Course description:

About a century and a half ago a new literary genre appeared on the popular cultural landscape. We call this genre detective fiction and in the early twenty-first century the argument can be made that it is the most popular of all literary genres. An examination of the offerings available on television, film releases, or in bookstores will tend to confirm that this genre shows no signs of relinquishing its dominant position in the cultural imagination any time soon. So what is detective fiction? How does it work? Why does it work? Where did it come from? What were the social, political, cultural and historical conditions of its emergence, and what are the reasons for its continued vitality? How has the genre evolved over time? What types of cultural relevance has the genre had in the past and how does it continue to stay relevant for contemporary readers? What kinds of social exploration and commentary is the genre particularly suited to make and why? What are the different types of detective fiction? These are the types of questions that this class will explore and, through lectures, discussions, and assignments will attempt to answer.

Texts and readings:

E. A. Poe. "The Murders in the Rue Morgue" and "The Purloined Letter" (available at www.poestories.com)

Arthur Conan Doyle. The Hound of the Baskervilles

Agatha Christie. The Murder of Roger Ackroyd

Dashiell Hammett. Red Harvest

Meagan Abbot. Queenpin

John LeCarre. The Constant Gardener

Stieg Larsson. The Girl With the Dragon Tattoo

Assignments and Evaluation:

- 15 % Reading Quizzes (a series of short answer/multiple choice quizzes for the course readings)
- 30 % Examination #1 (short answer/ passage explication/multiple choice)
- 30 % Examination #2 (short answer/ passage explication/multiple choice)
- 25% Class project (choice between critical essay, individual project, or group project for class presentation)

- There is no Registrar scheduled final exam in this course.
- Except for reading quizzes, students must complete all assignments in order to receive a passing grade for the course.
- All assignments must be handed in at the beginning of the class in which they are due. After this they are considered late.
- There is no electronic submission of assignments.
- Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of a third of a grade (an A- to B+) for each business day [not class] that the assignment is overdue. Please make every effort to take assignments directly to the instructor. If it is not possible to do so, take your assignment to SS 1152 and put it in the dropbox. Your assignment will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox. It is your responsibility to keep a copy of all assignments in case of loss by any cause. Assignments cannot be returned by staff in the Department office.

Grading system:

All assignments in this class will receive a numerical percentage grade to be converted using the following scale:

90 + %	A+	4.0
85 – 89 %	A	4.0
80 – 84 %	A–	3.7
77 – 79 %	B+	3.3
74 – 76 %	B	3.0
70 – 73 %	B–	2.7
67 – 69 %	C+	2.3
64 – 66 %	C	2.0
60 – 63 %	C–	1.7
55 – 59 %	D+	1.3
50 – 54 %	D	1.0
0 – 49 %	F	0

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the 4-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:

- (a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
- (b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
- (c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
- (d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that "seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff". Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
