Course Description

Biomedical Ethics engages in debates on ethical issues that relate to practices, or proposed practices, in health care and medical research. In this course we will participate in these debates by critically assessing and developing arguments that concern these issues. Some of the topics covered in this course are euthanasia, abortion, genetic engineering, and resource allocation. The final grade will be determined by two in class tests and one take home test. The tests involve writing essays on assigned topics. A drop box will be set up in the Philosophy Department (12th floor, Social Science Building) for you to submit your take home test. Take home tests will not be accepted via email under any circumstances. Missed in class tests and late take home tests will be assigned a grade of zero unless a university approved justification is promptly provided. There is no Registrar-scheduled final exam for this course.
