participants have difficulties complying with this requirement, they should email the Instructor of the class explaining why, so the Instructor may consider whether to grant an exception, and on what terms. For more information on how to get the most out of your Zoom sessions visit: <https://elearn.ucalgary.ca/guidelines-for-zoom/>.

If you are unable to attend a Zoom session, please contact your Instructor to arrange an alternative activity for the missed session (e.g., to review a recorded session). The Instructor may record online Zoom class sessions for the purposes of supporting student learning in this class – such as making the recording available for review of the session or for students who miss a session. Students will be advised before the Instructor initiates a recording of a Zoom session. These recordings will be used to support student learning only and will not be shared or used for any other purpose.

GRADING SYSTEM:

Course grades are based on the University of Calgary four-point Undergraduate Grading System and the standard percentage conversion chart of the Department of English:

90 + %	A+	4.0	67 – 69 %	C+	2.3
85 – 89 %	A	4.0	64 – 66 %	C	2.0
80 – 84 %	A–	3.7	60 – 63 %	C–	1.7
77 – 79 %	B+	3.3	55 – 59 %	D+	1.3
74 – 76 %	B	3.0	50 – 54 %	D	1.0
70 – 73 %	B–	2.7	0 – 49 %	F	0

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course Instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality. There is no D-grade.

A detailed grade rubric will be provided for the Practice Essay Plan, Mid-Term Exam, Close Reading Essay, and Registrar-Scheduled Exam, uploaded to the D2L site for ENGL 251 on the course “Content” page.

Grades assigned for the Group Discussion Thread Posts will be assigned according to participation-based criteria stated in this Course Outline. Students will receive either a full grade of 1% for contributing on the scheduled weeks (with exception of 2% for comments on November 22), or 0% for non-participation. No partial grades will be applied.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:
 - a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
 - b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
 - c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
 - d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

<http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/747/01/>

Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. Instructors may request that evidence in the form of documentation be provided. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test. For information on possible forms of documentation, including statutory declarations, please see <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/m-1.html>.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar; <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k-2.html> "The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, ..., to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community". The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a "positive and productive learning and working environment.” This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that “seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff”. Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
