COURSE TITLE: Global Shakespeare

Spring 2017

Instructor: Dr. Susan Bennett

Office: SS1038

Office hours: Mondays 3:45-4:45 and other times, by appointment

Course description: 2016 was the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's death and celebrations took place worldwide, with countless productions of his 37 plays on stage and in print in English- and non-English-speaking countries. This course will look at some of this recent work in the context of theories of post-coloniality, globalization and intercultural practice. We will look at a range of Shakespeare's plays as well as the critical contexts in which they are typically understood. The focus, however, will be on how they have been reproduced and adapted in contemporary, non-English-language productions, using (where possible) video recordings along with reviews and related critical material.

Texts and readings: Shakespeare Beyond English, eds. Bennett and Carson (Cambridge UP 2013) is a required text. Students will also need access to copies of Shakespeare's plays, starting with The Tempest (no particular edition is required) and to familiarize themselves with the Open-Access journal Multicultural Shakespeare and other online resources: performanceshakespeare2016.org, globalshakespeares.mit.edu/#, and a-s-i-a-web.org/en/home.php.

Note: We will watch two or three productions from the Globe-to-Globe Festival in class. Any student wishing to study a production outside of class will be required to rent (about $7-8) or purchase (about $10) the specific video from the Globe TV Player site: <https://globeplayer.tv/globe-to-globe?page=2>

Assignments and Evaluation:

In-class presentation (15 minutes) – 20%

Follow-up paper (text of in-class presentation + reflection on subsequent discussion [additional 2 pages], submitted electronically via email) – 15%

Response presentation (5-7 minute presentation responding to another student's in-class presentation, no paper copy required) – 15%

Research project outline (500-700 word plan for research document, accompanied by an annotated bibliography of 3-5 articles or books and 3-5 performance or other reviews) – 15%

Final research project (2000-2500 words) on an adaptation of a Shakespeare play (not one studied in class), to be submitted electronically via email) – 35%

Detailed instructions for assignments will be posted to the class D2L site.

There will be no registrar-scheduled exam in this course.

Grading system:

The University of Calgary's four-point Grading System, as described in the Calendar; (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-2.html>) will be used in this course.

A+/A (4.0); A- (3.7); B+ (3.3); B (3.0); B- (2.7); C+ (2.3); C (2.0); C- (1.7); D+ (1.3); D (1.0); F (0)

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Plagiarism:

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:
 - (a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
 - (b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
 - (c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
 - (d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar, (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/j.html>) "The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, ..., to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community". The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a "positive and productive learning and working environment." This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that "seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff". Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
