Course description:

‘Why do I need to learn about literary theory anyway?’ Fair question, and in this class we will spend a considerable amount of time during the Winter semester of year 2019 trying to develop a satisfactory answer to this question and others like: what is theory and what values could it hold for students working in the discipline of literary studies? How can students use theory to extend and expand their own engagement with literary and cultural texts? Who are theorists, and what types of languages do they use? What types of questions about art and human life does literary theory take up and what types of answers does theory offer? Where do we find theory in our reading and critical engagement with literary and cultural texts? What is the value of literary theory beyond the relatively narrow terrain of English departments? And more pressing questions like: how can theory help me to get better grades, a job, or even a date? While this course cannot promise any final or even unambiguous answers to most if not all of these questions, it can promise an rigorous intellectual engagement with all of them, and many more.

This course will ask you to read about theory and to write with a clearly defined theoretical focus in your engagement with a range of literary and cultural texts. Students will read Lois Tyson’s accessible guide to theory and follow her theoretical engagements with F. Scott Fitzgerald’s The Great Gatsby to establish a method which they then apply to a wider range of literary and cultural texts in order to develop their own ability to apply what they learn in meaningful ways. Your assignments will be designed to facilitate this process with the goal to help you get to a point where you can go forward with your work in the English department with the confidence that you can produce critical engagements with more substance, depth, and ultimately more intellectual satisfaction for you and for your future readers.

Texts and readings:

Note: The books for this course are or will be available in the U of C Bookstore. Students may use other editions of The Great Gatsby but I suggest using the latest edition of Lois Tyson’s book. Note: students should also expect to work with other short literary or cultural texts not listed here but which will come up during the course itself.

Lois Tyson. Critical Theory Today: A User-Friendly Guide
F. Scott Fitzgerald. The Great Gatsby

Assignments and Evaluation:

5% *Attendance:

- Will be taken for all available classes beginning with the first class after the add/drop date
- Each available class is equally weighted and the total will be officially calculated after the final class. Example: 5% grade weight divided by 20 available classes would mean .25% of your final grade is awarded for each class attended
- Each student receives one free absence which will not count against your grade in this category. This is to cover the possibility of unforeseen circumstances that cause a student to miss a class (illness, missed buses/trains, other appointments, alarm malfunctions etc.).
- Example: If there are 21 available lectures to attend, I will calculate your total out of 20. If a student attends 15 out of 21 available classes, their grade calculation would be  $15/20 = 75\%$  ( $15 \times .25 = 3.75 / 5 = .75$  or 75%).
- Attendance will be taken in the last portion of classes and will indicate being present for the full class only.
- It will be the student's responsibility to record their initials during or immediately after each class unless otherwise specified.

15% Reading Quizzes

- A number of short (10 minutes max.) reading quizzes to begin each new theory chapter in Tyson.
- Quizzes consist of 6 multiple choice questions on the events of the story or section of the assigned reading according to the course schedule.
- Quizzes can occur at any time during the class.
- Dates on or after which quizzes are given are on your course schedule
- Each quiz is scored out of 5 with question 6 as a bonus. The final calculation is cumulative and out of 20 marks. Example: student quiz scores that read 4, 5, 6, 0 =  $15/20 = 75\%$  for this grade category.
- Bonus marks here add up to one free quiz and are used to cover the possibility of unforeseen circumstances that might cause a student to be absent (illness, missed buses/trains, other appointments, alarm malfunctions etc.) for a class in which a quiz appears and to allow students dealing with heavy workloads to not be excessively hindered by missing one reading assignment.
- Further to the preceding point, I will also drop your lowest quiz score from the total for this category.

20% Exam #1 (Mid-term examination)

- Multiple choice questions on material from the readings, lectures, and class discussions

15% Short Written Assignment#1 (1 typed, double-spaced, 12pt font page (250-300 words))

- Close reading and textual analysis of literary passage through a specific theoretical lens

10% Exam #2 (End of term)

- Multiple choice questions on material from the readings, lectures, and class discussions
- Close reading and textual analysis

15% Short Written Assignment #2 (2 typed, double-spaced, 12pt font pages (500-600 words))

- Close reading and textual analysis of literary or cultural text through a specific theoretical lens

20% Class Project

- Your choice from the following options: critical essay, individual or partnered creative project, an original short story with critical explication, or a group project for class presentation

Options:

- Critical Essay option: minimum 5- maximum 6 typed, double-spaced pages (12 pt. Times New Roman or Arial font; Approximately 1250-1500 words)
- Short Story and Critical Explication option: minimum 4 , maximum 5 (short story) + 2 or 3 (critical analysis) typed, double-spaced pages (Minimum 12 pt. Times New Roman or Arial font; Approximately 1500 words)
- Creative Project: Your choice of creative presentation with a minimum 3 maximum 4 page explication and analysis of the critical relationship between your project and one or more theoretical perspectives
- Group Presentation and Critical Explication: Max. 30 minute group presentation of critical engagement with a literary or cultural text + minimum 3 typed, double-spaced pages from each group member that develops a theoretical engagement with your text through a theoretical perspective other than that used in your presentation.

*Attendance

Rationale:

There is an explicit grade for attendance in this course. The rationale for this incentive grading component is to reinforce the understanding that each class, in a variety of ways, will develop skills and deliver information needed to score effectively on assignments and that in most cases there is a direct correlation between attendance and the student's ability to produce a successful educational and grading experience in this course. For these reasons, attendance is one component used at the end of the course "when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades." By assigning a specific grade for attendance it allows all students, despite varying skill levels, to score a full five percent for this component of the course grade.

Participation

There is no explicit grade for participation in this course. However, students should be aware that student participation in various ways (questions, comments, discussions, debates, arguments, presentations etc.) will be a key feature and an important tool to facilitate student success in this course. Students are encouraged, but not required, to speak in class and effective participation can be just as much the act of attentive, engaged listening and thoughtful consideration as insightful speaking. Since our readings will lead us into a wide range of critical investigations of social, cultural, historical, aesthetic and political issues, and since the class is a relatively large, diverse group of human beings with different ideas, opinions, arguments and positions on the issues and ideas the stories present, this course will proceed with a fundamental tone of respect, tolerance, and thoughtful consideration of the ideas of others (the instructor for students, students for the instructor, and students for each other). This guiding tone of respect does not mean that ideas, opinions, and arguments, expressed by students or instructor, cannot be challenged and debated from other positions and through different arguments. Indeed this can and should be an interesting and engaging aspect of our course. It means that when we disagree we try to persuade others through offering a more convincing argument. When students engage this sort of participation they further develop skills required to produce success on assignments and exams. This is one key reason for why, in most cases, there is a direct implicit correlation between participation and the student's ability to produce a successful experience in this course. In addition, participation is one component used at the end of the course "when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades." Scoring well on reading quizzes is one way that students can still demonstrate a strong participation component in this class without being required to speak in class.

Assignment Information and guidelines for handing in assignments

- There is no Registrar scheduled final exam in this course. Term examination dates are available at the following address: (Calendar, Academic Schedule; <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/exam-schedule.html>), and add this statement:
→ Students must be available for examinations up to the last day of the examination period.
- Students are encouraged but not required to complete all assignments to receive a passing grade in this course
- All assignments must be handed in at the beginning of the class in which they are due. After this they are considered late. Written assignments handed in by the due date will receive comments and feedback. Assignments handed in after due dates will receive grades only with minimal comments.
- There is no electronic submission of assignments. All assignments must be a printed copy handed in directly to the instructor in class on or before the due date. If you hand in an assignment outside of the specified class it must be handed in to the English department main office where it will be date stamped. Any assignments that are not easily carried (creative projects) should be handed in directly to the instructor's office during office hours or by appointment.
- Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of a third of a grade (an A- to B+) for each business day [not class] that the assignment is overdue. Please make every effort to take assignments directly to the instructor. If it is not possible to do so, take your assignment to SS 1152 and put it in the dropbox. Your assignment will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox. It is your responsibility to keep a copy of all assignments in case of loss by any cause. Assignments cannot be returned by staff in the Department office.

Course Policy on Electronic Devices

Over the last few years an increasing number of students report that they find device use for non-class purposes by their peers to be distracting and as an instructor, I find, through much experience, that the distraction is amplified and can negatively affect the class as a whole. Therefore I respectfully make the following requests:

- 1) That laptop and tablet use in this class be focused on notetaking or other course tasks.
- 2) That no cameras or other recording devices are used in this class or in office hours except in cases where permission for usage has been requested and approved by the instructor
- 3) I further request, as a courtesy to other students and your instructor, that phones be left in your bags or pockets during class lectures and discussions except in cases where course texts are accessed through your phone.
- 4) Since I understand point three to be a significant request, I too will adhere to the same policy and will extend the same courtesy and consideration to you by not having my phone out and active for other concerns while we are working in class together.

E-mail: I encourage students to use office hours for questions and course concerns. I check student emails as part of my office hour commitments during the week. This means that I read student email during office hours if no students are present or shortly after office hours during the week. Students should not expect that I have seen emails at any other time. My expectations are that students can email me to notify me of important or emergency situations (family emergencies, accidents, illnesses etc.). Questions and comments about course lectures and discussions are also acceptable, although in most cases I will respond to the question or comment at the beginning of the next class. Students should not assume that email is a substitute for missing class. If you miss class it is your responsibility to get the material from one of your peers and then to bring any further questions or discussions into office hours. Further all questions about writing or format or assignments, or the solicitation of my opinions or suggestions regarding your writing should be stated in class for the sake of efficiency and time management or in office hours.

Grading system:

All assignments in this class will receive a numerical percentage grade to be converted using the following scale:

90 + %	A+	4.0
85 – 89 %	A	4.0
80 – 84 %	A–	3.7
77 – 79 %	B+	3.3
74 – 76 %	B	3.0
70 – 73 %	B–	2.7
67 – 69 %	C+	2.3

64 – 66 %	C	2.0
60 – 63 %	C–	1.7
55 – 59 %	D+	1.3
50 – 54 %	D	1.0
0 – 49 %	F	0

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the 4-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Plagiarism:

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. Your responses make a difference - please participate in USRI Surveys."

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:
  - (a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
  - (b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
  - (c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
  - (d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

<http://www.dianahacker.com/resdoc/>

<http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/747/01/>

Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. Instructors may request that evidence in the form of documentation be provided. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test. For information on possible forms of documentation, including statutory declarations, please see <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/n-1.html>.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar, <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/j.html>

“The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, . . . , to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community”. The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a “positive and productive learning and working environment.” This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that “seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff”. Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
