Course description:

About a century and a half ago a new literary genre appeared on the popular cultural landscape. We call this genre detective fiction and in the early twenty-first century the argument can be made that it is the most popular of all literary genres. An examination of television, film and print affirms that this genre shows no signs of relinquishing its dominant position in the cultural imagination any time soon. So what is detective fiction? How does it work? Why does it work? Where did it come from? What were the social, political, cultural and historical conditions of its emergence, and what are the reasons for its continued vitality? How has the genre evolved over time? What types of cultural relevance has the genre had in the past and how does it continue to stay relevant for contemporary readers? What kinds of psychological needs do these stories gratify and what types of social commentary is the genre particularly suited to make and why? What do such stories have to tell us about what we were, who we are, and what we may become? What are the different types of detective fiction? Why is our society addicted to detective fiction? Through reading, lectures, discussions, and assignments, this class will provide an exploration of these types of questions and issues.

Texts and readings:

E. A. Poe. "The Murders in the Rue Morgue" and "The Purloined Letter" (available at www.poestories.com)

Arthur Conan Doyle. The Hound of the Baskervilles

Agatha Christie. The Murder of Roger Ackroyd

Dashiell Hammett. Red Harvest

Meagan Abbot. Queenpin

John LeCarre. The Night Manager

Assignments and Evaluation:

25% Written Assignment

- 750-1000 word critical response to any popular detective fiction text
- identification of conventions and critical argument regarding thematic commentary

20% Examination #1 – multiple choice

- detailed questions on plot, concepts, class lecture/discussions, critical reading of passages

25% Examination #2 – short answer and passage explication

- detailed questions on plot, concepts, class lecture/discussions, critical reading of passages
- detailed analysis of quotations from text to support a specific claim regarding thematic commentary

30% Class project

- choice between critical essay, individual creative project, or group project for class presentation

- There is no Registrar scheduled final exam in this course.
- Students must complete all assignments in order to receive a passing grade for the course.
- All assignments must be handed in at the beginning of the class in which they are due. After this they are considered late. Written assignments handed in by the due date will receive comments and feedback. Assignments handed in after due dates will receive grades only with minimal comments.
- There is no electronic submission of assignments. All assignments must be a printed copy handed in directly to the instructor in class on or before the due date. If you hand in an assignment outside of the specified class it must be handed in to the English department main office where it will be date stamped.
- Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of a third of a grade (an A- to B+) for each business day [not class] that the assignment is overdue. Please make every effort to take assignments directly to the instructor. If it is not possible to do so, take your assignment to SS 1152 and put it in the dropbox. Your assignment will be date-stamped and placed in the instructor's mailbox. It is your responsibility to keep a copy of all assignments in case of loss by any cause. Assignments cannot be returned by staff in the Department office.

Policy on Electronic Devices

Over the last few years an increasing number of students report that they find device use for non-class purposes by their peers to be distracting and as an instructor, I find, through much experience, that the distraction is amplified and can negatively affect the class as a whole. While I understand that laptops have become a necessity for many students and accept their use for notetaking or other course tasks, I request that their use be limited to course concerns while we are in class. I further request, as a courtesy to other students and your instructor, that phones be left in your bags or pockets during class lectures and discussions except in cases where course texts are accessed through your phone. I too will adhere to the same policy and will extend the same courtesy and consideration to you by not having my phone out and active for other concerns while we are working in class together.

E-mail: I encourage students to use office hours for questions and course concerns. I check student emails as part of my office hour commitments during the week. This means that I read student email during office hours if no students are present or shortly after office hours during the week. Students should not expect that I have seen emails at any other time. My expectations are that students can email me to notify me of important or emergency situations (family emergencies, accidents, illnesses etc.). Questions and comments about course lectures and discussions are also acceptable, although in most cases I will respond to the question or comment at the beginning of the next class. Students should not assume that email is a substitute for missing class. If you miss class it is your responsibility to get the material from one of your peers and then to bring any further questions or discussions into office hours. Further all questions about writing or format or assignments, or the solicitation of my opinions or suggestions regarding your writing should be stated in class for the sake of efficiency and time management or in office hours.

Grading system:

All assignments in this class will receive a numerical percentage grade to be converted using the following scale:

90 + %	A+	4.0
85 – 89 %	A	4.0
80 – 84 %	A–	3.7
77 – 79 %	B+	3.3
74 – 76 %	B	3.0
70 – 73 %	B–	2.7
67 – 69 %	C+	2.3
64 – 66 %	C	2.0
60 – 63 %	C–	1.7
55 – 59 %	D+	1.3
50 – 54 %	D	1.0
0 – 49 %	F	0

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the 4-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Plagiarism:

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. Please refer to the following information and make sure you are familiar with the statement below on plagiarism. <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k-2-1.html>

Scribe and Muse Club for English Students:

The Scribe and Muse Reading and Writing Club (SMRWC) fosters and champions reading and writing through community service, leadership, and engagement. We strive to enhance the academic and social experience of undergraduate students by promoting academic excellence and interaction between students, faculty, and the community, through social, cultural, and academic events

Your responses make a difference - please participate in USRI Surveys."

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:

- (a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
- (b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
- (c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
- (d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar, (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/j.html>)

“The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, . . . , to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community”. The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a “positive and productive learning and working environment.”

This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that “seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff”. Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
