Course description:

This course will introduce the scholarly study of comic books in the United States, with a particular focus on the period commonly referred to as “the Golden Age”, roughly 1934 to 1960. Students will study the major genres of the period in an effort to historicize the rapid development of a new publishing format: the comic book.

This course will be fully asynchronous. This course will take place online via Desire2Learn (D2L). To best succeed in the course, students are encouraged to participate in the asynchronous learning tasks using the D2L learning environment.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Demonstrate a knowledge of the early history of the comic book in the United States
2. Demonstrate an understanding of the formal properties of comics
3. Demonstrate an understanding of the way formal change occurs in media industries
4. Demonstrate an understanding of how media industries challenge and support authorial understandings of culture

Texts and readings:

As this course will focus on comic books in the public domain, there is no required text book for this course.

Readings from scholarly journals are accessible online through the University of Calgary library. A complete list of readings will be provided in the first class.

*LEARNING TECHNOLOGIES AND REQUIREMENTS

There is a D2L site for this course which contains required readings and other relevant class resources and materials (see d2L.ucalgary.ca).

In order to successfully engage in their learning experiences at the University of Calgary, students taking online, remote and blended courses are required to have reliable access to the following technology:

- A computer with a supported operating system, as well as the latest security, and malware updates;
- A current and updated web browser;
- Current antivirus and/or firewall software enabled;
- Broadband internet connection.

Assignments and Evaluation:

Short Projects (4 x 10% each = 40 % of final grade). Students will be responsible for completing the four projects listed below. Written projects should be three to five pages, or, if in a format other than a written project (Powerpoint presentation, poster presentation, Excel data sheet, interpretive dance) should be of a length that is roughly analogous. Projects should be uploaded to the appropriate Dropbox for the course on D2L by 9:00am on the day that they are due. Additionally, for each of these four projects one quarter of the class will be asked to share their findings with the class by posting their report to the Discussions forum (see below).

A) The Random Comic (Due: February 2, 2021): Students will be assigned a comic book from the What Were Comics? carpus at random. Students will report on the formal elements of the work according to the criteria of the What Were Comics? coding protocols (provided on the D2L site for the course). Reflections should consider formal elements that may or may not appear to be outliers and the relevance of various formal elements in the overall analysis of the work.

B) A Single Month (Due: February 22, 2021). Students will be randomly assigned a single month from a single year (1940-1952 inclusive) and should examine as many comic books from that month as are locatable online. Reports should focus on the range of commonalities and differences across the randomly assigned works. Students should consider to what degree we could plausibly make an argument for the presence or absence of authorial voice (whether at the individual or corporate level) by noting strong similarities and differences in the works.

C) Every Year (Due: March 9, 2021). Students will be assigned an ongoing comic book title and a random month. They will then be asked to read the comic books from that title and month for every second year (stopping at 1960). Projects should focus on changes within the title over time. To what extent can it be said that the comic book format “evolved” over time? Did that evolution occur seamlessly or does there appear to be abrupt shifts in publishing format and intention that are tied to notable historical markers? How is the earliest comic book in the randomly assigned series the same as, or different from, the last one?

D) Horror (Due: March 23, 2021). Students will be assigned a corpus of horror comic books that will be assessed in relation to the arguments advanced by Fredric Wertham in his book Seduction of the Innocent (1954). To what extent is your understanding of Wertham's argument shaped by reading these comic books? To what extent does he exaggerate or under-play the aesthetic contributions of horror comic books? In short, evaluate the accuracy of Wertham's writing through a close-reading of the texts that he was reading but did not cite.

Presentation of Short Project (Due Date Same as Project Listed Above; 10% of final grade). At the end of the add/drop period, students will be randomly assigned to present one of their four short projects so that one-quarter of the class is presenting their work at each due date. Students will share their presentation by posting it to the appropriate Discussion Forum on D2L (use the "Stuff" button on the top left corner in order to upload a file). Students will also be responsible for responding to questions and comments from their peers about their findings.

Discussion Contributions (throughout the term; 20% of final grade). While discussion forums have been created for each lecture and reading in this course and will be monitored throughout. All students are expected to provide a substantive contribution to the discussion in these forums (NO MORE THAN 200 words of writing) that shows attention to earlier contributions and which extends and expands the discussion, or which begins a new discussion line entirely. Students will be graded on the quality of their contribution to the online discussions and their twenty highest grades will be counted towards their final grade. Each of these twenty contributions are worth one per cent of the grade in this course, for a total of twenty per cent

Final Project Due April 13, 201. (30% of final grade). The final project can be an essay (8 – 10 pages) or take on another form (film, data set, creative project). If a student opts to proceed with a project that is not an essay, this should be discussed with the professor so that the project can be calibrated as representing an equivalent amount of work as the paper.

- There is no Registrar scheduled exam for this course. There are no extra-credit assignments for this course. You do not need to complete all assignments to receive a passing grade in this course.
- Assignments submitted after the deadline will be graded with no loss of marks, but will receive no written comments.

ATTENDANCE AND PARTICIPATION EXPECTATIONS

As this is an asynchronous course, there are no attendance and participation expectation.

CONDUCT

Students, employees, and academic staff are also expected to demonstrate behaviour in class that promotes and maintains a positive and productive learning environment. As members of the University community, students, employees, and academic staff are expected to demonstrate conduct that is consistent with the University of Calgary Calendar, the Code of

- Grading system:

The University of Calgary's four-point Grading System, as described in the Calendar; ) will be used in this course. <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-1-1.html>

A+ / A (4.0); A- (3.7); B+ (3.3); B (3.0); B- (2.7); C+ (2.3); C (2.0); C- (1.7); D+ (1.3); D (1.0); F (0)

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1) <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-1.html>, instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Plagiarism:

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university.

“Plagiarism” occurs when a Student presents the ideas, expression of ideas or work of another individual as the Student's own. Work may include algorithms, code, composition, data, methods, design, formulae, images, indigenous oral teachings, art and ceremonies, organization of ideas, and scientific and mathematical concepts.

Your responses make a difference – please participate in USRI Surveys."

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:
  - a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
  - b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
  - c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
  - d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

<http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/747/01/>

Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. Instructors may request that evidence in the form of documentation be provided. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test. For information on possible forms of documentation, including statutory declarations, please see <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/m-1.html>.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar

“The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, ..., to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community”. The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a “positive and productive learning and working environment.” This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that “seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff”. Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
