COURSE INFORMATION

What does it mean to say our simple descriptions of complex situations are true? This course will draw upon American pragmatism to explore how concepts of truth (or concepts related to truth). It will draw upon work in philosophy of science concerning the relation between scientific models and the complex parts of the world they are used to represent and engage. Scientists acknowledge that their models and theories do not represent the world in all its complexities. But if this is the case, then what does it mean to say that their models or theories are true or accurate. Science provides a laboratory for answering the question concerning what it could mean to say simple descriptions of complex situations are true.

PREREQUISITE(S)

6 units in courses labelled Philosophy, of which, 3 units must be from Philosophy 201, 395, 421, 423, 461, 463, 467, 481, 483 and 3 units must be at the 400 level or above.

- Ability to identify and articulate questions for discussion and investigation
- Ability to engage in constructive philosophical discussion of peers’ ideas
- Ability to write a convincing argument that takes adequate account of alternative positions
- Ability to engage in constructive, respectful oral and written argumentation
- Ability to help peers develop their positions and arguments
- Ability to use feedback to improve one’s own positions and arguments

REQUIRED/RECOMMENDED TEXTBOOKS, READINGS AND MATERIALS

All required readings will be available for free in electronic form. Weekly readings will include book chapters and journal articles. Full bibliographical information will be available on D2L.

COURSE ASSESSMENT AND EVALUATION

Weekly Reading and Rereading: Each week, students are required to reread the reading first considered in the previous class meeting and read a new reading selection that will be discussed in the upcoming class.

Weekly Discussion Questions (200 – 300 words): Students are required to write and submit a question on the new reading by 10 pm every Monday. Specific instructions will be available on D2L. Questions should be submitted to the appropriate D2L dropbox.

Weekly Informal Essays (300 – 400 words): Students are required to write a brief informal essay addressing a question or theme raised during class each week. The question or theme to be addressed will be posted on D2L on Wednesday morning. Essays are due by noon on Saturday. Of course, early essays are welcome. Essays may be posted for class members to read and will be discussed during the first part of the upcoming class. Essays should be submitted to the appropriate D2L dropbox.

Papers: Students are required to write and submit two papers. The papers will be based on class readings and discussions. Students will have the option of visiting the instructor with rough drafts of each paper. The final draft of each paper should be no longer than 1,800 words in length (including footnotes but not references). Student will choose one of two assigned topics for the first paper, and likewise for the second. Papers should be submitted to the appropriate D2L dropbox.

Style and Citation Requirements: All written work for this course should adhere to the style, citation, and formatting requirements of the journal Philosophy of Science. Those requirements can be found at <https://www.journals.uchicago.edu/journals/phos/instruct> Participation: Students are required to present their discussion questions and ideas from their informal essays. More generally, the success of the seminar strongly depends on class discussion. Every student should participate in class discussion. This does not mean that you need to enter the discussion every class meeting. Students should contribute in at least half of our class meetings. The more voices heard in class, the better the discussion. You may feel like you have nothing to contribute, but even pointing out that you are confused about something in the reading or discussion can be an important contribution.

This seminar will succeed only if everyone feels like they belong and are free to ask questions and participate in discussions. This will require the mindfulness of each of us. So please be respectful, positive, and constructive in your participation in the course.

Completion Requirement: Students must complete at least 6 discussion questions, 6 informal essays, and both papers to pass the course.

Assignment	Due date	Points
11 Discussion questions	10 pm on Mondays	20 points (2 points each, lowest score dropped)
11 Informal essays	noon on Saturdays	20 points (2 points each, lowest score dropped)
Paper 1	5 pm, Thursday, October 21	25 points
Paper 2	5 pm, Thursday, December 16	30 points

Assignments turned in late: If an assignment is turned in late without an appropriate excuse it will receive a grade of zero, but it nevertheless can count towards fulfilling the Completion Requirement stated above.

No registrar scheduled final will be given.

Final grades will be determined as follows:

96 to 100 = A+	75 to less than 80 = B	55 to less than 60 = C-
90 to less than 96 = A	70 to less than 75 = B-	50 to less than 54 = D+
85 to less than 90 = A-	65 to less than 70 = C+	45 to less than 49 = D
80 to less than 85 = B+	60 to less than 64 = C	below 45 = F

IMPORTANT DEPARTMENTAL, FACULTY AND UNIVERSITY INFORMATION

The following information is MANDATORY. You may choose to include additional policies, to be reviewed by the Department Head during the approval process.

Academic Accommodations

It is the student's responsibility to request academic accommodations according to the University policies and procedures. The student accommodation policy can be found at ucalgary.ca/legal-services/sites/default/files/teams/1/Policies-Student-Accommodation-Policy.pdf.

Students needing an Accommodation because of a disability or medical condition should communicate this need to Student Accessibility Services in accordance with the Procedure for Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: ucalgary.ca/legal-services/sites/default/files/teams/1/Policies-Accommodation-for-Students-with-Disabilities-Procedure.pdf. Students needing an Accommodation in relation to their coursework or to fulfil requirements for a graduate degree, based on a protected ground other than disability, should communicate this need, preferably in writing, to their instructor.

Absence or Missed Course Assessments

Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test.

Academic Advising

If you are a student in the Faculty of Arts, you can speak to an academic advisor in the Arts Students' Centre about course planning, course selection, registration, program progression and more. Visit the Faculty of Arts website at <https://arts.ucalgary.ca/current-students/undergraduate/academic-advising> for contact details and information regarding common academic concerns.

For questions specific to the philosophy program, please visit arts.ucalgary.ca/philosophy. Further academic guidance is available by contacting Jeremy Fantl (Undergraduate Program Director jfantl@ucalgary.ca) or David Dick (Honours Advisor dgduck@ucalgary.ca). If you have questions regarding registration, please email Courtenay Canivet (Undergraduate Program Administrator phildept@ucalgary.ca)

Writing Assessment and Support

The assessment of all written assignments—and, to a lesser extent, written exam responses—is based in part on writing skills. This includes correctness (grammar, punctuation, sentence structure, etc.), as well as general clarity and organization. Research papers must include a thorough and accurate citation of sources. Students are also encouraged to use Writing Support Services for assistance. For more information, and other services offered by the Student Success Centre, please visit ucalgary.ca/student-services/student-success.

Required Technology

In order to successfully engage in their learning experiences at the University of Calgary, students taking online, remote, and blended courses are required to have reliable access to the following technology:

- A computer with a supported operating system, as well as the latest security, and malware updates;
- A current and updated web browser;
- Webcam (built-in or external);
- Microphone and speaker (built-in or external), or headset with microphone;
- Current antivirus and/or firewall software enabled;
- Broadband internet connection.

Most current laptops will have a built-in webcam, speaker and microphone.

Responsible Use of D2L

Important information and communication about this course will be posted on D2L (Desire2Learn), UCalgary's online learning management system. Visit <https://ucalgary.service-now.com/it> for how-to information and technical assistance.

All users of D2L are bound by the guidelines on the responsible use of D2L posted here: <https://elearn.ucalgary.ca/commitment-to-the-responsible-use-of-d2l/>. The instructor may establish additional specific course policies for D2L, Zoom, and any other technologies used to support remote learning.
