Course description	Funk is a musical style that emerged during the late 1960s and early '70s and is
•	widely considered as one of the primary influences in the development of disco, rap, hip hop, fusion, and contemporary urban and R&B styles. In addition, funk techniques have been incorporated into jazz, mainstream rock, techno, Afro-Cuban and Latin musics, a variety of Worldbeat traditions, TV soundtracks (i.e., the music for Seinfeld), teen-pop, and even adult contemporary, Christian pop and gospel, and children's programming.
	Dut formly in many them instangables unusing Harmonian During Alexander
	But funk is more than just another musical language or genre. During the 1970s and '80s artists like George Clinton positioned funk as a communal religion, in which beat, rhythm, and message merged to provide a cosmic unity.

Contemporary funk and rap musicians view the early history of the genre in almost Biblical terms, with artists like James Brown, Clinton, and Sly Stone assuming the role of funk lords and apostles.

Seen in this light, the borrowing of quotes from their songs as samples in new hiphop recordings can be seen as acts of homage and devotion by disciples who have heard The Word. As David Brackett writes in The New Grove Dictionary of Music and Musicians, "[Clinton] began to develop a cosmological narrative that proselytized the redemptive power of funk and has continued to influence numerous hip-hop musicians." Thus, as a musical language whose roots are found in the very same Afro-American styles that are at the basis of popular music—blues, R&B, gospel, and soul traditions—combined with its grandiose "theological" dimensions of influence, funk is deserving of serious study on both a global cultural level, as well as on the micro level of its musical techniques, artists, and songs themselves.

This course will follow the trajectory of funk from its roots in rhythm and blues through its classic formulation in the 1970s and will conclude with a discussion of the urban transformation and revival of funk over the last two decades. We will place funk within its cultural and social milieu, as well as examining the evolving musical characteristics of funk in some detail.

This course is intended for the general university student and neither assumes nor requires previous training in music.

Course learning outcomes

By the completion of this course, successful students will be able to:

- 1. Identify musical instruments of Funk by ear.
- 2. Recognize by ear the various song forms of Funk (12 bar blues, 12 bar blues with a bridge, A/B form, Vamp form, etc.).
- 3. Count choruses of the 12-bar blues.
- 4. Analyze and discuss the various musical procedures and techniques in songs of the genre.
- 5. Hear, recognize by ear, and be able to identify and discuss the main performers and their songs in the history of Funk music.
- 6. Differentiate the various eras and musical developments in the history of Funk music.
- 7. Recognize influences of Blues, Gospel, Jazz, Rhythm and Blues, and Soul music on the development of Funk.

	Missed or Late Assignments:
	Attendance and Participation Expectations:
	Expectations for Writing:
	Writing skills are important to academic study across all disciplines. Consequently, instructors may use their assessment of writing quality as a factor in the evaluation of student work. Please refer to the Undergraduate Calendar E.2 Writing Across the Curriculum policy for details.
Grading scale	For the course as a whole, letter grades should be understood as follows, as outlined in section F.1.Grading System and Transcripts of the Calendar:
	https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/f-1.html.
	A grade of "C-" or below may not be sufficient for promotion or graduation, see specific faculty regulations.
	 The number of "D" and "D+" grades acceptable for credit is subject to specific undergraduate faculty promotional policy.
Guidelines for Zoom Sessions	Zoom is a video conferencing program that will allow us to meet at specific times for a "live" video conference, so that we can have the opportunity to meet each other virtually
Sessions	and discuss relevant course topics as a learning community.
	To help ensure Zoom sessions are private, do not share the Zoom link or password with others, or on any social media platforms. Zoom links and passwords are only intended for students registered in the course. Zoom recordings and materials presented in Zoom, including any teaching materials, must not be shared, distributed or published without the instructor's permission.
	The use of video conferencing programs relies on participants to act ethically, honestly and with integrity; and in accordance with the principles of fairness, good faith, and respect (as per the Code of Conduct). When entering Zoom or other video conferencing sessions (such as MS Teams), you play a role in helping create an effective, safe and respectful learning environment. Please be mindful of how your behaviour in these sessions may affect others.
	Participants are required to use names officially associated with their UCID (legal or preferred names listed in the Student Centre) when engaging in these activities.
	Instructors/moderators can remove those whose names do not appear on class rosters.
	Non-compliance may be investigated under relevant University of Calgary conduct policies (e.g. Student Non-Academic Misconduct Policy). If participants have difficulties complying with this requirement, they should email the instructor of the class explaining why, so the instructor may consider whether to grant an exception, and on what terms. For more information on how to get the most out of your zoom sessions visit: https://elearn.ucalgary.ca/guidelines-for-zoom/ .
	If you are unable to attend a Zoom session, please contact your instructor to arrange an alternative activity for the missed session (e.g., to review a recorded session). Please be prepared, as best as you are able, to join class in a quiet space that will allow you to be fully present and engaged in Zoom sessions. Students will be advised by their instructor when they are expected to turn on their webcam (for group work, presentations, etc.).
	The instructor may record online Zoom class sessions for the purposes of supporting student learning in this class – such as making the recording available for review of the session or for students who miss a session. Students will be advised before the instructor initiates a recording of a Zoom session. These recordings will be used to support student
