Fall Term 2016

Course description: What did Canadian women contribute to arts and culture around 100 years ago? This course will attempt to answer the question by looking at literature, drama and visual art of the 1920s in the context of Modernist ideas and practices. The course will engage directly with the Fall exhibition of the Beaver Hall Group of Artists at the Glenbow Museum, offering students the opportunity to present work in the museum setting. Prerequisite(s): 6 units of English at the 400 level or consent of the Department.

Texts and readings:

Students will require the following two books:

1920s Modernism in Montreal, eds. Jacques des Rochers and Brian Foss, eds. (Black Dog Publishing)

A Room of One's Own, Virginia Woolf (Broadview Press)

We will also read and work with Colleen Curran's contemporary play text, "Picturesque: Voices from Beaver Hall" – this text will be available on D2L with permission of the playwright.

Course Schedule:

This will be posted electronically on the class D2L site ahead of the first class meeting. Students must review the schedule carefully and make sure that readings are completed ahead of the class in which it will be discussed.

Assignments and Evaluation:

Two short papers, each worth 20%, to provide background material for classroom discussion (topics will be circulated early in term), to be submitted to the instructor electronically and shared among class members on D2L.

Participation in an event at the Glenbow Museum in November: students will have the opportunity to perform scenes from "Picturesque" or to be involved in the preparation of the event in other roles (e.g. director of a specific scene, background researcher). Students will have the opportunity to select preferred tasks and this will be decided by the end of September. This assignment will be worth 30% of the final grade.

Review of the Beaver Hall Group exhibition: this final paper (2000 words) will provide a reading of one or two paintings in the exhibition, supported by and engaged with our critical readings and discussions through the course. This assignment will be worth 30% of the final grade and will be due on December 12 and submitted to the instructor electronically.

There will be no registrar-scheduled examination in this class.

Assignments submitted after the deadline will be penalized with the loss of a third of a grade (an A- to B+) for each business day [not class] that the assignment is overdue. No assignments will be accepted one week past the assignment deadline without the prior consent of the instructor.

It is your responsibility to keep a copy of all assignments in case of loss by any cause.

Use of Electronic Devices:

Students are welcome to use laptops and other electronic devices in support of learning and for specific instructor-led tasks in the classroom. Any student found to be using a device for non-academic purposes will be asked to switch off that device and stow it away from their desk (e.g. in a backpack).

Grading system:

The University of Calgary's four-point Grading System, as described in the Calendar; (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-2.html>) will be used in this course.

A+/A (4.0); A- (3.7); B+ (3.3); B (3.0); B- (2.7); C+ (2.3); C (2.0); C- (1.7); D+ (1.3); D (1.0); F (0)

Please note that, according to the University Calendar (F.1), instructors may use their discretion when rounding upwards or downwards when the average of term work and exams is between two letter grades.

Although the A+ is solely an honorific that entails no additional points in the four-point system, the course instructor will employ this mark to distinguish superlative work that exceeds expectations in style, correctness, intellectual depth and breadth, sophistication, and originality.

Plagiarism:

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possible suspension or expulsion from the university. Please refer to the following information and make sure you are familiar with the statement below on plagiarism.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is an extremely serious offence. Please read the following information carefully. The penalty routinely recommended by the English Department for documented plagiarism is failure of the course in which the offence occurred; academic probation is also routinely applied at the Faculty level. Suspension or expulsion can result from severe or repeated plagiarism.

The University Calendar states:

1. Plagiarism - Essentially plagiarism involves submitting or presenting work in a course as if it were the student's own work done expressly for that particular course when, in fact, it is not. Most commonly plagiarism exists when:

- (a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test),
- (b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author,
- (c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or,
- (d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.

Plagiarism occurs when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement, or when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. Citing your sources in a bibliography is not enough, because a bibliography does not establish which parts of a student's work are taken from other sources. MLA (Modern Language Association) documentation or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose. Advice on adequate documentation can be found at the following web sites:

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH STATEMENT ON PRINCIPLES OF CONDUCT

According to the University Calendar, (<http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/j.html>) "The University of Calgary community has undertaken to be guided by the following statements of purpose and values: to promote free inquiry and debate, to act as a community of scholars, ..., to respect, appreciate, and encourage diversity, [and] to display care and concern for community". The Department of English, like the university as a whole, is committed to a "positive and productive learning and working environment." This environment is characterized by appreciation and encouragement of diversity and respect for the dignity of all persons: students, support staff, and faculty. The department will not tolerate unacceptable behaviour, such as threatening gestures, threatening or abusive verbal or written communication (including e-mails), or any conduct that "seriously disrupts the lawful education and related activities of students and/or university staff". Any cases of such misconduct should be reported immediately to the department Head, who, depending on the nature and severity of the incident, may then take further appropriate action.
