Course Description

This class will investigate the ethics of giving and receiving money. When, if ever, is it wrong to give money because of its recipient or to accept money because of its source? Is there something distinctive about exchanges of things with monetary value? This class will welcome sources from a number of disciplines to help answer this question, but for students, background in moral and political philosophy will be a plus.

Course Learning Outcomes: Students in this class will gain or refine

- An ability to critically digest, interpret, and analyze complex sources;
- An ability to write and revise a convincing argument that takes adequate account of alternative positions;
- An ability to engage in constructive, respectful, oral and written argumentation
- An ability to present complex ideas and lead constructive discussion about them.

Required Texts: All reading material for this class will be either indicated or made available through the D2L site for this class: <https://d2l.ucalgary.ca/>

Course Assessment

Weekly Questions:	10%
Suggested Source Paper:	5%	Due: No later than Wednesday, November 21 at 4:00 pm
Presentation	10%
Short Papers:	35%	(Details on due dates below.)
Final Paper:	40%	Due: Wednesday, December 12 th at 12:00 noon.

This course has no Registrar administered final exam, only a final paper.

Writing and the grading thereof is a factor in the evaluation of your work for this course. For further explanation, see the University Calendar at <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/e-2.html>

Weekly questions are to be submitted in person at the beginning of class in hard copy. They will not be accepted at other times or in other forms.

Suggested Source Papers must be submitted prior to Wednesday, November 21 at 4:00 pm.

Short papers will not be accepted after their designated due date has passed.

Final papers are accepted late, with a penalty of one full grade per 24-hour period overdue. So, an A- paper submitted in the first 24 hours after it was due will receive a B-, if submitted between 24 and 48 hours after it was due would receive a C-, and so on. Once a paper is late, it should be submitted via email (to me at dgdick@ucalgary.ca) as soon as it is ready.

The final paper must be a revision of one of the three short papers. It is therefore not possible to pass the class without submitting at least one short paper that can then be revised into the final paper. A student submitting no short papers may not submit the final paper and will receive an F (0.0) for both the short papers and long paper, guaranteeing a final grade of F (0.0) for the course.

Weekly Questions:

Each week, I'd like you to submit a question based on the reading for the day that you submit the question. The question you write should convince me that you've read the day's reading, at least well enough to be confused by it. I'm not kidding: confusion is a philosophical heuristic, it either helps you identify a place where you don't understand, or where the argument doesn't make sense. Either one of these counts as philosophical progress. These questions and their explanations need not be any longer than about half a page. (I'll post an example of what I mean to D2L.)

Weekly questions are only accepted when submitted in person at the beginning of each class, and only in hard copy. Barring extraordinary and documented serious emergencies, missed weekly questions cannot be made up.

We will meet for 12 weeks this semester but you only owe me 10 weekly questions for the term. It's entirely up to you which week (beyond the first week) you'd like to pass on. Extra weekly questions beyond this 10 will be read, but will not count for any extra credit.

Weekly questions can be hand written, but keeping an electronic file with your weekly questions can be helpful both for studying and for keeping track of how many you've turned in.

Weekly questions are to be submitted in person at the beginning of class in hard copy. They will not be accepted at other times or in other forms.

Suggested Source Papers:

Each student in this course will be required to submit a paper suggesting a source (book, paper, article, etc.) that is relevant to the subject matter for this course and arguing that it ought to be included in the reading list for the class. This will involve explaining the details of the suggested source and the case for why the class ought to consider it together.

A source is only eligible for suggestion if it is not already on the posted reading list for the course, and a suggested source paper cannot pass if it suggests a source already posted to the list. The reading list for the course will be left deliberately incomplete at the beginning of the term, but it will be in a student's interest to complete this assignment as early as possible, since eligible sources may be eliminated as the reading list is periodically updated.

Suggested Source papers are due no later than the antepenultimate meeting of the class on Wednesday, November 21, by 4:00 pm.

Presentation:

Once in the term, you will lead the discussion by giving a presentation on one or more of the readings for the day. This will involve laying out the issues involved, engaging with those issues (asking questions, pointing out implications, etc.) and then leading the discussion about them.

It is recommended but not required for you to meet with me prior to the day of your presentation to discuss your plans for it. Presenters will lead discussion for roughly one half of a class's allotted time, so there can be no more than two presentations on any given day. Email me to sign up. In your message, please indicate which assigned reading you want to present on, or what new source you would like to have assigned to the class to present on. Presentation slots are allotted on a first come, first served basis.

You must sign up for these presentations at least one week in advance of an already assigned reading, and two weeks in advance if suggesting a new reading,

Presentations will be graded on the 0.0-4.3 scale described below.

Short Papers: Three short papers are required for this class. Their due dates are as follows:

First Short Paper:	Due no later than 4:00pm on Wednesday, Oct 3
Second Short Paper:	Due no later than 4:00pm on Wednesday, Oct 24
Third Short Paper:	Due no later than 4:00pm on Wednesday, Nov 21

Short papers are accepted prior to their due dates, but not after. This means that even if the first short paper you submit arrives after the due date for the First Short Paper, but before the deadline for the Second Short Paper, it counts as the Second Short Paper.

I prefer short papers to be handed in in class in hard copy, but will accept them via email (dgdick@ucalgary.ca) if this is necessary to meet the deadline for them.

Short papers will be graded pass/fail according to detailed specifications distributed before the first one is due. The letter grade for the Short Papers portion of the final grade calculation will be determined as follows:

3 Passing Short Papers =	A (4.0)
2 Passing Short Papers =	B (3.0)
1 Passing Short Paper =	C (2.0)
0 Passing Short Papers =	F (0.0)

Short papers will not be accepted after their designated due date has passed.

Final Papers:

The final paper is due Wednesday, December 12th at 12:00 noon. It must be a revision of one of the student's previously submitted short papers. It will be graded on the 0.0-4.3 scale described below.

Detailed instructions for the final paper will be distributed in advance of this due date.

Final papers are accepted late, with a penalty of one full grade per 24-hour period overdue. So, an A- paper submitted in the first 24 hours after it was due will receive a B-, if submitted between 24 and 48 hours after it was due would receive a C-, and so on. Once a paper is late, it should be submitted via email (to me at dgdick@ucalgary.ca) as soon as it is ready.

Letter Grade Conversion Table

With the exception of short papers, all evaluated material will be graded on a scale from A+ to F. To weight assignments and calculate the final grade, these letter grades will be converted into the standard 4.0 scale:

4.3 – A+	3.3 – B+	2.3 – C+	1.3 – D+	0.0 – F
4.0 – A	3.0 – B	2.0 – C	1.0 – D
3.7 – A–	2.7 – B–	1.7 – C–

The arithmetic that will calculate your final grade will follow this formula:

$(W. Questions).10 + (Suggested Source Paper).05 + (Presentation).10 + (Short Papers).35 + (Final Paper).40 = \text{Final Grade}$

IMPORTANT DEPARTMENTAL, FACULTY AND UNIVERSITY INFORMATION

Academic Honesty

Cheating or plagiarism on any assignment or examination is regarded as an extremely serious academic offense, the penalty for which will be an F on the assignment or an F in the course, and possibly a disciplinary sanction such as probation, suspension, or expulsion. See the relevant section K.5 on 'Academic Misconduct' in the current University Calendar <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k-5.html>.

Intellectual honesty requires that your work include adequate referencing to sources. Plagiarism occurs when you do not acknowledge or correctly reference your sources. If you have questions about correct referencing, consult your instructor.

Academic Accommodation

The student accommodation policy can be found at: ucalgary.ca/access/accommodations/policy.

Students needing an Accommodation because of a disability or medical condition should communicate this need to Student Accessibility Services in accordance with the Procedure for Accommodations for Students with Disabilities <http://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/student-accommodation-policy.pdf>.

Students needing an Accommodation based on a Protected Ground other than Disability, should communicate this need, preferably in writing, to their instructor.
