3. Essay proposal, 5%; due in class Tues. Mar. 13. Length: one page double-spaced. Your essay proposal should clearly identify your subject, state the thesis you intend to defend, and provide a description of the argument that you intend to use to do so. (See more description of essay below.)

4. Essay, 40%; due in class, Tues., Apr. 03. Length: minimum 2500 words with deduction of a letter grade for every up to 250 words less than minimum.

Topic: A thesis about Chinese Canadians that requires support in the form of a developed argument. For example, you could defend the merits and/or detriments of an aspect of Chinese Canadian culture, such as their promotion of the Chinese language; or claim that Chinese Canadians have contributed to educational diversity in the country; or argue that Chinese Canadians are among the longest living Canadians because of their practice of Traditional Chinese Medicine.

Criteria of evaluation: Content, this includes clear identification of the subject of your thesis and essay and accuracy of the facts presented to support your argument. Organization, this includes the strength of your argument (weight of evidence and the logical connection among the points given in your essay). The essay should build support for its thesis statement. Unity is achieved by maintaining the same theme throughout the whole, or a large section, of the essay. Coherence is the smooth link between minor sections of the essay and correctness of form (e.g., having foot or endnotes, a bibliography, the use of proper grammar, etc.). Original thinking, you are strongly encouraged to present your own perspective or views. This could take the form of presenting and supporting your own thesis, or establishing a point that has not been made before. Original thinking often makes the difference between an outstanding and an average essay.

More advice on writing the essay proposal and the essay is available on D2L.

5. Submission of assignments: Please submit your proposals and essays directly to the instructor. One can submit a draft of the essay to the instructor for suggestions on how to improve it. The draft will not be graded; however, it must be submitted by Mar. 20 to be assured of receiving feedback. Partially complete essays can be submitted for suggestions. Drafts submitted after Mar. 20 may be commented on but this cannot be guaranteed. It is preferable to submit a draft electronically.

6. Policy for late assignments: deduction of a letter grade (e.g., B to B-) for essays and .5 for essay proposals for each day late. It is the student's responsibility to keep a copy of each submitted assignment. No electronic submissions will be accepted.

ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

1. Plagiarism is a serious offence, the penalty for which is an F on the assignment and possibly also an F in the course, academic probation, or requirement to withdraw. Plagiarism exists when:

- a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test);
- b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author;
- c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or
- d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted."

Plagiarism occurs not only when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement but also when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. A bibliography is insufficient to establish which portions of the student's work are taken from external sources; footnotes or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose.

2. Cheating at tests or examinations includes but is not limited to dishonest or attempted dishonest conduct such as speaking to other candidates or communicating with them under any circumstances whatsoever; bringing into the examination room any textbook, notebook, memorandum, other written material or mechanical or electronic device not authorized by the examiner; writing an examination or part of it, or consulting any person or materials outside the confines of the examination room without permission to do so, or leaving answer papers exposed to view, or persistent attempts to read other students' examination papers.

3. Other academic misconduct includes, but is not limited to, tampering or attempts to tamper with examination scripts, class work, grades and/or class records; failure to abide by directions by an instructor regarding the individuality of work handed in; the acquisition, attempted acquisition, possession, and/or distribution of examination materials or information not authorized by the instructor; the impersonation of another student in an examination or other class assignment; the falsification or fabrication of clinical or laboratory reports; the non-authorized tape recording of lectures.

4. Any student who voluntarily and consciously aids another student in the commission of one of these offences is also guilty of academic misconduct.

WRITING ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

Writing skills should cross all disciplines. Students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their courses and, where appropriate, instructors can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Centre in the Effective Writing Office (<http://www.efwr.ucalgary.ca/>) can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.
