LAND ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The University of Calgary resides upon the traditional territories of the people of the Treaty 7 region in Southern Alberta, which includes the Blackfoot Confederacy (comprising the Siksika, Piikani, and Kainai First Nations), the Tsuut'ina First Nation, and the Stoney Nakoda (including the Chiniki, Bearspaw, and Wesley First Nations). The City of Calgary is also home to Métis Nation of Alberta, Region III. The University of Calgary is situated on land adjacent to where the Bow River meets the Elbow River; the traditional Blackfoot name of this place is "Moh'kins'tsis", which we now call the City of Calgary.

ii' taa'poh'to'p, the Blackfoot name of the University of Calgary's Indigenous Strategy, was bestowed and transferred in ceremony by Kainai Elder Andy Black Water on June 21, 2017. The name signifies a place to rejuvenate and re-energize while on a journey. Traditionally, these places are recognized as safe, caring, restful – and offer renewed energy for an impending journey. In a traditional naming ceremony, transitioning into the new name is a journey of transformation towards self-actualization.

DESCRIPTION

This is an interdisciplinary course that focuses on representations of life in times of crisis, war, and major sociopolitical change in modern novel, short story, and poetry by writers and poets in Muslim majority countries. Not all the authors are believers or practitioners of Islam, but their work is influenced by their experience of living in, or in close proximity to, cultures informed by Islam. The texts chosen are from a wide range of geographical areas, and are translations. This class is discussion heavy, and it is important that you participate in the discussions having read the assigned readings.

OBJECTIVES

The main objectives of this course are, for students:

Faculty of Arts

School of Languages, Linguistics, Literatures and Cultures

- To become acquainted with the diverse range of contemporary Literature from Muslim societies
- To understand the range of history and cultural nuances of Islamic cultures
- To identify the ways in which modern literature from Muslim societies reflects the complex and interconnected relationship between religion, colonization, despotism and suffering
- To be able to contextualize literature
- To analyze texts through various theoretical lenses
- To evaluate texts in comparative terms
- To formulate their analysis of a text using multiple sources and theories
- To compose essays demonstrating their understanding of a text through close reading

To arrive at these objectives, students are asked to think about the following questions while reading the texts required for each session:

- 1) What do we know about the historical backdrop of the text?
- 2) What major sociohistorical events make up for the backdrop of this narrative?
- 3) How do major sociopolitical events affect the characters?
- 4) How do characters handle different situations?
- 5) What are the characters' relationship to their faith?
- 6) Does faith play a part in the way characters react to/ face adversities?
- 7) What sections of the text do you find more illuminating in terms of enhancing your understanding of a certain character/major event?
- 8) Did the text influence/change/ contribute to your own understanding of a specific Muslim society in any way?

COURSE NOTES

Online Class Discussion: 20% of total mark.

There are 10 discussions sessions, each is worth 1.5% of the final mark (15% of the discussion mark). You will be part of a group of 5 students randomly selected by the computer. For each discussion session, there is a section on D2L with instructions about discussions. You can email your group members and/or share a google doc with them to address those questions. Each group member can contribute to the discussion at any time, but each group must choose one person to upload the final version of their discussion to drop box 4 hours before the beginning of the upcoming synchronous class. The discussion document must have the names of all the group members + the title of the discussion session. Example:

Discussion on The Corpse Washer 1

Names:

Student A (first name+last name)

Student B (first name +last name)

Student C ...

Each group is encouraged to discuss those questions on a Google doc, and upload their final answers to D2L.

5% of the discussion mark is based on how your peers mark your contribution and participation in the group discussions. The rubric for marking your peers, is available on D2L. You should upload your peer evaluation to D2L no later than December 6.

Participatory Classroom Assignment: 10% of the total mark.

2 parts, due Sep 8 and Dec 1, D2L drop-box, 11:59 p.m. Considering that this is a participatory classroom, and that the success of a participatory classroom depends on each individual, this assignment will provide the chance for students to set out their intentions for the term, in terms of participation, engagement, and adherence to the student guidelines/braver space guidelines, and then assess whether they met those expectations. The first part of the assignment is due Sep 8, D2L, 11:59 p.m., and will consist of roughly one double-spaced page, where students give short answers to a few questions (the question page is uploaded to D2L). In it, the student will set out their plan for their level of participation, engagement, and adherence. In the second part of the assignment, which is due Dec 1, D2L, 11:59 p.m., students will begin by assigning themselves a letter grade that they believe accurately reflects their participation, adherence to student guidelines/braver space guidelines, and depth of learning. Remember: students are giving themselves a grade for the 10 percent of their mark that pertains to issues of participation and engagement, as opposed to the grade they believe they deserve for the entire course. Students will assess how well they met the expectations they set out in the first part of the assignment, and explain their rationale for the grade. The student's assessment will be considered in light of the instructor's observations, and the instructor will have final say concerning the grade.

Faculty of Arts

School of Languages, Linguistics, Literatures and Cultures

Quizzes: 20% of total mark.

2 quizzes each worth 10% of the total mark. Due by the end of the day on October 13th and December 8th. Quizzes consist of 5 questions that will be available on D2L assessment section on their respective dates. The students should give one paragraph answers to them. The quizzes are timed, but you can take them at any time on the date mentioned. Question and their order may differ for each student.

Paper Proposal: 20% of total mark.

Your final paper proposal is due Nov 17, D2L, 11:59 pm. Resources and details for writing a proposal are available on D2L.

Final Paper: 30% of total mark.

Your final Paper is due December 18, D2L, 11:59 pm. The rubric for how they will be marked are available on D2L.

You can write your paper on a topic of your choice (but still based on one of the texts discussed in class). It is highly recommended that you check the appropriateness of your chosen topic with the instructor through email before writing on it. The final paper has to have at least one primary and two secondary academic sources. The primary source is a literary/artistic work that is the main subject of analysis, and secondary sources are any academic works that you use to strengthen your argument, for example by providing evidence, historical context, or theoretical frameworks. If you are confused about the acceptability of a secondary source, contact the instructor.

Students are encouraged to start thinking about their subject for the final essay as soon as possible and discuss their ideas with the instructor if they are unsure.

The paper should be between 1250 and 1750 words. This is approximately between 5 to 7 pages, double-spaced, Times New Roman size 12 font, with one inch margins on all sides. This paper makes for 30% of your grade and is due on December 18, D2L, 11:59 pm. If for any reason you need an extension, you should notify me by email before the assignment is due, any such requests sent after

UNIVERSITY OF CALGARY
Faculty of Arts

School of Languages, Linguistics, Literatures and Cultures

the deadline will not be granted. Extensions are only given once and cannot be renegotiated. The penalty for late submission of assignments is 5% of the grade per day. Papers submitted more than five days later than the due date will receive “0”. The format of your paper should be Pdf or Word (I can not open pages files.)

The essays are graded based on the rubric that is available on D2L. Resources for writing a paper are available on D2L.

Note on the Lecture sessions:

Students are encouraged to log into live lectures and turn on their videos, although it is not required. If students attend the lectures, they can ask questions at the end. Please keep in mind that live lectures will be recorded and will be available on D2L. If you are present on live lectures you have given consent to be recorded.

The University has suspended requirements for students to provide evidence for reasons for absences. Please do not visit medical clinics for medical notes or Commissioners for Oaths for statutory declarations. Let your instructor know immediately if you are ill and cannot meet a deadline.

Failure to complete all of the required exams and assignments results in a grade of F (zero) in the course. If you complete all assignments but receive two or more Fs, the professor reserves the right to give you a final grade of F.

INTEGRITY AND CONDUCT

All members of the University community have a responsibility to familiarize themselves with the Statement on Principles of Conduct, and to comply with the University of Calgary Code of Conduct and Non-Academic Misconduct policy and procedures (available at: <http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html>).

Faculty of Arts

School of Languages, Linguistics, Literatures and Cultures

Academic misconduct

1. Plagiarism is a serious offence, the penalty for which is an F on the assignment and possibly also an F in the course, academic probation, or requirement to withdraw. Plagiarism exists when:

- a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test);
- b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author;
- c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or
- d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted.”

Plagiarism occurs not only when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement but also when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. A bibliography is insufficient to establish which portions of the student's work are taken from external sources; footnotes or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose.

2. Cheating at tests or examinations includes but is not limited to dishonest or attempted dishonest conduct such as speaking to other candidates or communicating with them under any circumstances whatsoever; bringing into the examination room any textbook, notebook, memorandum, other written material or mechanical or electronic device not authorized by the examiner; writing an examination or part of it, or consulting any person or materials outside the confines of the examination room without permission to do so, or leaving answer papers exposed to view, or persistent attempts to read other students' examination papers.

3. Other academic misconduct includes, but is not limited to, tampering or attempts to tamper with examination scripts, class work, grades and/or class records; failure to abide by directions by an instructor regarding the individuality of work handed in; the acquisition, attempted acquisition, possession, and/or distribution of examination materials or information not authorized by the instructor; the impersonation of another student in an examination or other class assignment; the falsification or fabrication of clinical or laboratory reports; the non-authorized tape recording of lectures.

4. Any student who voluntarily and consciously aids another student in the commission of one of these offences is also guilty of academic misconduct.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY AND COPYRIGHT LEGISLATION

Course materials created by instructors (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the instructor. These materials may not be reproduced, redistributed or copied without the explicit consent of the instructor. All students are required to read the University of Calgary policy on Acceptable Use of Material Protected by Copyright (<https://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/acceptable-use-of-material-protected-by-copyright.pdf>) and requirements of the Copyright Act (<https://laws-lois.justice.gc.ca/eng/acts/C->

Faculty of Arts

School of Languages, Linguistics, Literatures and Cultures

42/index.html) to ensure they are aware of the consequences of unauthorised sharing of course materials (including instructor notes, electronic versions of textbooks etc.). Students who use material protected by copyright in violation of this policy may be disciplined under the Non-Academic Misconduct Policy.

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION AND PRIVACY (FOIP) ACT

Graded assignments will be retained by the Department for three months and subsequently sent for confidential shredding. Final examinations will be kept for one calendar year and subsequently sent for confidential shredding. Said material is exclusively available to the student and to the department staff requiring to examine it. Please see <https://www.ucalgary.ca/legalservices/foip> for complete information on the disclosure of personal records.

ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATIONS

It is the student's responsibility to request academic accommodations according to the University policies and procedures listed below. The student accommodation policy can be found at: <https://ucalgary.ca/student-services/access/prospective-students/academic-accommodations>.

Students needing an Accommodation because of a Disability or medical condition should communicate this need to Student Accessibility Services in accordance with the Procedure for Accommodations for Students with Disabilities (<https://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/procedure-for-accommodations-for-students-with-disabilities.pdf>.)

Students needing an Accommodation in relation to their coursework or to fulfil requirements for a graduate degree, based on a Protected Ground other than Disability, should communicate this need, preferably in writing, to their Instructor or the Department Head/Dean or to the designated contact person in their Faculty.

Course Technology

This course is offered as an online/remote version only. Students are responsible for their own technological equipment (hardware, software, and connectivity) and must feel confident using a variety of programs and portals. The instructor does not provide technical support. If you are experiencing any technical issues, you must go through ucalgary.ca/it. All work must be completed using the online technologies designated by the instructor. Failure to complete any assignments by the deadline and according to the instructions due to technological error on the student's part is not sufficient grounds for an extension or re-take, and may result in a grade of F (0).

Students are eligible for an Office 365 subscription with their U of C IT account/email with which they may install and activate the Microsoft Office program suite on up to 5 devices. They may download the Microsoft Office installation file by signing into their email online at <https://office365.ucalgary.ca> and selecting "Install Office Apps" from their main Office 365 portal page. Once the Microsoft Office suite is installed, they may activate the license by signing in with their @ucalgary.ca email.

A D2L portal has been set up for this course that allows for group correspondence, course announcements, class materials, assignment submissions and grading, and other forms of communication. Students are expected to check D2L at least once a week for any updates. D2L only uses @ucalgary email addresses.

Other platforms, portals, and programs may be required to complete course work. Students must have the capability to stream video.

Students must be able to edit files in Google Docs and Google Slides.

During synchronous meetings, we encourage students to turn on their video interface, and avoid distractions (including technologies and screens that are not relevant to the course) in order to facilitate group connections. At the same time, we are aware that there are circumstances that do not always make this possible. We trust students to make the right decision for themselves in keeping with the Braver Space Guidelines.

Student-Instructor Communication

Appropriate communication procedures are described in detail in the Student Code of Conduct Agreement. If you have questions that you can find the answers to in the syllabus, or on the first session's recorded class, or if it is a question about any of the readings please ask in the assigned discussions section on D2L. If what you want to ask has a private nature such as personal and health related issues then email the professor. If you feel like you must talk to the instructor in person then email to schedule a zoom meeting.

Faculty of Arts

School of Languages, Linguistics, Literatures and Cultures

The instructor will endeavor to respond to emails within five business days of receiving the message. If the student emails a question that is fully addressed by the syllabus, Student Code of Conduct, or posted on D2L, the instructor will not reply. If you don't receive a response within five business days, it means you can find the answer yourself and are expected to do so.

The instructor may respond to your email query with the request that you meet online synchronously to discuss.

Please note, that the university's regular business hours are 8:30-4:30, Monday through Friday and excludes recognized holidays. See the Academic Schedule for more details:

ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/academic-schedule.html

If you have concerns about a received grade, before contacting the instructor, you must do the following:

- Review all rubrics, assignment instructions, and supporting documentation
- Be prepared to answer why you received the grade you did based on the materials listed above

Unless it is an error of fact by the instructor (not one of analysis or assessment), your grade will not change, nor will you be granted additional work or a re-take. Emails demanding a re-assessment will go unanswered.

Braver Space Guidelines

“Braver Space” principles recognize that everyone brings different resiliencies and capacities to a group setting. We must all bring our personal bravery into the course space, and be mindful of what that means specifically to us. This does not mean sharing or participating in a way that violates personal boundaries (yours or another person's), nor cajoling others into participating in ways that are not conducive to their personal bravery. It means being respectful, self-aware, and mindful of the classroom dynamic and your place in it.

Respect difference and diversity while welcoming thoughtful, critical debate and discussion. No one person's right to their beliefs may supersede another person's right to security and dignity.

When in a course dedicated to social justice education, conflict and disagreement may happen. That is part of a healthy, dynamic, questioning space of learning and discovery. You are encouraged to hold on to your own personal beliefs, but recognize that there will be differences of opinion and experience.

A university course holds high standards of research, evidence, and analytical proof. Students need to engage attentively, respectfully, and critically to the evidence provided in class lectures, readings, discussions, and other materials.

Faculty of Arts

School of Languages, Linguistics, Literatures and Cultures

Some of the materials and topics may include explicit content (violence; sexuality; profanity; blasphemy; objectionable or illegal conduct). If you feel any materials may cause you distress or severe discomfort, you are encouraged to speak with the professor and/or to take measures to ensure that you feel braver in the course. You will not be exempt from any assigned work, but we will work together to accommodate your concerns.

Do not make assumptions about other people's identities and life experiences. That includes (but is not limited to) race, gender, sexuality, physical ability, mental and emotional well-being, spirituality or religiosity, age, citizenship status, and reproductive capabilities.

Recognize that language is a powerful tool in social justice education. It also changes as new issues and greater clarity develop. If you need to correct language use, do so respectfully; if you are corrected, accept that correction respectfully.

Becoming self-aware is a continual process, and everyone is at a different point on their personal journey. Individuals make mistakes. Our assumption in this course is that we are all moving forward with our best intentions. If someone says something that may be construed to be problematic, we will raise questions and/or concerns about the language, not about the person.

Make an effort to speak from the position of "I" (not the generalized "you" or "people") and to clarify any statements you make, using verifiable evidence and experience. Making a sweeping judgment on a class or group of people is unacceptable.

Address people without assuming their gender. Some ways to do this:

- Don't refer to groups as guys, ladies, women, men, etc. Instead, use gender-neutral terms like "folks," "all," "everyone," etc.
- Refer to individuals whose gender has not been disclosed to you in gender-neutral ways such as "the person who said..."

Address people using the gender pronouns they have indicated for themselves. Offer your gender pronouns to others to make it a braver space to talk about gender pronouns. Some gender pronouns include, but are not limited to:

- they/them/theirs
- she/her/hers
- ze/hir/hirs
- he/him/his
- ey/em/eirs

Similarly, if you are unsure about any aspect of a person's identity and how they would prefer to be addressed, ask respectfully. This can apply to Indigeneity, race or ethnicity, faith or spirituality, physical or mental ability, or other vectors of their identity. When speaking in more general terms, if you are corrected, accept the correction graciously. If you are questioned about your choice of general or self-identification, provide a succinct and respectful explanation.

Faculty of Arts
School of Languages, Linguistics, Literatures and Cultures

Provide discrete and succinct content warnings if you will be talking about topics that may be traumatic for some and the content is not already apparent. Examples of such topics include abuse, violence, addiction, suicide, mental health, transphobia/homophobia/other forms of discriminatory behaviours. An example of wording could be, "Please note that there will be (x) content in my discussion."

Respect your own and others' physical, mental, and emotional boundaries. Please speak up in a respectful way if you are uncomfortable, seek support if you want/need it, and engage in self-care as required, while still maintaining your commitment to the participatory classroom.

Review and adhere to guidelines for online communication in both synchronous and asynchronous settings as provided by the instructor.
