Course Description

This course examines the conceptions of rights and freedoms in the liberal tradition, beginning with J.S. Mill and moving on to discuss the critiques and new directions that have been put forward by Will Kymlicka, John Rawls, Martha Nussbaum and others. We examine the implications of these theories for contemporary socio-legal problems around such issues as drug use, prostitution, campaign finance, health care and educational opportunities for the disabled.

Objectives of the Course

Students are to gain a detailed understanding of liberalism and its workings in Canada, with some comparisons to other jurisdictions. They will enhance their analytical skills and craft thoughtful, coherent, creative arguments about liberalism and its real-world manifestations.

Textbooks and Readings:

Cases and various other readings will be made available through the course website. The following books will be used:

- John Stuart Mill, On Liberty (1859) – available on the internet, with links identified on the course website; some used copies will also be available at the bookstore
- John Rawls, Justice as Fairness: A Restatement, ed. Erin Kelly (Belknap Press, 2001) – also available through the library

Assignments and Evaluation

- Midterm 1: Tuesday, October 11, 2016 – (25%), closed book
- Midterm 2: Tuesday, November 8, 2016 – (25%), closed book
- Special topics bash: various dates (15%) – see below
- Final exam (35%) – registrar-scheduled final exam period, closed book

Special topics bash:

On three dates in the term, we will have what I am calling a special topics bash:

Tuesday, October 6

Tuesday, November 1

Thursday, November 24

In each of those class periods, approximately a third of the class will debate a set of questions about a particular case or two. The questions and preparatory reading materials will be made available in advance on D2L, and they will be aimed at focusing the class's attention on the key issues in the case(s). Students will be each be assigned to address particular questions in one bash, although they can switch to a different day with instructor permission. Evaluation will chiefly be on students' oral contributions to the debate, but students who wish to do so will have until one week after the bash to submit optional written follow-up thoughts to the D2L dropbox.

The grade for the course and whether or not a student passes it will be based on the student's accumulated score and will not depend on passing any particular component of the course.

The main Sociology Department office does not deal with any course-related matters. Please speak directly to your instructor.

Registrar-scheduled Final Examination: Yes

Please note: If your class is held in the evening, the Registrar's Office will make every attempt to schedule the final exam during the evening; however, there is NO guarantee that the exam will NOT be scheduled during the day.

Policy for Late Assignments

Comments on special topics bashes that are submitted late will be deeply discounted for lateness.

Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act

This course is conducted in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (FOIP). As one consequence, students should identify themselves on all written work by using their ID number. Anything that requires handing back will be returned directly to students in class or during the instructor's office hours. The main Sociology Department office does not receive or return assignments or tests. If students are unable to pick up their work from the instructor, they should provide the instructor with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to be used for the return of the work.

Schedule of Lectures and Readings

The schedule of lectures and readings will be posted on the course website prior to the commencement of classes.

Ethical Research

Students are advised that any research with human subjects – including any interviewing (even with friends and family), opinion polling, or unobtrusive observation – must have the approval of the Departmental Ethics Committee. In completing course requirements, students must not undertake any human subjects research without discussing their plans with the instructor, to determine if ethics approval is required. No research involving human subjects will be performed in this course.

Deferrals

If possible, please provide advance notice to the instructor if you are unable to write an exam or complete an assignment on time. All health-related requests for deferrals must be accompanied by written documentation as outlined in the University Calendar and should be obtained while the student has the health issue rather than after recovery. Deferrals will be allowed for illness, domestic affliction or religious conviction. Travel arrangements and misreading of the syllabus are not valid reasons for requesting a deferral. If you have missed a test for a legitimate reason, the instructor can require you to write a “make up” test as close in time to the original test as possible or can choose to transfer the percentage weight to another course component. If the instructor schedules a

“make up” test for you, its date and location will be at the convenience of the Department of Sociology.

Deferred Final Exams: Please note that requests to defer a Registrar-scheduled final exam are dealt with through the Registrar’s Office. Further information about deadlines, and where paperwork should be taken, is available on the form, which can be found at <https://www.ucalgary.ca/registrar/student-forms>.

Deferred Term Work: Deferral of term work past the end of a term also requires filling out a form. The form is available at https://www.ucalgary.ca/registrar/files/registrar/deferred_termwork15_0.pdf. Once a new due date has been agreed to between instructor and student, the form should be taken to the Faculty of Arts Program Information Centre (SS 110) for approval by an Associate Dean (Students).

Internet and Electronic Device Information

Students may use their computers in class for taking notes, following the PowerPoint outlines of lectures, and other purposes related to the class. You may not record the class without the instructor’s permission. Cell phones are not to be used for calls, texting or purposes unrelated to the class.

Plagiarism

Using any source whatsoever without clearly documenting it is a serious academic offense. Consequences include failure on the assignment, failure in the course and possibly suspension or expulsion from the university.

You must document not only direct quotations but also paraphrases and ideas where they appear in your text. A reference list at the end is insufficient by itself. Readers must be able to tell exactly where your words and ideas end and other people’s words and ideas begin. This includes assignments submitted in non-traditional formats such as Web pages or visual media, and material taken from such sources.

Please consult your instructor if you have any questions regarding how to document sources.

Academic Misconduct

For information on academic misconduct and the consequences thereof please see the current University of Calgary Calendar at the following link:
