Course Description:

This course will focus on the history of Gothic fictions—especially by women writers and for women readers—from the late eighteenth century to the present. Through early works such as Anne Radcliffe’s The Italian (1797) and Emily Bronte’s Wuthering Heights (1847), we will explore the ways Gothic horror expresses gendered anxieties related to maternity; domestic entrapment and gender-based violence; and sexual desire. Daphne Du Maurier’s Jamaica Inn (1936) and Stella Gibbons’ Cold Comfort Farm (1932) will provide opportunity to trace the development of the genre and its comic backlash in the interwar context. In the contemporary context, we will explore, via Toni Morrison’s Beloved, the particular suitability of the Gothic mode in telling the story of the history of slavery in the U.S.

Course Pre-Requisite:

The pre-requisite for this course is two prior ENGLISH courses at the 400 level.

Qualifying for a Passing Grade:

Students do not need to pass or complete any particular course component in order to qualify for a passing grade in this class.

Note on Participation:

The participation mark in this course will be assessed on how well students prepare for class and how meaningfully they contribute to the life of the seminar. Preparation at the 500-level entails not simply coming to class having read the material, but having prepared questions, observations, and comments on the daily reading for the class as a whole. It is expected, further, that students read all introductions and footnotes to the assigned material and consult dictionaries or other reference sources for unfamiliar words or terms. Students who do not regularly attend class, by definition, cannot receive an exemplary grade on participation. In order to assess their own participation performance, student should ask themselves: "How well would this seminar run if everyone contributed as I do?" Students will receive an interim participation mark midway through the class that will indicate their current standing in this course component.

Submission of Assignments:

All written work will be submitted on D2L. If you are unable to meet the specified deadline of written work, please contact the instructor in advance of the due date whenever possible.

Late assignments will be penalized 1/3 of a letter grade for each business day late. No assignments will be accepted three business days past the due date without the prior approval of the course instructor. Computer malfunctions are not exceptions to the submission policy, so please plan accordingly.

All assignments for this course are subject to an additional oral examination at the instructor's discretion.

Grading system:

The University of Calgary's four-point Grading System, as described in the Calendar; (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-2.html>) will be used in this course.

A+/A (4.0); A- (3.7); B+ (3.3); B (3.0); B- (2.7); C+ (2.3); C (2.0); C- (1.7); D+ (1.3); D (1.0); F (0)

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Reaching Me:

Academics are usually best reached by email. Students can expect to receive replies to email enquiries within 24 hours during the business week and 48 hours over the weekend. Please note that your instructors may not respond to email after 5 p.m. or on the weekend. I also cannot guarantee that you will receive email replies within 48 hours of assignment due dates. Students should remember, also, that email is not a substitute for attending class or using regular office hours. Missed assignments will not be sent over email, nor should email be used to ask questions otherwise answered in class or on the course outline. Students are responsible for gathering their own notes on missed classes. I will not conduct tutorials by email. If you have not received a response to your email within the timelines specified above, consider whether your message lacks a clear question or the polish and politeness of a professional letter. If it passes muster, please don't be shy about sending it again.

Classroom Etiquette Notes:

☞ We all have busy and social lives. For the duration of class, however, your social and intellectual life should exist solely in the classroom. All electronic devices should be turned to silent as a courtesy both to the instructor and your peers. Laptops may be used to take notes, but students should refrain from playing games, surfing, or updating social media while in class. If you have special circumstances that require you to monitor your phone in silent mode, please notify the instructor and excuse yourself from the classroom when you have to take calls or respond to texts.

☞ This course is scheduled for one hour and fifteen minutes twice a week. Please schedule appointments and work shifts outside of class hours.

☞ Video and/or audio recording of lecture or discussion is prohibited without the permission of the instructor. Visual material from lecture will not be posted or otherwise distributed.

☞ My goal is to create an intellectually stimulating classroom where all people feel respected and safe to test new ideas. If, at any time, you have concerns about the classroom environment please make an appointment with the instructor. Students who have preferred names or forms of address (including non-gendered pronouns) are welcome to bring this to the attention of the instructor.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:

- (a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
- (b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
- (c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
- (d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

<http://www.dianahacker.com/resdoc/>
<http://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/747/01/>

Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. Instructors may request that evidence in the form of documentation be provided. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test. For information on possible forms of documentation, including statutory declarations, please see <https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/n-1.html>.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar, <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/j.html> "The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, ..., to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community". The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a "positive and productive learning and working environment." This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that "seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff". Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
