FACULTY OF ARTS
DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH
COURSE SYLLABUS
382: TOPIC IN AMERICAN LITERATURE:
THE LITERATURE OF IMMIGRATION

Course Description

In this course we will read selected texts from the large body of works exploring the social and cultural dynamics of immigration, assimilation, and multiculturalism. The selected texts will cover a range of historical periods and ethnic experiences. Although this list is by no means exhaustive and will expand according to student interests, I expect some of the issues addressed in this course will include the following: the relationship between narrative and the construction of ethnic, racial, diasporic, American, and transnational identities; the relationships between dominant and minority groups and between the dominant national culture and minority cultures; tensions surrounding authenticity in ethnic literature; comparative immigration experiences among different groups; the history of U.S. immigration; major American models for assimilation, particularly the melting-pot and multiculturalism; and tensions within immigrant communities between the desire for assimilation and the desire to preserve cultural heritage and language.

Required Texts

J. Hector St. John de Crèvecoeur, Letters from an American Farmer
Anzia Yezierska, Bread Givers
Maxine Hong Kingston, The Woman Warrior
Bharati Mukherjee, Jasmine
Mohsin Hamid, The Reluctant Fundamentalist

Course Requirements

Percentage of Final Grade

Essay 1 (3 pages)	20%
Essay 2 (5 pages)	35%
Registrar-scheduled Final Exam	20%
Reading Responses	15%
Class Presentation	10%

There will be a closed-book, Registrar-scheduled exam for this course. Students must be available for examinations up to the last day of the examination period (Dec. 11-22).

Grading System

You must complete both essays, the final exam, and the class presentation to qualify for a passing grade.

Grade conversions on the University of Calgary's 4-point system are as follows:

A+/A = 4.0	B = 3.0	C = 2.0	D = 1.0
A- = 3.7	B- = 2.7	C- = 1.7	F = 0
B+ = 3.3	C+ = 2.3	D+ = 1.3

About Reading Responses

You will contribute to an ongoing, on-line discussion of our readings for four of the assigned books. Reading responses must be posted to the discussion board on D2L by noon the day before class discussion. You may choose which of the eligible readings you wish to respond to. Contributions may take several forms: 2-3 thought-provoking questions to spark discussion; a response to a posted question; a response to or elaboration on a previous response; an analysis of an assigned text; a summary and/or critique of a published analysis of an assigned text; a personal response; or some combination of the above. With the exception of the first kind (the questions), reading responses should be about 300 words in length. More information about reading responses is available on D2L.

About Class Presentations

Working singly or in pairs, you will be responsible for presenting on assigned readings or leading class discussion. Presentations may take many forms. You may present historical and contextual material on our readings, summarize published scholarship, offer your own analysis of a text(s), ask questions and lead discussion, design a group activity, or combine several of these things. Student-led presentations will last approximately 30 minutes. I will pass around a sign-up sheet on the first day of class so that you may choose the readings you wish to help facilitate. More information is available on D2L.

About Class Participation

Because this is a class that will demand considerable participation, your effort and involvement are essential to a successful learning experience—not only for you, but for your classmates. You should come to class with all necessary materials and prepared to take part in workshops, to participate actively in small- and large-group discussions, to offer considered responses to assigned readings, and to respond respectfully and thoughtfully to other students' ideas. A good way to gauge your level of participation is to ask yourself, "How would this class function if everyone participated exactly as much as I do?"

Late Papers

You have the option of turning in one written assignment up to a week late without penalty. This policy applies to the first essay and the reading responses. Class presentations may not be completed late, and the final essay may be turned in late only with permission. If you turn in an assignment more than a week late, or if you turn in a second assignment late, your grade on the work will be lowered by a third of a grade for each late day (i.e., an A paper that is one day late will receive an A-, two days late a B+, and so on; weekend days and holidays are counted in this total).

Turning in Assignments

Essays should be submitted through the digital dropbox on D2L. If this is not possible, you may deliver your assignment to Social Sciences 1152 and put it in the drop box, where your work will be date-stamped and placed in my mailbox. Please keep a copy of your assignment in case of loss. Papers cannot be returned by staff in the department office. Papers may not be delivered by email without prior permission.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:

- (a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
- (b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
- (c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
- (d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar, (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/j.html>)

“The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, ..., to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community”. The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a “positive and productive learning and working environment.” This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that “seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff”. Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
