DESCRIPTION

Introduction to contemporary urban Russian culture through research projects and life experience. This course is offered during Spring/Summer Sessions in Russia.

OBJECTIVES

Students will explore Yekaterinburg, the fourth-largest Russian cities and its cultural heritage, and get acquainted with Russian cultural icons from the Ural region. They will be encouraged to search for their own answers to questions like the following: What does it mean to be a large city of significant economic and cultural potential in a centralized country like Russia? How are human interactions, the planning, design and aesthetics of urban spaces, transportation and service infrastructures different in Calgary vs. Yekaterinburg, two vibrant cities of roughly the same size? How does Russian secondary and post-secondary education compare to their Canadian counterparts? As part of this course students will get exposure to the interaction style of educated Russians in academic setting.

OUTCOMES

Students will improve their proficiency in the Russian language, acquire in-depth knowledge of a large Russian provincial city, get first-hand experience with and an appreciation of Russian standards of urban living, develop sensitivities to cultural nuances and start adjusting their own utterances to differentiated environments.

Readings posted in D2L or handed out.

RECOMMENDED TEXTS AND MATERIALS

Russian-English dictionary (can be purchased in Russia).

COURSE NOTES

A tentative course schedule and further guidelines are posted in D2L.

Students are expected to solve at least 25 riddles over the period of the course (3 June-2 July 2017) and prove that they have solved them by taking a selfie against the background of the respective landmark and posting it in the appropriate Dropbox in D2L.

Presentations will take place at locations in the city, appropriate for their topics. The locations will be selected by the students in consultation with the instructor. Students will have 20 minutes for their presentations and will then take questions from their classmates.

Each student will contribute a chapter to our collective e-book. The choice of topic and detailed instructions are posted in D2L.

Regular attendance is strongly recommended and expected. It includes active and positive contributions to classes, taking notes and submitting them for inspection as required, and engagement with the subject matter, demonstrated for instance by asking questions. The instructor should be informed of any reasons for absence. Missed assignments and presentations will be given a grade of F unless a student can show that s/he has been absent for legitimate reasons.

ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

1. Plagiarism is a serious offence, the penalty for which is an F on the assignment and possibly also an F in the course, academic probation, or requirement to withdraw. Plagiarism exists when:
a) the work submitted or presented was done, in whole or in part, by an individual other than the one submitting or presenting the work (this includes having another impersonate the student or otherwise substituting the work of another for one's own in an examination or test);
b) parts of the work are taken from another source without reference to the original author;
c) the whole work (e.g., an essay) is copied from another source, and/or
d) a student submits or presents work in one course which has also been submitted in another course (although it may be completely original with that student) without the knowledge of or prior agreement of the instructor involved.

While it is recognized that scholarly work often involves reference to the ideas, data and conclusions of other scholars, intellectual honesty requires that such references be explicitly and clearly noted." Plagiarism occurs not only when direct quotations are taken from a source without specific acknowledgement but also when original ideas or data from the source are not acknowledged. A bibliography is insufficient to establish which portions of the student's work are taken from external sources; footnotes or other recognized forms of citation must be used for this purpose.

2. Cheating at tests or examinations includes but is not limited to dishonest or attempted dishonest conduct such as speaking to other candidates or communicating with them under any circumstances whatsoever; bringing into the examination room any textbook, notebook, memorandum, other written material or mechanical or electronic device not authorized by the examiner; writing an examination or part of it, or consulting any person or materials outside the confines of the examination room without permission to do so, or leaving answer papers exposed to view, or persistent attempts to read other students' examination papers.

3. Other academic misconduct includes, but is not limited to, tampering or attempts to tamper with examination scripts, class work, grades and/or class records; failure to abide by directions by an instructor regarding the individuality of work handed in; the acquisition, attempted acquisition, possession, and/or distribution of examination materials or information not authorized by the instructor; the impersonation of another student in an examination or other class assignment; the falsification or fabrication of clinical or laboratory reports; the non-authorized tape recording of lectures.

4. Any student who voluntarily and consciously aids another student in the commission of one of these offences is also guilty of academic misconduct.

DISABILITIES AND ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION

It is the student's responsibility to request academic accommodations. Students with a documented disability who may require academic accommodation and have not registered with the Disability Resource Centre should contact their office at 220-8237. Students who have not registered with the Disability Resource Centre are not eligible for formal academic accommodation. Students also required to discuss their needs with the instructor no later than fourteen (14) days after the start of this course.

WRITING ACROSS THE CURRICULUM

Writing skills should cross all disciplines. Students are expected to do a substantial amount of writing in their courses and, where appropriate, instructors can and should use writing and the grading thereof as a factor in the evaluation of student work. The services provided by the Writing Centre in the Effective Writing Office (<http://www.efwr.ucalgary.ca/>) can be utilized by all undergraduate and graduate students who feel they require further assistance.
