COURSE OUTLINE

SYLLABUS STATEMENT

Examines concepts of culture, identity, oppression and "differentness" in relationship to theories of social justice, at all levels of professional practice.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Social justice is the unifying value of diverse forms of social work practice and is situated in the historical and moral base of the profession. This course requires students to critically examine theoretical perspectives of social justice in order to evaluate and articulate its application in their current practice. Students will identify how their assumptions and social location affect their pursuit of social justice while simultaneously examining structural and system barriers to achieving a more just society.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES (CLOs)

At the end of this course students will be able to:

1. Critique theories of justice, power, and inequity and their roles in shaping oppressive social structures and unbalanced power relations.
2. Critically examine issues of diversity and power relations that form common links among the experiences of oppression and marginalization in Canada and internationally.
3. Demonstrate, identify and articulate a social work identity, with emphasis on social justice, social work values and knowledge.
4. Demonstrate a critical understanding of oppressive social structures and the role that anti-oppressive social work theories and practices can play in facilitating resistance that lead to social justice and transformation.
5. Apply an anti-oppressive perspective, grounded in theory, research and evidence-based knowledge to their own practice.
6. Advocate for social justice and the social well-being of all peoples, and in particular vulnerable or disadvantaged individuals, groups, and communities.
7. Identify strategies for applying course learning.

RELATIONSHIP TO OTHER COURSES

The Advanced Practice Core curriculum consists of 4 theme courses, SOWK 600, 602, 604, and 606, which will explore core elements of social work knowledge and practice within the specializations. This curriculum will examine social justice, research strategies, social work practice models, and public policy with the intent of further developing students' unique social work perspective and strengthening their social work identity and personal practice framework. These courses also provide the foundation for the specialization as well as for the field education component leading to the final capstone project.

LEARNING TECHNOLOGIES AND REQUIREMENTS

A D2L site has been set up for this course which contains required readings and other relevant class resources and materials.

Zoom will be used for all synchronous classes. Zoom and/or D2L will be used for asynchronous sessions. To actively participate in these sessions, you will need a laptop, desktop or mobile device with Internet access, a camera, and headphones/earbuds.

Guidelines for Zoom Sessions in Online Classes

Students are expected to participate actively in all Zoom sessions. If you are unable to attend a Zoom session, please contact your instructor to arrange an alternative activity for the missed session.

Due to the sensitive nature of this course and the type of conversations we will have in this class, no sessions will be recorded and students who miss class for various reasons, can make arrangements with the instructor and/or any of their classmates to make up missed material.

In addition, students are expected to use computers to sign in to class and adhere to online protocols in professional manners. This includes signing into class from a private and quiet place with no background noise or disruptive sounds (as best as you are able) which will allow you to be fully present and engaged in Zoom sessions. Cameras are expected to be on all the time, unless necessary to preserve confidentiality or privacy. This is a graduate level seminar and students' active participation in class discussions is expected at all time.

Considering the nature of this graduate level seminar, there is an emphasis on students' output in class and collaborative spaces of engaged learning. No slides will be shared or posted on D2L as this is not a lecture style format.

CLASS SCHEDULE

Please note that the class schedule consists of synchronous AND asynchronous (group work, readings, D2L activities) sessions on May 6th, May 8th, May 13th, May 15th, May 20th and May 22nd.

Students are expected to attend the morning Zoom sessions and have the option of meeting with group members in the afternoon using Zoom. The instructor will be available for consultation during the asynchronous afternoon sessions.

Attending the morning and afternoon poster presentations on May 22nd is required and students are expected to support each other and engage in collegial and collective learning process during the poster presentation session.

READINGS

No textbook is required for this course. A list of required and recommended readings is provided by topic after the class schedule. As this is a graduate level seminar, students are expected to read through the material in preparation for participating in classroom and online discussions. Students are asked to do the readings of at least two of the recommended readings by topic. The readings are accessible through library.ucalgary.ca.

A list of additional recommended readings will be shared on D2L and students are encouraged to access this list and utilize them in their class engagement and assignments.

ASSESSMENT COMPONENTS

Please note that throughout the term, there will be many opportunities to discuss all assignments in detail including objectives, expectations, demonstration of learnings and grading criteria. Please note the following criteria for all assignments:

- All submitted work must follow proper APA format (7th edition) within the text and in the reference list. Failure to do so will result in significant deduction of grades.
- Assignments and papers are to be submitted on time, absolutely NO extensions, unless legitimate reasons are provided and supported by official documentation.
- Late assignments will be downgraded by 2% of the assignment grade per day including weekends, holidays and study week days.
- There is a seven-day maximum limit by which to accept late assignments when students have not asked for extensions. No assignments will be accepted beyond this seven-day limit.
- Under normal circumstances, assignments will be graded and returned to students within three weeks from the day they are submitted.
- Students are responsible for attaching the appropriate file to the dropbox folder and the instructor holds the right to accept or reject wrongfully attached files that do not match assignment requirements.

Students are encouraged to email or communicate on D2L with the instructor throughout the seminar. Please note that email communication is a form of professional communication and reflects a culture of respect and professional mannerism. Students are expected to adhere to professional codes of conduct when communicating via email with their peers and instructors. As per the University of Calgary policy, all communication with the instructor must be done through the U of C email address, and the instructor maintains the rights not to respond to communications through personal email addresses. Please allow up to 48 hours for response time to your email communications.

Assignment 1: Zoom and D2L Participation & Engagement (10%) .....Ongoing

This assignment aims to encourage students to actively engage in class discussions and help establish co-learning spaces. In concrete ways, this assignment aims to help students engage and actively participate during zoom and asynchronous sessions in ways that help them develop their facilitation, active listening and reflections of critical conversations. Grades will be based on the student’s ongoing and active contributions in the synchronous and asynchronous activities. In particular, students will be expected to contribute new insights, content and critique, as well as connections to their field of practice. Active engagement is measured by how students engage in creating and facilitating a collective space of learning and not by the quantity of their contributions to class discussions. This includes recognizing how ideas are shared to foster a collective space of engagement and critical interactions as well as the mindfulness of dominating a space and sharing opinions. Such reflexive process of creating knowledge exchange spaces would foster a co-learning environment that account for all ideas available in class in clear and concrete ways.

Assignment 2: Poster Development & Presentation: A Social Justice Analysis of Policy

This experiential learning and skill-based assignment consists of three components to help students critically engage with the tensions associated with knowledge production and consumption as they relate to policy development and implementation. In this assignment, students are encouraged to become active participants of knowledge production, evaluation and dissemination in ways that are consistent with social justice values and principles discussed in class.

In this skill-based assignment, students are to work in groups of 4-5 members and conduct a critical analysis of a policy from social justice perspectives. Students are expected to collaborate and engage with a process of interrogating a social policy of their choice by examining its impacts on issues related to marginalization and oppression. This assignment will help students actively engage and navigate the tensions between knowledge production and consumption and allow them to develop critical and necessary skills to examine policies and discuss their applications beyond policy texts and requirements. This assignment composed of three distinct parts: 1) Identifying a policy that address issues of marginalization for social groups and develop a poster presentation demonstrating your analysis and critiques of the policy and its application; ongoing discussion of the groups' critical analysis of chosen policy and grounding your analysis within relevant bodies of scholarship; 2) Present your poster on the designated day & 3) Offering peer-reviews and feedback on other colleagues' posters.

Students are encouraged to become active participants of knowledge production, evaluation and dissemination in ways that are consistent with social justice values and principles discussed in the course. Students are also asked to interrogate the tensions and contradictions that emerge for them as they unpack the theoretical, epistemological and practice assumptions guiding the course. The purpose of this assignment is to help students not only trace their own learnings, but also engage with how such learnings can be disseminated theoretically in ways that legitimize their own interpretations and analysis of the issues and ideas they examine. In addition, this assignment will help students develop their skills to actively engage with interrogating policies and examine the tensions between policy texts and their implementations within various practice settings. Particular emphasis will be placed on how students integrate their learnings from the course into all parts of this assignment.

During the first class, the instructor will provide the list of policy areas from which to choose a topic and self-assign to a group. Once groups are formed, a dedicated group page will be created on D2L for each group.

Please ensure to apply your teamwork skills to collaborate with others and support one another in each of the following part. Dedicated asynchronous times are put in place so that students will have opportunities to meet with group members and with the instructor in support of this poster assignments.

Assignment 2 Part I: Development & Rational of the Selected Social Policy (20%) .....Due: May 15th

For Part I, students will engage with how their course learnings inform their critical analysis lens though a poster presentation. Presenters will be expected to integrate classroom material (lectures, discussions, readings and classroom activities) into their presentation. Specific attention will be paid to presenters' chosen policy and how they ground their analysis within critical theoretical frameworks we discuss in class as well as how they ground their analysis of their chosen policy within relevant bodies of scholarship.

The poster is assumed to be a scholarly presentation and students are expected to demonstrate academic rigor in the ways to develop their poster and engage with the learnings as they unfold. Students are also encouraged to critically examine ethics and ethical tensions as they shape social work practice approaches when working with diverse and marginalized individuals and social groups in their chosen areas of practice and communities. Students are expected to apply and critically engage and reflexively apply their own learning from the course to inform their practice approaches with diverse and marginalized individuals and social groups. The content should trace their own learnings from the course and about own and systemic assumptions and interrogate the tension and contradictions that emerge from the unpacking of the theoretical, epistemological and practice assumptions. Students are encouraged to legitimize their own interpretations and analysis of the policy at hand from a social justice lens and through a consolidated poster.

In Part I, students in each formed group are asked to identify and agree on a local, national or international social welfare policy. Students must develop and share a list of 10 online resources (e.g. videos, resources, policy briefs, podcasts, etc.) that they will actively engage with to critically analyze and develop their posters. Students are expected to share this list on D2L along with a 2-3 page rationale for why they have selected the policy and related sources, and offer a short discussion on why and how each source informs their theoretical and epistemological understandings of their chosen social policy. The 2-3 page rationale must include proper APA 7th edition formatting and referencing.

The purpose of this assignment is to provide students with the opportunity to utilize their learnings from class to engage in critical policy analysis and examination as they apply to social justice issues and lenses. In other words, groups are encouraged to carry forward their discussions and build on their ideas to advance a critical examination of their chosen policies. Specifically, for this group poster presentation, students are asked to choose any local, national or international social welfare policy and examine it through a critical social justice lens based on the key concepts, themes and ideas we discussed in the course. Presenters will be expected to integrate classroom material (lectures, discussions, readings and classroom activities) into their poster presentations. Specific attention will be paid to presenters' chosen policy and how they ground their analysis within critical theoretical frameworks we discussed in class. Attention also will be paid to presenters' way of 1) articulating their analysis of the chosen policy; 2) its relevance to advancing social justice and transformation; 3) its ability to challenge oppression and marginalization of affected social groups; 4) its applicability to social work practice; 5) how the group examines the flows, the tensions or contradictions inherent between policy text and its application. Key questions to consider include, 1) what perspectives drive policy development and application? 2) How would such policy respond to the needs it is set to address? In addition, presenters are encouraged to use any creative presentation formats they are comfortable with to illustrate their ideas and demonstrate their findings and analysis.

Assignment 2 Part II: Presenting Your Poster (20%) .....Due: May 22nd

On May 22nd, groups will present their posters to the class. Groups will be given 30 minutes to present their posters. Students are expected to integrate Assignment 2: Part I into their presentations. Following each presentation, group members will be asked a series of questions from peers and the instructor.

Group members will be asked questions that help them articulate how they have integrated their learnings from the course into practice settings. In addition, students are expected to demonstrate scholarly theoretical rigor that shows their ways of examining the issues presented and illustrates their practice approaches with diverse and marginalized individuals and social groups. Students also are encouraged to highlight the role social work knowledge base plays in shaping their responses to issues of marginality. Students are encouraged to position their approaches within critical anti-oppressive and social justice oriented social work practice. Some guiding questions that students might integrate into their poster include: what perspectives drive policy development and application? And how would such policy respond to the needs it is set to address?

Key expectations in this assignment include the groups' abilities to respond to, engage with and critically interrogate the following points:

- Sharing your poster resources (Assignment 1: Part 2)
- Application of critical and social justice analysis of the chosen policy
- Issues of eligibility and entitlement
- Issues of access to social services, health care system, and any other relevant social service
- Key stakeholders informing and affecting this policy
- Responses to the policy by activist groups and affected communities
- Current trends and debates affecting the policy and its reach
- Ability to challenge oppression and marginalization of affected social groups
- Applicability to social work practice
- Examination of the flows, the tensions or contradictions inherent between policy text and its application (e.g. tensions between policy texts and how they are applied)

All presenters are encouraged to use their creativity to enhance the curiosity of other students and engage critical discussions. In addition, attention will be paid to teamwork, flow of ideas and the active engagement of other students on the presented topic. Students are expected to submit all their presentation slides, and a complete list of references consulted on May 21st. Grades are assigned to the entire group.

Assignment 2 Part III: Offering Peer-Reviews to Colleagues (10%) ..... Due: May 15 & May 23rd

Part III invites students to critically engage with the poster development and presentation process through a theoretically and epistemologically sound peer-review. Groups will review one poster development on May 15th, and one poster on May 22nd. Group reviews should be 1-page and incorporate critical analysis of the content presented and offer concrete examination of the knowledge presented, arguments advanced and findings discussed. Reviews also should provide some feedback on the presentation style and aesthetics of the posters as a way to connect to the ideas and arguments in these posters. Reviewers' forms will be distributed at the start of the review process.

The purpose of this part of this assignment is two folds: First, it would help students actively engage with peer-review process as a way to develop their own posters and offer some concrete directions to peers to help improve their posters.

Assignment 3: Social Justice Theories: Understanding & Application (40%) .....Due: by May 29th

In this final assignment, students are to write a theoretical paper where they build on the theories and knowledge learned throughout the term to develop their own theoretical and practice frameworks. Specifically, using concepts from our course readings and class discussions related to theories of power, issues of diversity and oppression, ways of resistance, students are expected to apply their own understanding of these concepts to practice examples related to issues of marginalization and oppression they have witnessed or engaged with. Students are encouraged to use examples from past field placements, past/present social work practice, a form of political engagement or an example of social activism they are involved with to present a critical incident/event where they witnessed or faced injustice as they relate to marginalized social groups. These (in)justice or critical incident/events are to be examined and interrogated to help students develop their theoretical approaches understanding and to addressing such events. Specifically, students are encouraged to use scholarly literature to explain their understanding of the critical events/incidents they witnessed or faced and discuss the potential impacts on those affected by such events. Students must move away from rhetorical discussion of marginalization and oppression and concretely engage in a sound and comprehensive theoretical analysis of the issues they examine. In addition, students are expected to ground their discussion within relevant theoretical frameworks as they unpack the events/incidents they examine and discuss how they choose to address them and provide a sound rationale of their theoretical approaches to practice.

The focus of this assignment is to engage in an analysis of power dynamics of the issue examined and discuss how they shape interactions within and between diverse social groups. Also important is to highlight methods and strategies of resistance and how they can shape social work practice especially when addressing issues related to social justice and transformation as they relate to marginalized and oppressed social groups. Students might consider the potential risks, challenges, and opportunities for transformation when connecting their theoretical approaches to practice as they relate to the incident/events they presented. Students will then be asked to describe practical steps they will take to respond or address the identified injustice (time, place, tactics, etc.). Students must also discuss their thoughts and feelings in relation to the action they are choosing to take as well as their critical reflection of their role as a social worker engaged in addressing the issues discussed. Examples of your reflections should include your thoughts on the challenges, opportunities as well as the ethical and professional tensions and considerations that shape your interventions and inform your practice.

Papers will be graded based on integration of course readings and classroom content, critical analysis, originality of ideas, abilities to apply theories into practice, APA mechanics, organization and clarity. In addition, papers will be graded based on students' abilities to ground their discussion and analysis of relevant bodies of scholarship (outside sources) as well as their abilities to critically apply concepts and theories in a deep, sound and scholarly ways beyond descriptive discussions of these concepts. Grading criteria also include clarity of ideas discussed, originality and reflective approaches to the ideas examined. More details about this assignment, expectations and grading criteria will be discussed in class. The paper should be 5-7 pages long maximum, double spaced, 12 points, properly sourced using APA 7th edition referencing style. The paper is due by May 29th and should be submitted through D2L.
