LAND ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The University of Calgary resides upon the traditional territories of the people of the Treaty 7 region in Southern Alberta, which includes the Blackfoot Confederacy (comprising the Siksika, Piikani, and Kainai First Nations), the Tsuut'ina First Nation, and the Stoney Nakoda (including the Chiniki, Bearspaw, and Wesley First Nations). The City of Calgary is also home to Métis Nation of Alberta, Region III. The University of Calgary is situated on land adjacent to where the Bow River meets the Elbow River; the traditional Blackfoot name of this place is "Moh'kins'tsis", which we now call the City of Calgary.

ii' taa'poh'to'p, the Blackfoot name of the University of Calgary's Indigenous Strategy, was bestowed and transferred in ceremony by Kainai Elder Andy Black Water on June 21, 2017. The name signifies a place to rejuvenate and re-energize while on a journey. Traditionally, these places are recognized as safe, caring, restful – and offer renewed energy for an impending journey. In a traditional naming ceremony, transitioning into the new name is a journey of transformation towards self-actualization.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course introduces students to the field of gender studies, and provides a helpful overview of relevant issues and concerns. The creation of women's studies is one of the significant achievements of the second-wave feminist movement. Feminists worked for many years to create a place in the academy to study and reflect on issues of gender, race, sexuality, and class, both globally and locally. While there will be a strong emphasis on issues of gender and sexuality in this class, we will also be exploring other issues such as race. And because the discipline of women's studies has been connected with feminist community organizing and social change work, we will examine how the field of women's studies connects academic and activist work.

CONTENT WARNING

Some of the materials and topics in this class may include explicit written or audio-visual content (violence, sexuality, objectionable or illegal conduct). If these materials make you uncomfortable, you are encouraged to speak with the instructor. You will not be exempt from any assigned work but we will work together to accommodate your concerns. This class respects difference and diversity while welcoming thoughtful, critical debate and discussion.

REQUIRED/RECOMMENDED TEXTBOOKS, READINGS AND MATERIALS

COURSE ASSESSMENT AND EVALUATION

Assessment Components and Grading Schemes

This course offers no re-takes or make-up assignments. Requesting extensions on assignments should be done well ahead of the due date.

If unforeseeable circumstances prevent you from handing in an assignment on time, please contact the instructor as soon as possible.

If you wish to discuss a grade with the instructor, you must do so during office hours (by appointment).

Unless otherwise stated, assignments must be submitted by 11:59 PM on the due date.

Assignment Overview:

Participation – 25% (5% each) - Submit on D2L Discussion Board (Participation Forum)

Critical Reflection Papers – 2 x 25% = 50% - Submit Via Email

Final Presentation— 25% - Submit on D2L (Final Presentation Forum)

Participation:

Participation will be evaluated at the end term, and is based on the student's engagement in class discussions on the D2L site (Brightspace). Students must respond briefly (in 150-200 words) to questions posed in sessions 1, 3, 5, 7, and 9 in the discussion board of D2L. You only have one week (the week that each assignment is for) to answer the assignments.

To access the discussion board, click on the Communication tab on the main page. In the drop down menu click on Discussions. Then choose the discussion Forum for the appropriate week and create your own thread with your name as the subject heading and write your response in the dialogue box. Don't forget to hit Post to put it up on the board!

Participation is worth 25% of the final grade.

*Participation Assignment 1, Session 1: Introduce yourself in the Discussion Board! Why did you choose this course? What are your expectations from this course?

Due date: July 4

*Participation Assignment 2, Session 3: How does culture influence gender?

Due date: July 11

*Participation Assignment 3, Session 5: What is masculinity? Who can practice it? How do we practice it? How is it linked to other identity categories like race/class/sexuality/ability?

Due date: July 18

*Participation Assignment 4, Session 7: How is the high school prom a space of gender regulation as seen in the film Take Me to Prom?

Due date: July 25

*Participation Assignment 5, Session 9: How is gender constructed in conjunction with other axes of power at prom? Sexuality, socioeconomic status, race, ability, age, (to name the most obvious)?

Due date: August 1

Critical Reflection Papers:

Students will write a total of 2 CRPs during the term. These will be short (750-1000 words) papers that discuss the assigned texts/films for one week each. The papers will put the texts in conversation with each other, and with the larger themes of the course by answering the assigned questions.

They are each worth 20% of the final grade.

What's a critical reflection paper? A reflection paper is an opportunity to practice your critical thinking and writing skills. It is also a chance to pause and reflect on an issue or idea that you might ordinarily think about only in passing. In your reflection papers, you will answer questions in writing using insights from the readings and films we have been discussing and from your own personal experience. You must properly cite any ideas you use from any source other than your own head. The style guide you choose must be followed properly and consistently. APA style is preferred.

These papers provide you with an opportunity to show how you are engaging with the course's ideas and texts. Each paper will be 750-1000 words (approx. 3-4 pages, double spaced) in length, and should respond to the questions posed in the assignment.

I will assess your assignment based on your comprehension of the readings/films; the thoughtfulness of your evaluation; and your ability to demonstrate links between the readings/films you are writing on and your observations about the real world (which include any personal reflections you might have). You are also welcome to refer to relevant ideas in readings from other weeks. Although all papers are expected to demonstrate an engagement with and comprehension of assigned readings, outstanding response papers will include thoughtful observations and well formulated questions about readings and their relationships to the goals and foci of the course. Use the texts to support your arguments, but please maintain your own voice; clearly distinguish your views from those of the authors. Please be self-reflexive, think about your reactions to the readings/films and your experiences of the class.

The Critical Reflection Papers are worth 50% (2*25%) of the final grade.

Critical Response Paper #1

Please respond to the following questions. You may combine your answers into one long essay or answer them separately. The total word count should be 750-800 words. You must cite at least 2 course readings in your response, and create a bibliography for these citations. These materials have to be primary sources, meaning texts we have read or films we have watched (not course notes, or lectures, or power point presentations). If you choose to use any non-primary sources, they must be in addition to the three primary sources, and must also be cited. Please double-space, use 12-point font, and regular margins. Your paper must have a title page containing the name of the course, the date submitted, your name and student #, and the instructor's name.

Questions:

What's your take on the "Hoe Archetype"? Is it still a thing?

Is there a new archetype to which women are compared? Give an example from pop culture. Is it problematic or empowering for women, or a complex mix?

CRP1 – Due date: July 17

Critical Response Paper #2

You must answer these questions in a type written format, using 12-point font. Please include a title page with your name, student number, the instructor's name, and the course name and number on it. The responses must utilize proper citation formatting (MLA or APA), and you must submit a properly formatted bibliography with your response. You must properly cite the film Buying Sex, and any course material you use in your response. You must use at least 3 course materials in your responses to the questions (the film counts as one). These materials have to be primary sources, meaning texts we have read or films we have watched (not course notes, or lectures, or power point presentations). If you choose to use any non-primary sources, they must be in addition to the three primary sources, and must also be cited.

Proper citation style guides are available at:

<https://www.library.mun.ca/researchtools/guides/citations/>

You may answer each question individually, or combine them into one longer essay.

You must write 400-500 words for each question (for a total of 800-1000 words).

- 1) Why is it important to use an intersectional analysis when discussing sex work, specifically? Give examples that support your answer.
- 2) What are your thoughts on the abolition versus decriminalization (of both sex workers and clients) positions presented in the film? How do heteronormative concepts of gender, sexuality and sex play a role in the debates?

Final Presentation:

For this presentation you are required to create a 10-slide, narrated power point. The first slide will be a "cover page", and the final slide will be dedicated to your works-cited list. The other 8 slides will contain text and images explaining your take-aways from this course. They will highlight the things you have learned and/or unlearned through the readings/films/discussions featured in the course.

You should think about how you have connected the course material to your life and the things you experience around you every day. For example: Do you encounter these things in a different way? Why or why not? Do you have new questions that you wish to investigate? How can you connect things you've read/seen in this course with other courses you've taken?

Be creative, and have fun with this!

Again, the assignment will be graded on content and style. Proper academic citation style must be used and the rules of academic integrity always apply.

The narrated PowerPoints should be uploaded on the discussion board (thread topic: Final Presentation- Narrated PowerPoints)

Final Presentation is worth 25% of the final grade

Final Presentation – Due date: August 11

GSXS GRADING SYSTEM:

This course uses a combination of letter and number grades, according to the chart below. The university's Undergraduate Grading System is available here:
<https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-1-1.html>.

In most cases where the final letter grade for the course is less than 1% from the next higher grade, the instructor will round-up. This course does not use a bell curve – whatever mark you get is it.

GENDER AND SEXUALITY STUDIES PROGRAM COURSE POLICIES

GENDER AND SEXUALITY STUDIES COURSE CONDUCT

Student Conduct

A Student Code of Conduct Agreement, available on D2L, is part of this course. It is a required component of the class (see “Engagement”). Students are expected to attend class regularly. They must come prepared and ready to work.

Responsibility for fulfilling the requirements for all aspects of the course resides with the student. The professor will not give out lecture notes, repeat information, nor provide replacement copies of material provided during regular class meetings.

Students must adhere to the Principles of Conduct, both Academic and Non-Academic, as outlined in the University of Calgary Calendar: ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html

Course Technology

This course is offered as an online/remote version only. Students are responsible for their own technological equipment (hardware, software, and connectivity) and must feel confident using a variety of programs and portals. The instructor does not provide technical support. If you are experiencing any technical issues, you must go through ucalgary.ca/it. All work must be completed using the online technologies designated by the instructor. Failure to complete any assignments by the deadline and according to the instructions due to technological error on the student's part is not sufficient grounds for an extension or re-take, and may result in a grade of F (0).

Students are eligible for an Office 365 subscription with their U of C IT account/email with which they may install and activate the Microsoft Office program suite on up to 5 devices. They may download the Microsoft Office installation file by signing into their email online at <https://office365.ucalgary.ca> and selecting "Install Office Apps" from their main Office 365 portal page. Once the Microsoft Office suite is installed, they may activate the license by signing in with their @ucalgary.ca email.

A D2L portal has been set up for this course that allows for group correspondence, course announcements, class materials, assignment submissions and grading, and other forms of communication. Students are expected to check D2L at least once a week for any updates. D2L only uses @ucalgary email addresses.

Other platforms, portals, and programs may be required to complete course work. Students must have the capability to stream video.

Students must be able to edit files in Google Docs and Google Slides.

During synchronous meetings, we encourage students to turn on their video interface, and avoid distractions (including technologies and screens that are not relevant to the course) in order to facilitate group connections. At the same time, we are aware that there are circumstances that do not always make this possible. We trust students to make the right decision for themselves in keeping with the Braver Space Guidelines.

Student-Instructor Communication

Appropriate communication procedures are described in detail in the Student Code of Conduct Agreement. The instructor's preferred means of communication is first by scheduled office hours, then by a pre-arranged meeting time (only if the professor's office hours conflict with another course), and then by email.

The instructor will endeavor to respond to emails within three business days of receiving the message. If the student emails a question that is fully addressed by the syllabus, Student Code of Conduct, or posted on D2L, the instructor will not reply. If you don't receive a response within three business days, you can likely find the answer yourself. The instructor may respond to your email query with the request that you meet to discuss. Please note, that the university's regular business hours are 8:30-4:30, Monday through Friday and excludes recognized holidays. See the Academic Schedule for more details: ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/academic-schedule.html

IMPORTANT PROGRAM, DEPARTMENTAL, FACULTY AND UNIVERSITY INFORMATION

Gender and Sexuality Studies Program Course Policies

Respect difference and diversity while welcoming thoughtful, critical debate and discussion. No one person's right to their beliefs may supersede another person's right to security and dignity.

When in a classroom dedicated to social justice education, conflict will happen. That is part of a healthy, dynamic, questioning space of learning and discovery. You are encouraged to hold onto your own personal beliefs, but recognize that there will be differences of opinion and experience.

A university classroom holds high standards of research, evidence, and analytical proof. Students need to listen attentively, respectfully, and critically to the evidence provided in class lectures, readings, discussions, and other materials.

Some of the materials and topics may include explicit content (violence; sexuality; profanity; blasphemy; objectionable or illegal conduct). If you feel any materials may cause you distress or severe discomfort, you are encouraged to speak with the professor and/or to take measures to ensure that you feel braver in the classroom. You will not be exempt from any assigned work, but we will work together to accommodate your concerns.

Braver Space Guidelines

"Braver Space" principles recognize that everyone brings different resiliencies and capacities to a group setting. We must all bring our personal bravery into the classroom space, and be mindful of what that means specifically to us. This does not mean sharing or participating in a way that violates personal boundaries (yours or another person's), nor cajoling others into participating in ways that are not conducive to their personal bravery. It means being respectful, self-aware, and mindful of the classroom dynamic and your place in it. Some guidelines include:

- Do not make assumptions about other people’s identities and life experiences. That includes (but is not limited to) race, gender, sexuality, physical ability, mental and emotional well-being, spirituality or religiosity, age, citizenship status, and reproductive capabilities.
- Recognize that language is a powerful tool in social justice education. It also changes as new issues and greater clarity develop. If you need to correct language use, do so respectfully; if you are corrected, accept that correction respectfully.
- Becoming self-aware is a continual process, and everyone is at a different point on their personal journey. Individuals make mistakes. Our assumption in this classroom is that we are all moving forward with our best intentions. If someone says something that may be construed to be problematic, we will raise questions and/or concerns about the language, not about the person.
- Make an effort to speak from the position of “I” (not the generalized “you” or “people”) and to clarify any statements you make, using verifiable evidence and experience. Making a sweeping judgment on a class or group of people is unacceptable.
- Address people without assuming their gender. Some ways to do this:
  - Don’t refer to groups as guys, ladies, women, men, etc. Instead, use gender-neutral terms like “folks,” “all,” “everyone,” etc.
  - Refer to individuals whose gender has not been disclosed to you in gender-neutral ways such as “the person who said...”
- Address people using the gender pronouns they have indicated for themselves. Offer your gender pronouns to others to make it a braver space to talk about gender pronouns. Some gender pronouns include, but are not limited to:
  - they/them/theirs
  - she/her/hers
  - ze/hir/hirs
  - he/him/his
  - ey/em/eirs
- Similarly, if you are unsure about any aspect of a person’s identity and how they would prefer to be addressed, ask respectfully. This can apply to Indigeneity, race or ethnicity, faith or spirituality, physical or mental ability, or other vectors of their identity. When speaking in more general terms, if you are corrected, accept the correction graciously. If you are questioned about your choice of general or self-identification, provide a succinct and respectful explanation.
- Provide discrete and succinct content warnings if you will be talking about topics that may be traumatic for some and the content is not already apparent. Examples of such topics include abuse, violence, addiction, suicide, mental health, transphobia/homophobia/other forms of discriminatory behaviours. An example of wording could be, “Please note that there will be (x) content in my discussion.”
- Respect your own and others’ physical, mental, and emotional boundaries. Please speak up in a respectful way if you are uncomfortable, seek support if you want/need it, and engage in self-care as required, while still maintaining your commitment and focus on the participatory classroom.

Students needing an Accommodation in relation to their coursework or to fulfil requirements for a graduate degree, based on a protected ground other than disability, should communicate this need, preferably in writing, to their instructor.

Absence or Missed Course Assessments

Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test.
