Office hours: Wed. 12-1pm, or by appt.

Course Description:

This class is a critical and historical study of children's literature from the eighteenth century to the present. A primary goal of this class is to consider the strangeness of children's literature: not only is it rare among genres for being named after the audience it aims to address, but children's literature is also unique in the way it generates so much anxiety among critics and readers with strong investments in how we define the genre and what, exactly, its texts should contain. Furthermore, children's literature fascinates in its inspiration of countless adaptations, retellings, and appropriations, many of which seem to challenge popular notions of childhood innocence and development. Through lectures, group discussions, in-class activities and critical response papers, students will consider the terms through which critics have sought to define (or not define) children's literature, the expectations that surround the genre, and how children's literature and its adaptations may subvert and/or bolster these expectations. Students will depart the class having cultivated critical tools for approaching a range of children's literature texts, in addition to developing a heightened awareness of the fraught relationship between children's literature and its adult authors, critics and audiences. This class has no prerequisites, and is not open to students with credit in English 398.

Primary Texts:

Isaac Watts, Divine Songs for Children (1715), George Burder, Early Piety (1776), Maria Edgeworth, "The Purple Jar" (1796) (available online)

J.M. Barrie, Peter Pan (1911) (recommended edition: Broadview Press, 2011)

Martin Hallet and Barbara Karasek, eds. Folk and Fairy Tales: Concise Edition (4th Ed., 2008)

Into the Woods (Disney, 2014) – to be screened in-class

Ezra Jack Keats, The Snowy Day (1962)

Maurice Sendak, Where the Wild Things Are (1963)

Mariko Tamaki and Jillian Tamaki, Skim (2008)

J.K. Rowling, Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone (1997)

Raziel Reid, When Everything Feels Like the Movies (2014)

Assignments and Evaluation:

Fairy Tale Adaptation and Controversial Picture Book Response Papers (15% each, graded by TA)

This term, you will complete two critical response papers: one focused on a fairy tale adaptation of your choice, and another on a controversial picture book selected from our course reserve at the Doucette Library. In both papers, you will critically engage your personal response to the selected text and consider the text in relation to ideas and concepts discussed in class. Each paper will be a maximum of 750 words in length, and detailed instructions for these assignments will be distributed separately.

In-Class Assignments (15%)

Over the course of the term, the instructor will assign a minimum of four in-class activities that may include short oral presentations, reading quizzes administered via TopHat, creative projects, and writing exercises, among others. These assignments will deepen your engagement with course material and encourage regular attendance and participation at lectures. Your highest three assignment scores will each contribute 5% towards your final grade; the lowest grade(s) will be dropped. There will be no advance warning about graded in-class activities and no opportunities for make-up assignments.

Participation Cards (10%)

On five occasions throughout the term (see reading schedule for deadlines), you will submit a 3x5" index card (no paper cut-outs or substitutes permitted!) to the instructor or course TA. These cards are an opportunity to share your random (but critical) thoughts about things related to course material, thoughts you had while engaging with course material, and/or thoughts about things you read/saw/heard that made you think about our class. You should not simply raise a question, but rather draw connections between thoughts/texts and/or engage critically with your own reactions to course materials. You must submit these cards in-person, in class (i.e. you cannot have someone submit the card on your behalf). Each card will count for 2% toward your final mark.

Mid-Term Test (15%)

Registrar-scheduled Final Exam (30%)

The final exam will be registrar scheduled and open book. Exams will be held between April 16-27, 2016. Students must be available for examinations up to the last day of the examination period.

Assignment Policies:

- Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of a third of a grade (an A- to B+) for each business day [not class day] that the assignment is overdue. No assignments will be accepted one week past the assignment deadline without the prior consent of the instructor.
- Please make every effort to take assignments directly to the instructor. If it is not possible to do so, take your assignment to SS 1152 and put it in the dropbox. Your assignment will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox. It is your responsibility to keep a copy of all assignments in case of loss by any cause. Assignments cannot be returned by staff in the Department office.
- There will be no assignments given for extra credit in this course.
- Students must complete the Fairy Tale Adaptation and Picture Book response papers, and take the final exam in order to qualify for a passing grade in this course.

Grading System:

In this course, your response papers and in-class assignments (exclusive of quizzes) will be marked on the

University of Calgary's four-point Undergraduate Grading System, as described in the Calendar:
<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-2.html>

A+ / A (4.0); A- (3.7); B+ (3.3); B (3.0); B- (2.7); C+ (2.3); C (2.0); C- (1.7); D+ (1.3); D (1.0); F (0)

Exams and quizzes will receive a numerical grade, to be converted using the following scale:

90 + %	A+	4.0
85 – 89 %	A	4.0
80 – 84 %	A–	3.7
77 – 79 %	B+	3.3
74 – 76 %	B	3.0
70 – 73 %	B–	2.7
67 – 69 %	C+	2.3
64 – 66 %	C	2.0
60 – 63 %	C–	1.7
55 – 59 %	D+	1.3
50 – 54 %	D	1.0
0 – 49 %	F	0

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the 4-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Classroom Policy on Electronic Devices, Email, and Internet Use:

This class relies on D2L and TopHat for the distribution of course materials and administration of in-class activities and quizzes. To maximize your participation, please bring at least one internet-ready device (a mobile phone, tablet, or laptop) with you to class. You are also welcome to use these devices for note taking during lectures. However, please be mindful to use all electronic devices appropriately: checking Facebook, sending messages, and other online activities unrelated to lectures and discussion distracts you and those around you. If you are not permitted to use electronic devices for a particular quiz, the instructor will inform you beforehand.

Students should check D2L and email regularly for updates, assignment instructions, and other course-related information.

Email is the best way to contact the instructor. Although I do my best to respond to emails promptly, please allow up to 48 hours for a response. I will not summarize class discussion or lectures through email—if you miss class, please gather any missing information from your fellow students. Email is not a substitute for attending class or office hours!

Note-Taking:

Lecture notes, slide presentations, and summaries of class discussion will not usually be distributed in this class and may not be made available to students who miss classes. Students are responsible for maintaining their own notes throughout the course, and are strongly encouraged to develop strategies during this course for effective note-taking, a skill that is invaluable for post-secondary studies in any discipline. (n.b. It is not useful to transcribe every word of a lecture—or, for that matter, to preserve it with a recording device: the best strategies include attentive listening, the brief noting of important terms and concepts during lecture or discussion, and a concise and articulate summary written at the end of class). In addition to keeping clear and comprehensive notes, students are advised to keep up with course readings, to complete all assigned readings by the stipulated date, and to submit all work in a timely fashion, following all instructions for each assignment.

Plagiarism:

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. Please refer to the following information and make sure you are familiar with the statement below on plagiarism.

Universal Student Ratings of Instruction (USRI):

"At the University of Calgary, feedback provided by students through the Universal Student Ratings of Instruction (USRI) survey provides valuable information to help with evaluating instruction, enhancing learning and teaching, and selecting courses (www.ucalgary.ca/usri). Your responses make a difference - please participate in USRI Surveys."

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:

- (a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
- (b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
- (c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
- (d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar, (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/j.html>) "The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, ..., to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community". The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a "positive and productive learning and working environment." This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that "seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff". Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
