Course Description:

This course introduces students to key themes and debates in the history of Latin America since Independence. Using the methodologies of political, economic, social, cultural, and gender history, we will survey important political and economic events in Latin American history, with a focus on how these broader trends intersected with cultural and social change in an ethnically diverse and economically stratified society. As well as developing an understanding of Latin American history, students will improve their writing, critical analysis, and public speaking skills by completing the assignments for this course.

Required Texts:

Dawson, Alexander. Latin America since Independence: A History with Primary Sources. Second Edition. New York: Routledge, 2014.

Meade, Teresa A. A History of Modern Latin America. Second Edition. New York: Wiley-Blackwell, 2016.

Bunker, Steven B. Creating Mexican Consumer Culture in the Age of Porfirio Díaz. Albuquerque: University of New Mexico Press, 2012.

Tinsman, Heidi. Buying into the Regime. Durham: Duke University Press, 2014.

Required texts are available for purchase at the bookstore, and have been placed on reserve at the library.

Suggested Reading:

“The History Student’s Handbook: A Short Guide to Writing History Essays” (available at <http://hist.ucalgary.ca/sites/hist.ucalgary.ca/files/EssayHandbook1.pdf>).

Course Grading:

Participation	20%
Book Review (October 7)	10%
Critical Essay (November 7)	10%
Research Essay (December 2)	30%
Midterm (October 28)	10%
Final Exam (scheduled by the registrar)	20%

Students must complete all required assignments to pass this course.

Course Requirements:

Your final mark for this course is based upon your participation in class discussions of the readings, a semester-long research project that includes a book review essay, a critical analysis essay, and a final research essay, as well as an in-class mid-term, and a final examination, to be scheduled during the exam period.

Research Project: Research essays will be on a topic of the student's choosing relating to the history of Latin America since Independence. Students must discuss topics with the instructor.

Book Review: Students will choose a monograph on a topic in modern Latin American history that they are interested in researching throughout the course of the semester. Students should consult the professor regarding the choice of an appropriate topic and monograph. Book reviews should be 3 pages in length and conform to The History Student's Handbook in matters of style.

Critical Essay: Students will select three articles on the same topic as the monograph reviewed and weigh the arguments and evidence presented by the three authors. Internet sources, such as Wikipedia, should not be used, but journal articles that were accessed via the internet, using databases such as JSTOR, Historical Abstracts, and Project Muse that are available on the library's website, are encouraged. Critical essays should be 4-5 pages in length. Be sure to consult The History Student's Handbook for help with footnotes.

Research Essay: Research essays will represent the culmination of each student's research throughout the semester, and will be on the same topic as the book review and critical essay. Research essays should be 12 pages (3000 words) in length. Be sure to consult The History Student's Handbook for help with footnotes. The essay will be assessed on the basis of both the clarity of argument and writing effectiveness (grammar, style, etc.). Bibliographies must include at least 10 sources, in addition to the book and the journal articles from the book review and critical essay.

Mid-term Exam: The closed-book final examination will take place in class and will cover material from the lectures and the readings.

Final Exam: The closed-book final examination will take place during the exam period and will be scheduled by the registrar. It will cover material from the lectures and the readings.

Participation: Participation will be evaluated on the basis of students' contributions to classroom discussions of the required readings. Extra credit opportunities will go towards students' participation grades.

Plagiarism:

Plagiarism occurs when one submits or presents one's work in a course, or ideas and/or passages in a written piece of work, as if it were one's own work done expressly for that particular course, when, in fact, it is not. As noted in The History Student's Handbook, plagiarism may take several forms:

- Failure to cite sources properly may be considered plagiarism. This could include quotations, and wording used from another source but not acknowledged.
- Borrowed, purchased, and/or ghostwritten papers are considered plagiarism, as is submitting one's own work for more than one course without the permission of the instructor(s) involved.
- Extensive paraphrasing of one or a few sources is also considered plagiarism, even when notes are used, unless the essay is a critical analysis of those works.
- The use of notes does not justify the sustained presentation of another author's language and ideas as one's own.

Plagiarism is a serious academic offence and written work that appears to contain plagiarized passages will not be graded. All such work will be reported to the Faculty of Arts' associate deans of students who will apply the penalties specified in the University of Calgary Calendar.

Universal Student Ratings of Instruction:

At the University of Calgary, feedback provided by students through the Universal Student Ratings of Instruction (USRI) survey provides valuable information to help with evaluating instruction, enhancing learning and teaching, and selecting courses (www.ucalgary.ca/usri).
