DESCRIPTION

Marcel Reich-Ranicki, the most famous literary critic in Germany after 1945, wrote haunting pieces about German literary history from the middle ages until present. This fascinating author presented the most important German writers and their literature throughout his unique career in newspapers like the Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung. As Reich-Ranicki really knew how to make his articles and essays understandable and entertaining for a huge audience, his collected portraits of classical writers such as Gotthold Ephraim Lessing, Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, Friedrich Schiller and Friedrich Hölderlin are perfect readings for an introduction to German literary history. This course provides you not only with the most important knowledge about the key stations in German poetry and culture, but allows us to analyze popular forms of the transmission of literature in modern media: In this perspective, Marcel Reich-Ranicki is a 'classical' writer worth studying as well.

Eventually, this course could lead to a great publication project for all participating students with translation interests: The editor of the book to be used in this seminar, Thomas Anz, came up with the idea of a translated volume of selected reviews by Marcel Reich-Ranicki for an Anglophone audience, to be edited by the course's instructor. Students with special translation abilities are strongly encouraged to take part of this exciting project, following up the close readings of this semester.

OBJECTIVES

Students will learn about some of the most important writers in German literary history from the middle ages to present time. They will improve their German and analyse journalistic forms of the transmission of literature to the newspaper reading public. Moreover, the participants will learn to find and to use additional secondary literature about the writers portrayed by Marcel Reich-Ranicki, in order to compose their own papers about one of them. Additionally the course aims at introducing students to translation theory, in order to provide insights for those who plan to participate in the described publication project.

COURSE NOTES

Classroom Policies

- All numbers about the page lengths of assignments refer to the layout: double spaced, font Times / Times New Roman 12, 1 inch margins.
- Attendance and Participation are the key factors of this class. Participation means active engagement in the activities of the class (with your ideas you improve the discussions for everybody); it is based on thorough readings of the assigned texts, films, and other homework assignments. Attendance is mandatory; unexcused absences will result in a lower participation grade. The quality of the sessions will depend upon your preparedness and willingness to engage with each other. Please note that you do not have to have understood everything you have read to make a valuable contribution. Expressing doubts, disagreements, and asking for clarification is a useful way of contributing to discussion. Your class participation mark will be based on the quality rather than the quantity of your contribution. Also, it is essential that all participants treat each other with respect and courtesy. Students who feel unable to actively engage in classroom discussion must bring their concerns to the instructor's attention early so that an alternative strategy to ensure adequate performance can be sought. Unexplained absences will be penalized up to a loss of a full letter on the final grade. Also, please don't use electronic devices during class except for accessing digital copies of the required texts on a reading device, as using computers or cell phones for other purposes might distract yourself as well as those around you.

- Missed presentations, missed tests, missed deadlines: Expected to contact the instructor prior to the missed class / deadline in order to reschedule the presentation or test (phone / email) or in order to ask for an extension.
- Presentation: 1 or 2 pages-handout or a power point presentation for class to be handed in one day before presentation; 15-20 minutes of presentation in class – the topic for the presentation will be an open (group) research on a topic about a given text or a movie to discuss.
- The Ticket to Class tests the students' understanding of the assigned readings or movies to be watched. You may be asked to
 - a. come up with a good written question based on the reading
 - b. respond to a question or issue raised by the reading
- Updated reading (for example of theoretical texts or interpretations), homework as well as schedule changes will be announced in class or via e-mail.

Research paper: You will be required to write one research paper (10 pages for undergraduates, 15 pages for graduates). It will be about one of the texts or movies discussed in this class, or an aspect of these works. Topics should be discussed with the instructor beforehand, either after class, during office hours, or via e-mail.

If you are a major or graduate student in our German programs, you are encouraged to write in German; if you are not a native speaker, this will of course be taken into account. At the discretion of the instructor, a paper submitted after the deadline may be penalized with the loss of a grade (e.g.: A- to B+) for each day late.

These papers are due on Friday, December 8, 2017.

By turning in a research paper, you certify that the work is your own; that you have given proper credit and citation to the work of others; and that you have not committed any other form of plagiarism or academic dishonesty. Any case of plagiarism will result in a failing grade and possible consequences up to expulsion from U of C. For definitions of plagiarism, please see the course calendar.

Writing skills statement: All writings assignments will be marked according to content, form, analysis, and originality as well as clarity of writing including grammar, spelling, and organization.

ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

1. Plagiarism is a serious offence, the penalty for which is an F on the assignment and possibly also an F in the course, academic probation, or requirement to withdraw. Plagiarism exists when:

- a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test);
- b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author;
- c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or
- d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted."

Plagiarism occurs not only when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement but also when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. A bibliography is insufficient to establish which portions of the student's work are taken from external sources; footnotes or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose.

2. Cheating at tests or examinations includes but is not limited to dishonest or attempted dishonest conduct such as speaking to other candidates or communicating with them under any circumstances whatsoever; bringing into the examination room any textbook, notebook, memorandum, other written material or mechanical or electronic device not authorized by the examiner; writing an examination or part of it, or consulting any person or materials outside the confines of the examination room without permission to do so, or leaving answer papers exposed to view, or persistent attempts to read other students' examination papers.

3. Other academic misconduct includes, but is not limited to, tampering or attempts to tamper with examination scripts, class work, grades and/or class records; failure to abide by directions by an instructor regarding the individuality of work handed in; the acquisition, attempted acquisition, possession, and/or distribution of examination materials or information not authorized by the instructor; the impersonation of another student in an examination or other class assignment; the falsification or fabrication of clinical or laboratory reports; the non-authorized tape recording of lectures.

4. Any student who voluntarily and consciously aids another student in the commission of one of these offences is also guilty of academic misconduct.

DISABILITIES AND ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION

Students seeking an accommodation based on disability or medical concerns should contact Student Accessibility Services office at 403-210-6019 or access@ucalgary.ca; SAS will process the request and issue letters of accommodation to instructors. WRITING ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

Writing skills should cross all disciplines. Students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their courses and, where appropriate, instructors can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Centre in the Effective Writing Office (<http://www.efwr.ucalgary.ca/>) can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.
