

HTST 533
Gender History in Canada
Winter 2014

Instructor: Dr. N. Janovicek

Hours of Instruction: Monday 5:30 - 8:15, SS613

Gender is at the core of our political, social, and cultural identity. But gender is not a fixed and ahistorical concept. It has a history. This course examines how Canadian historians have used gender to rethink the past. In seminar discussions we will examine the intersections of gender, race, class, and sexual identity in historical context. Students will also have the opportunity to write a major term paper based on archival research.
