Description

Ce cours est une exploration théorique et pratique sur les différents concepts d'analyse du discours et des discours, comme discours sociaux, communications, propagandes, idéologies, mots d'ordre, slogans, etc. Nous examinerons les nombreuses stratégies rhétoriques qui marquent tous les discours selon leur différents emplois et rôles dans l'ensemble de ces discours sociaux. Nous étudierons plus particulièrement les recherches de Marc Angenot dans ce domaine, ainsi que celles de Patrick Charaudeau sur les discours politiques, de même que les travaux de Philippe Breton sur les discours des medias. Nous appliquerons ces diverses théories à des champs discursifs variés: les champs économiques, politiques, universitaires, médiatiques, environnementaux, administratifs et autres.

Objectifs: faciliter aux étudiants l'approche de la littérature d'idée et de l'essayistique tout en les rendant conscients des innombrables formes de manipulations discursives dont nous sommes quotidiennement l'objet dans la vie sociale que se soit de la part de l'université, des institutions économiques ou du pouvoir politique. Initier les étudiants gradués à l'étude théorique de l'argumentation et des différentes logiques argumentatives qui définissent les discours contemporains. Leur enseigner à percevoir le discursif qui préside au coeur même du littéraire.

Distribution of Grades :

ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

1. Plagiarism is a serious offence, the penalty for which is an F on the assignment and possibly also an F in the course, academic probation, or requirement to withdraw. Plagiarism exists when:

- a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test);
- b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author;
- c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or
- d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted."

Plagiarism occurs not only when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement but also when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. A bibliography is insufficient to establish which portions of the student's work are taken from external sources; footnotes or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose.

2. Cheating at tests or examinations includes but is not limited to dishonest or attempted dishonest conduct such as speaking to other candidates or communicating with them under any circumstances whatsoever; bringing into the examination room any textbook, notebook, memorandum, other written material or mechanical or electronic device not authorized by the examiner; writing an examination or part of it, or consulting any person or materials outside the confines of the examination room without permission to do so, or leaving answer papers exposed to view, or persistent attempts to read other students' examination papers.

3. Other academic misconduct includes, but is not limited to, tampering or attempts to tamper with examination scripts, class work, grades and/or class records; failure to abide by directions by an instructor regarding the individuality of work handed in; the acquisition, attempted acquisition, possession, and/or distribution of examination materials or information not authorized by the instructor; the impersonation of another student in an examination or other class assignment; the falsification or fabrication of clinical or laboratory reports; the non-authorized tape recording of lectures.

4. Any student who voluntarily and consciously aids another student in the commission of one of these offences is also guilty of academic misconduct.

WRITING ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

Writing skills should cross all disciplines. Students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their courses and, where appropriate, instructors can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Centre in the Effective Writing Office (<http://www.efwr.ucalgary.ca/>) can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.
