Course Description

Biomedical Ethics engages in debates on ethical issues that relate to practices in healthcare and medical research. Some of the topics covered in this course are abortion, whether there is a right to healthcare, and genetic enhancement.

Course Learning Outcomes

Based on a study of various ethical theories this course aims to develop the capacity to carefully engage in the moral evaluations of certain actions and regulations. As part of this process students will be given the opportunity to develop their ability to produce clear written summaries of positions and arguments proposed by various ethicists and to produce thoughtful assessments of these proposals.

Prerequisite(s): There are no prerequisites for this course.

Required Texts: Readings will be indicated via the D2L site for this class.

Course Assessment

The final grade will be determined by two in class tests and one take home test. A hard copy of your take home test will be submitted into a drop box located in the department of philosophy (12th floor Social Science, across from Room 1253). Electronic submissions will not be accepted. The tests involve writing essays on assigned topics. Missed in class tests and late take home tests will be assigned a grade of zero unless a university approved justification is promptly provided. There is no registrar-scheduled final exam for this course.

It is the student's responsibility to request academic accommodations according to the University policies and procedures. The student accommodation policy can be found at ucalgary.ca/access/accommodations/policy.

Students needing an Accommodation because of a disability or medical condition should communicate this need to Student Accessibility Services in accordance with the Procedure for Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/procedure-for-accommodations-for-students-with-disabilities.pdf. Students needing an Accommodation in relation to their coursework or to fulfil requirements for a graduate degree, based on a protected ground other than disability, should communicate this need, preferably in writing, to their instructor.

Absence or Missed Course Assessments

Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. Instructors may request that evidence in the form of documentation be provided. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test.
