Office Hours:	Wednesday 2-3pm

Calendar description:

An introduction to major writers and creative voices in Canada, as well as to significant critical and cultural ideas that have developed about Canadian literature.

Course description:

In this course students will engage a selection of literary and cultural texts from the 19th to the 21st century to explore the evolution of significant thematic concerns, motifs, and critical approaches to the field of Canadian literature. In particular, this course will take up the challenge to 'decolonize' our encounter with Canadian literature and culture through foregrounding voices from groups traditionally excluded from or marginalized within Canadian culture and society. To accommodate as diverse a range of voices as possible within the time frame of the course we will focus on a selection of shorter works (short stories, poetry, archival material, drama, criticism, art) and will explore topics such as: migration, immigration, landscape, indigeneity, history, identity, place, and the relationship between culture and the nation.

Course learning outcomes:

Upon successful completion of this course, students will:

- 1) Extend and expand their ability to read and critically engage the relationship between Canadian literature/ culture and Canadian society.
- 2) Extend and expand their knowledge of the diversity of Canadian experience in both historical and contemporary contexts.

- 3) Develop their ability utilize theory and criticism to extend and expand their engagement with Canadian literature and culture.
- 4) Extend and expand their understanding of the evolving roles of difference and diversity (gender, race, class, sexuality, ethnicity) within the category of Canadian cultural discourse.
- 5) Extend and expand their ability to write on, and to discuss in public, Canadian literary/ cultural texts and issues generated in them in critically sensitive and responsible ways.
- 6) Extend and expand their understanding of the complex relationship between literature, theory, criticism, and strategies of political resistance and communal empowerment.

Texts and readings:

All readings in this course are listed in the course schedule that appears in D2L and will be available through the U of C library's open access and links at no cost to students. Students will require a U of C library account in good standing and computer with reliable connectivity to access the course texts.

Learning technology requirements:

Students will require a computer or other electronic device to access the D2L site for this course which contains required and relevant class resources and materials (see d2L.ucalgary.ca).

Assessments and Evaluation:

15% Participation Grade

- This grade is for individual student contributions to the discussion boards for this class.
- This grade is scored out of 10 points and consists of 10 total discussion board contributions over the duration of the course. Student contributions can be either a post or a reply to another student post.
- Students are limited to a maximum of two points per course text in this class. Students may make more posts/replies to any discussion board but can score no more than 2 points per presentation and no more than 1 point per board for a post. Students can receive contribution points for all replies up to the limit of 2 points per board. For example: a student who makes 2 or more posts only for any individual board would receive 1 contribution point for that board. A student that makes 1 post and 1 reply would score the maximum of 2 points for that board. A student that makes 2 or more replies on a board would receive the maximum 2 points for that board.

- Posts will not be given letter grades.
- To qualify as point scoring, posts and replies must be between 100 and 200 words and show evidence of an original critical engagement with the course text for that board (through specific textual references) and that demonstrate an awareness of the methods and modes of literary criticism consistent with and connected to lecture/discussions and/or texts in this class. General statements and/or mere repetitions of what others have said will not normally qualify as point scoring.
- Discussion board calculations for points have deadlines, after which points can no longer be accumulated on a particular discussion board (normally this date will be 7 days after a after class lecture of the discussion is finished).

15% Short Written Assignment #1 (Close reading/ Explication)

- 500-600 words
- For this assignment students have the opportunity to develop one of their discussion board responses into a close reading/ explication of a single passage to further the critical engagement taken up in the discussion board.

15% Short Written Assignment #2 (Annotation exercise)

- 500 words
- For this assignment students have the opportunity to produce a brief annotated bibliography on 2 critical works that they think will be useful in their long written assignment.
- This assignment is due 2 weeks before the due date for your long written assignment.

20% In-class exam #1

- Exam date appears on your course schedule
- Exam will consist of multiple choice, and/or short answer/ matching questions on material from class lecture/discussion (texts, terms, concepts, close reading)
- Time 60 minutes in class only

15% In-class exam #2

- Exam date appears on your course schedule
- Exam will consist of multiple choice and/or matching questions on material from class lecture/discussion (texts, terms, concepts, close reading)
- Time 60 minutes in class only

20% Long Written Assignment (Minimum 8, Maximum 10 typed, double-spaced, 12pt font pages).

- * This assignment may utilize and develop elements from your first two written assignments.
- * Whether you choose the essay or creative options, this assignment must include a substantial engagement with a minimum of two critical, secondary sources (theory and/or criticism).
- *this assignment, whether critical essay or creative, may be completed with a partner. For this option assignment guidelines regarding page limits are expanded according to the number of students involved. For example, for a partnership with 2 students the requirements would be minimum 12 maximum 15 pages. If students are considering this they are invited to consult with the instructor regarding expanded expectations.

Option one - Critical Essay. Note: page count does not include appended bibliographic material like footnotes, appendices, or Works Cited pages.

Option two – Creative assignment (poetry, short story, created object, visual, performance, etc.)

- Note: this option must include a minimum5-8 page critical explication and analysis
- Scoring for this option: Creative portion out of 10; Critical portion out of 10= total score out of 20 points.

Assignment Information

- There is no Registrar scheduled final exam in this course.
- Students are not required to complete all assignments to receive a passing grade in the course.
- There are no 'extra credit' assignments in this course.
- All written assignments must be submitted in a .doc format through dropbox in the D2L site for this course.
- All assignments must be submitted by the due date given. Assignments submitted more than 24 hours after the assigned due date will be considered late. Any assignments submitted after the due date may receive a grade only without additional comments.

- All exams in this course are closed book and completed in class. Students are not allowed to use any electronic devices or any other aids like dictionaries during examinations. All phones must be turned off (except with consent of the instructor) and out of sight in bags or pockets during exams. Any phones visible during exams can qualify as academic misconduct.
- In cases where the opportunity to write a missed exam is granted, the exam may be in a different format than the original in-class exam.
- This course is delivered in-person. In exceptional circumstances such as instructor illness, a class or classes may be delivered online through the Zoom platform in D2L.

Instructor's Intellectual Property

Course materials created by instructors, including presentations, posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments, and exams, remain the intellectual property of the instructor. These materials may not be reproduced, redistributed or copied without the explicit consent of the instructor. The posting of course materials to third party websites such as note-sharing sites without permission is prohibited. Sharing of extracts of these course materials with other students enrolled in the course at the same time may be allowed under fair dealing.

Grading System:

All assignments will receive a numerical grade, to be converted to letter grades using the following scale:

90 + %	A+	4.0	67 – 69.99 %	C+	2.3
85 – 89.99 %	Α	4.0	64 – 66.99 %	С	2.0
80 – 84.99 %	A-	3.7	60 – 63.99 %	C-	1.7
77 – 79.99 %	B+	3.3	55 – 59.99 %	D+	1.3
74 – 76.99 %	В	3.0	50 – 54.99 %	D	1.0
70 – 73.99 %	В-	2.7	0 – 49.99 %	F	0

This scale is also used to calculate final grades in this course.

Note that this scale does not include a "rounding up" feature and will produce the final grade in this class. For example, a final grade of 84.99% will normally be recorded as A-, 79.99% will normally be recorded as B+, and so on throughout the grading scale. Students should not expect that any numerical grade will be rounded upward or downward in this class.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Assignment Submission Late Policy

Written assignments submitted more than 24 hours after the due date will be considered late. Such assignments may not receive editorial comments and may have 3% per 24 hours subtracted from their final percentage grade for the assignment. For example, an assignment that scores 75% and handed in within 24 hours of the due date will not receive any penalty; the same assignment handed in between 24.1 and 48 hours late may receive a penalty of 3% for a total score of 72% for the final assignment grade; an assignment handed in between 48.1 and 72 hours of the due date may receive a penalty of 6% for a final grade of 69%. This scale would continue in the same way for each additional 24 hour period.

Attendance

There is no specific grade for attendance, with the exception of the group assignment, in this course. However, students should understand that each class, in a variety of ways, will develop skills and deliver information needed to learn and acquire the learning objectives for this course and to score effectively on assignments and exams, and that in most cases there is a direct correlation between attendance and the student's ability to produce a successful educational and grading experience in this course.

Participation

The participation grade in this course consists of specific contributions to the Discussion Board in D2L. However, students should be aware that student participation in various ways (questions, comments, discussions, debates, etc.) are tools to facilitate student success in this course. Students are encouraged, but not required, to speak in class and effective participation can be just as much the act of attentive, engaged listening and thoughtful consideration as insightful speaking. Since our readings will lead us into a wide range of critical investigations of social, cultural, historical, aesthetic and political issues, and since the class is a relatively large, diverse group of human beings with different ideas, opinions, arguments and positions on the issues and ideas the stories present, this course will proceed with a fundamental tone of respect, tolerance, and thoughtful consideration of the ideas of others (the instructor for students, students for the instructor, and students for each other). This guiding tone of respect does not mean that ideas, opinions, and arguments, expressed by students or instructor, cannot be challenged and debated from other positions and through different arguments. Indeed this can and should be an interesting and engaging aspect of our course. It means that when we disagree we try to persuade others through offering a more convincing argument. When students engage this sort of participation they further develop skills required to produce success on assignments and exams. This is one key reason for why, in most cases, there is a direct implicit correlation between participation and the student's ability to produce a successful experience in this course.

Conduct:

Students, employees, and academic staff are also expected to demonstrate behaviour in class that promotes and maintains a positive and productive learning environment. As members of the University community, students, employees, and academic staff are expected to demonstrate conduct that is consistent with the University of Calgary Calendar, the Code of Conduct and Non-Academic Misconduct policy and procedures, which can be found at: http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html

Policy on use of electronic devices:

The use of laptop and mobile devices in class is acceptable when used in a manner appropriate to the course and classroom activities. Please refrain from accessing websites and resources that may be distracting to you or for other learners during class time. Students are responsible for being aware of the University's Internet and email use policy. Electronic devices are not permitted during the Final Examination.

Academic Integrity:

This course, like all courses at the University of Calgary, holds students to high standards of honest and responsible scholarship. Please consult the Academic Integrity website for a detailed description of university policies, which will be enforced in this course. Cases of suspected academic misconduct will be referred to the Associate Dean of Arts for a ruling.

Plagiarism is a type of academic misconduct. Plagiarism occurs when a student presents the ideas, expression of ideas, or work of another person as their own. Another equally serious form of plagiarism occurs when a student submits something they have written themselves for credit in two or more courses without first securing written permission from all those course instructors. Consequences for plagiarism include failure on the assignment, failure in the course, and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense.

Deferral of term work and final examinations:

Should you require an extension for completion of term papers or assignments beyond the deadline of five days after the end of lectures, an Application of Deferment of Term Work must be completed. It is the student's responsibility to initiate this process with the instructor. The University also has regulations governing the deferral of final examinations.

Grade appeals:

To pursue a Reassessment of Graded Term Work or a Reappraisal of an Academic Assessment, Consult the University Calendar and request advice from the English Department at engl@ucalgary.ca. Please note that mere dissatisfaction with a grade is not sufficient grounds for an appeal.

Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy

Student information will be collected in accordance with usual classroom practice. Students' assignments will be accessible only by the authorized course faculty and teaching assistants. Private information related to the individual student is treated with the utmost regard by the faculty at the University of Calgary.

Research Ethics

- If a student is interested in undertaking an assignment that will involve collecting information from members of the public, they should speak with the course instructor and consult the CFREB Ethics (http://www.ucalgary.ca/research/researchers/ethics-compliance/cfreb) before beginning the assignment.
- If students are going to be used as research subjects or expected to conduct research (such as interviews), a statement about this expectation must be included. Please note that if you plan to have students conduct research for class, you must get ethics approval for the course.
